SAFE CITY, PLEDGE OF CERMAK

BRITAIN TO TAX LAND VALUES AS FINANCIAL CURE

Scheme Big Feature of Snowden Budget.

BY JOHN STEELE.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, April 27.—The ghost of Henry George, American social reformer of forty years ago and protagonist of taxation of land values, stalked in parliament today when, for the first time in any great nation, his scheme was adopted as a panacea and as a part of a national policy. Taxation of land values was the only sensational feature of the budget introduced by Chancellor of the Exchequer Philip Snowden.

PHILIP SNOWDEN. [Acme Photo.]

Mr. Snowden, who only recently arose from his sick bed, drove in from the country house and rested in a private room for a couple of hours before entering the chamber. He was pale and wan and leaned on his two sticks. When he entered the house a cheery cheer from all sections greeted him. He stood at a table for the full hour and ten minutes it took to deliver the budget speech. Mrs. Snowden and the chancellor's doctors watched from the gallery.

Gasoline Tax Increased.

The only new tax in the budget, in addition to the land tax, is an increase of four cents per gallon in the tax on gasoline. This makes a total tax of 12 cents on gasoline.

There will be no increase in income tax, but, in order to get as much money as possible this year, the taxpayers, who have been allowed to pay half in January and half in June, will now have to pay three quarters in January and one quarter in June. This will enable the exchequer to get an extra 10,000,000 pounds [$48,650,000] within the coming fiscal year, which runs from May. By next year it is hoped trade will have improved sufficiently to make up the deficit.

Will Use Fund in U. S.

Mr. Snowden will get another 20,000,000 pounds [$97,200,000] from the exchange stabilization fund of 33,000,000 pounds [$159,390,000] now on deposit in New York for the purchase of dollars when the price is advantageous for the payment of the American debt. The whole sum is now to be transferred to the Bank for International Settlements and $97,200,000 will be withdrawn, leaving $62,180,000 on deposit for use if needed.

Beer, tobacco, and tea, which rumor had said would bear heavier taxes, escaped any advance, thus avoiding criticism from the working classes.

The land tax plan, Mr. Snowden explained, had been one of his dreams for many years. The present land system, he said, is unjust and a burden to trade and industry, and direct taxation of land values would prove a remedy. He proposed to set up machinery for national valuation, which probably would take two years. When the valuation is completed the tax would be one penny per pound on the capital value.

Laborites Cheer Plan.

The announcement was received with tremendous cheering by the Laborites and Liberals, and in glum silence by the ranks of the Tory landlords on the Conservative benches who are expected to fight the scheme bitterly. Strong opposition also is expected in the house of lords, where many great land owners are represented.

The year's financial statement, which was released simultaneously with the budget, was a disappointment to the pessimists who had predicted that it would show national bankruptcy. Mr. Snowden explained that the deficit of 23,000,000 pounds [$111,510,000] shown in the statement is really a surplus, as about $277,020,000 from income taxes and $92,340,000 from the German mobilization loan have been applied to debt reduction.

Plans to Reduce Sinking Fund.

He proposed to take a leaf from his predecessor, William Gladstone, and reduce the amount of the sinking fund this year so as to make it easier to balance the budget. The total debt charge, therefore, will be only $1,725,900,000 for interest and repayment of principal.

The total estimated expenditure for the coming year is $8,904,364,760, and revenue, on the present basis of taxation, $8,722,780,000, leaving a deficit of $181,584,760 to be made up by the economies provided in the budget.

SCIENTIST, VICTIM OF X-RAY, ORDERS HIS ARM CUT OFF

[Copyright: 1931: By the New York Times.]

VIENNA, April 27.—To put an end to the constant minor operations on his right arm, rendered necessary by the effects of years of Roentgen ray experiments, Prof. Guido Holzknecht, one of the world's best known pioneers in this line, has had the whole limb amputated. He is recovering in a Vienna sanatorium and has ordered the construction of a special artificial arm which he believes will enable him to carry on his work.

Dr. Holzknecht had suffered so many burnings of his right hand and arm in the course of his researches that he had already largely lost their use. Deciding that further work with the damaged arm was impossible, he asked a friend, Dr. Winkelhaur, to remove it.

"The surgeon did a very good job," Dr. Holzknecht said. "I still have a highly usable stump, to which a number of useful artifical substitutes can be attached."

Bomb Damages Café; Jars Gold Coast Homes

The explosion of a black powder bomb in the restaurant of Joseph Weinberg, 1055 West Fulton street, shortly before 3 o'clock this morning jarred the city for a mile in every direction from the place, but did less than $1,000 damage. The explosion was heard by residents in the neighborhood of the Drake hotel and by the coast guard station at the mouth of the river. The plate glass windows of the restaurant were blown out. No one was in the place at the time.

Find Revolver Shell at Scene of Faro Killing

South Bend, Ind., April 27.—[Special.]—Search for clews in the murder of George L. Perry, ringleader in the Blackledge-Litsinger $50,000 faro swindle, today was rewarded by the finding of a .25 caliber pistol shell near the scene of the slaying.

Officials were unable to determine whether the the bullet which pierced Perry's head came from the shell, but pressed a search for the slug. If it is found it will be sent to Chicago for ballistics tests.

The shell was found in shrubbery in the back yard of John Canniff, Perry's father-in-law, and not far from the spot where Mrs. Ruth Canniff Perry was standing last Friday night when her husband was slain.

Another Possible Clew.

Another avenue which authorities hoped might lead to the capture of the slayers of Perry, was opened tonight by a coincidence.

Dr. George L. Perry, a physician of Portland, Ind., a town 100 miles south of South Bend, reading in a newspaper of the murder of the gambler with a name identical to his own, telephoned Capt. Horace M. Hamilton, head of the South Bend detective bureau, supplying the new clew.

On April 12, the physician revealed, he received an anonymous letter, mailed in Portland and warning him an attempt was being plotted against his life. The letter writer, Dr. Perry said, explained that on the previous day while traveling on a bus near Muncie, Ind., he overheard two men discussing a George Perry.

Plotters Are Quoted.

"We'll have to knock him off before April 23 if we do the job at all," the anonymous writer quoted one of the pair as saying. (Perry was killed the night of April 24.)

Concluding that the death plot was directed at Dr. Perry, of whom he knew as a fellow townsman, the writer mailed the note to put the physician on his guard. Dr. Perry came forward with the information today to assist officers working on the murder.

Lacking more substantial clews, Coroner J. B. Bolka, who, with Sheriff Walter Fegan, is directing the in-

HOWARD OFFERS SOMETHING NEW FOR HAPPY HOME

Among such names as Elihu Burritt, who invented the sewing machine; Marconi, the radio; Morse, the telegraph; Bell, the telephone, and so on and so forth and etcetera, there may be room pretty well up on the roster for the name of Howard Lietzman, who resides at 148 South Albany avenue.

Mr. Lietzman did not invent the home brewery. He did not devise the private still. He is not the father of grape juice which turns to wine. He did not design the pocket flask. But last night he stood forth as a startling contributor to that growing list of Volstead requirements.

He invented the home hoosegow.

Last evening Mr. Lietzman invited the Messrs Clyde Secrest of 4300 Carroll avenue and Charles Willhoyt of 3113 5th avenue to come out and have something. It was reported later that Secrest overdid himself. In his zeal he picked up a chair and offered to mash the radio. Lietzman overpowered him. Then he bore him off to the basement, where reposes Lietzman's gift to Bacchus. It is a private jail. Secrest was bound up in strips of surgeon's tape which kept him quiet and there he stayed. Lietzman snapped a padlock on the cell door and returned to the merrymaking.

But in the meantime Willhoyt, fearing, perhaps, that he would be next for the home hoosegow, had telephoned the Warren avenue police station. The patrol came and, releasing Secrest, bore off all three celebrants to the legally maintained jail.

"I built the cell room to hold my guests when they get noisy and disturb the neighbors or try to break up the furniture," explained Lietzman. "It has been a success until now."

All three men were charged with disorderly conduct. They will be arraigned in the Des Plaines street court today.

50 CENTS A YEAR MAYOR, TWO BIT COUNCIL SEATED

Hooperston, Ill., April 27.—[Special.]—It was pay day in Hooperston tonight for members of the city council. Mayor Fred E. Earel pocketed his second fifty cent piece for his two years in municipal service before turning over the gavel to his successor, Emory H. Richcreek, wealthy real estate man, who started a two year term for which he will be paid at the rate of fifty cents a year.

Eight aldermen drew two bits each from the well filled city treasury for their salaries during the last year. Two new aldermen, one of them a millionaire banker, were inducted into office.

LOOP WILL ECHO WITH MUSIC AS JUBILEE EVENT

Choral Societies to Serenade Crowds.

More than 2,000 trained voices grouped into twenty choral units will fill the loop with music on the night of May 14, the fourth night of the Chicago Jubilee.

For two hours the downtown district, familiar with the harsh clang of traffic, will echo to sweet strains as the choral groups wander along the thoroughfares like civic minstrels. The night will be one of vocal melody, featured by outdoor concerts at prominent street intersections. Everywhere crowds will be serenaded, and the songs will bear the pulsating tempo of Chicago's revived realizations and ambitions.

F. J. ASHLEY.

A proclamation by Mayor Cermak was adopted by the city council last night officially declaring May 10 to May 20 to be "Chicago Jubilee week." The Jubilee proper will open May 11 and extend to May 20 to include the huge army air show. May 10 will be marked by church observances.

Part of Cermak Program.

Plans for the "night of music" were announced yesterday by Frederick J. Ashley, chairman of the Chicago Association of Commerce coordinating committee in charge of the Chicago Jubilee. The festivities will be connected with the planned outdoor appearance of Mayor Anton J. Cermak on the same night.

Tentative arrangements are for the new mayor to make his first public bow on a rostrum at La Salle and Randolph streets. United States Senator James Hamilton Lewis has promised to appear with him. Other leading citizens will also be there.

The different choral units will circulate through the loop in buses loaned to the Association of Commerce by Garrett T. Seeley, general manager of the Chicago Motor Coach company. There will be police escorts, and the singing societies will move on schedule from corner to corner giving 10 to 15 minute concerts.

All to Join at Finish.

At a final focal point, possibly State street and Wacker drive, all will converge, and 2,000 voices will lift to the skies joint paeans of praise and cheer for Chicago as exemplified by the Chicago Jubilee. Five tentative concert corners are State street and Wacker drive; Randolph and State streets; Madison and State streets; Clark and Madison streets, and Clark and Randolph streets.

Some of the groups which will participate are the Illinois Male chorus, Metropolitan church chorus, Mundy choristers, National Jubilee singers, Park Manor Congregational choir, Pilgrim Baptist chorus, Umbrian Glee club, Civic Centennial chorus, Federal Glee club, Civic Music association, Tinsley Harmonic Choral society, T. P. Bryant Choral club, Dett Male Glee club, and the Illinois Catholic Women's chorus. Colored as well as white groups are represented in this list.

Plans Outburst of Noise.

There will be one night at least during the pageant in which sound will not be purely harmonious. That night, May 11, just before the big parade, will be featured by the noisiest five minutes in Chicago history, louder by far than on another 11th day of a month, Nov. 11, 1918, when the armistice was signed.

At 7:25 p. m. all Chicago from the tiniest peanut vendor's whistle to the mightiest steamboat blast will burst into one prolonged roar. It will signalize the opening of the Chicago Jubilee. Locomotives in yards, locomotives on schedule, tugs, factories, and auto sirens will unite in a screaming cheer. Train bells, fire bells, church bells, and street car bells will clang in a brassy and discordant anthem. The Chicago and North Western, the Illinois Central, the Burlington, the Alton, and all other railroads have promised to loose full pressure on locomotive steam whistles for the occasion.

The noisy rumpus will continue for five minutes. At 7:30 the Chicago Jubilee parade will begin, probably at Michigan avenue and Superior street. Music will supplant the sound furor, as numerous bands, following the leading band of 200 men of the Chicago Federation of Musicians, play along

A Grandchild Presents New Mayor to City

BY KATHLEEN M'LAUGHLIN.

Officially and orally, the feminine place in the civic spotlight at the inaugural ceremonies was filled last night by a capable young miss of only twelve summers. Three daughters provided a family background for Mayor Cermak as he formally took over his new responsibilities, but Vivian Graham, the little granddaughter who earned her spurs as a "stump speaker" in his campaign days, stood by his side in the foreground.

It was Vivian, supremely happy but with a ring instead of a quiver in her clear childish voice, to whom fell the honor of presenting "my grandad" to the jammed masses of humanity inside the council chamber, the throngs in the corridors downstairs, and the uncounted legions of radio listeners. She did it simply, gracefully, without a flourish. Her brief remarks were in their own way as pungent and as purposeful as those of her particular idol, for whom she made way at the microphone.

Thankful for Honor.

"Since I am still pretty young and haven't had many great things happen to me as yet," she said in winding up her brief introduction, "I cannot say now that I will ever know a happier moment. I do not believe I will.

"You, ladies and gentlemen, know the efficient executive. We who are closest to him, as I am, know the man. Because he loves us and we love him, we thank you men and women of Chicago for the honor you have done him. And I take great pleasure in introducing him to you and to the radio audience."

Grins at the traits of the grandfather repeated in the granddaughter mingled with the cheers and handclapping that followed. Poised as a dowager veteran of many a social campaign, Vivian stood with her eyes rivaling the sparkle of the crystal strand about her throat, as "my grandad" arose. Flashlights blinked. Klieg lights spluttered, the soft whirr of moving picture cameras droned through the storm of applause.

Vivian's Mother Smiles.

Behind Mayor Cermak, the daughter of one and the mother of the other watched with intent eyes and lips that trembled a bit. Mrs. Richey Graham, wife of the state senator, might have been forgiven at the moment a surplus of family pride. Standing with her sisters, her eyes traveled from the back of the mayor to the sturdy profile of Vivian, in her shortsleeved emerald green crepe dress and smart beige hat, and then to the sea of faces beyond. She was smiling but silent.

Long before the inaugural ceremony itself, Mayor Cermak's family had gathered in his office in the city hall. Mrs. Graham and her husband were there, the former attractive and smart in an ensemble of dove gray; her cloth coat was collared in a platinum fox, and her small, tiptilted hat and crêpe dress were of the identical shade. Mrs. Frank J. Jirka, another of the mayor's daughters, was there with her husband, Dr. Jirka. She was in a black satin dress with small black hat and long white kid gloves. The third daughter, Mrs. Floyd Kenlay, was wrapped in a black cloth coat collared in white ermine and wore a small black and white hat as she entered with her husband.

Leaves with Mayor.

All in the family party were ushered to seats on the platform in the council chamber, where they sat through the long program.

Only Vivian seemed as fresh at the end of the evening as she had at the beginning. As the crowd drifted out of the council chamber she wriggled into her beige lapin jacket and slipped a hand through Mayor Cermak's arm as the police made a path for them.

"There he goes with his pal and his gal," said one of the older politicians, and again the crowd grinned.

POLICE SERGEANT SHOT, BUT WON'T TELL WHO DID IT

Police Sergeant William Mulcahy, 48 years old, 325 West 64th street, attached to the Deering station, was shot and probably fatally wounded early this morning in the soft drink place operated by William Burns at Emerald avenue and 39th street. He was taken to Mercy hospital. The bullet entered his head under the right eye and lodged in the back of the head. His face was powder burned.

Mystery surrounded the shooting and Deputy Chief of Detectives Lawrence Rafferty, Lieut. Patrick Bonner and Lieut. Walter Healy took charge of the investigation. Mulcahy refused to tell his superiors who shot him or what the trouble was about.

"I know the man who shot me as well as I know any one in this room," Mulcahy told Lieut. Bonner, "but I will not tell you his name."

Burns and John Munhall, 4422 Emerald avenue, were taken to the Deering station. They said Mulcahy was drinking with other policemen when the shooting occurred.

INAUGURAL VOW TO TRIM TAXES TOLD TO THRONG

Police Must Revive Efficiency.

The text of Mayor Cermak's inaugural address appears on page 2 of this paper.

BY PHILIP KINSLEY.

A. J. Cermak was inaugurated last night as World's Fair executive of Chicago.

While the one time immigrant boy, who has fought his way step by step out of poverty and obscurity, now has the right to wear the gold star of mayor of the world's fourth city, the arrival at this goal only brought him within sight of another and greater one.

His new ambition, as expressed in his inaugural address, given in the city council chamber, is to make Chicago "the best governed, safest and most beautiful city in the world."

A New Deal for Chicago.

That something new is in store for Chicago in the handling of the public business and the police and crime problems was apparent not only in the wording and temper of the mayor's address, but in the thought of the crowds that gathered at the city hall to listen to it, in the gossip of the corridors, in the atmosphere of expectation—and of dismay in some quarters—that pervades the battered city hall.

To make it the best governed city in the world he means to coördinate, standardize, install labor saving machinery, cut down jobs, and put the civil service on a real basis of honesty and merit. The necessity of these reforms to reduce the mounting tax burdens of Chicago property owners was emphasized by the mayor.

Up to Police to Make Good.

To make it the safest city in the world, he will put the police department on a new basis of efficiency and noninterference by politicians. This was one of his promises. He said the administration would accept responsibility for the crime situation and would insist that the police department be judged by results only, "without the slightest interference from me."

If they do not make good, he said he would not hesitate to reorganize the department. For the time being, it is said, Acting Commissioner of Police Alcock will remain in that position.

To make Chicago the most beautiful city in the world, the third step in his new dream of achievement, Mayor Cermak intends to get behind the World's Fair plans, the street widening plans, the south side terminals and other similar improvements, although each improvement is to be given careful study before it is recommended for a bond issue. In the mayor's vision, the Chicago Fair of 1933 will eclipse the 1893 exposition in "cultural value, magnificence and beauty."

Inaugural Ceremony Simple.

There were few frills about the inauguration ceremony, which was an affair of distinctly popular flavor, with most of the populace, it seemed, trying to crowd into the narrow chamber of the city council.

Mayor Cermak was modest, even humble, in his attitude toward his position of power. He looked first at the responsibility it entails, for he has found out by this time that no mayor ever entered upon office with a harder task before him.

He asked for patience with his limitations, for support in his efforts, for cooperation from other public bodies and especially from those disinterested citizens of the type that have been able to accomplish things in other lines. He wants the help of the bankers and business men, the leaders in all fields.

Names Citizens' Advisory Body.

The mayor's first effort to secure such cooperation was in the appointment of a citizens' advisory committee consisting of 23 prominent citizens. He did not take the public into his confidence in the matter of cabinet building, and announced only two more names of those who will be his official family.

The appointments are:

Benjamin F. Lindheimer, chairman of the board of local improvements.

M. S. Szymczak (pronounced Simchak), city controller.

The name of Michael L. Rosina was sent to the council by Corporation Counsel Busch as city prosecutor. Mr. Rosina is a former assistant state's

Crowds Gather in Rotunda.

The city hall had a clean, new appearance last night. The first floor rotunda was the first gathering place for the inaugural crowds. A bandstand had been erected in the middle and from 7 o'clock in the evening until time for the mayor's address the people were entertained with music, which went up through amplifiers into the council chamber.

Admission to the hall was by card, with polits policemen receiving at the doors and the walls lined with more policemen, standing at attention, in bright new uniforms. Chairs had been placed in the rotunda, spreading out in four directions from the stand.

Everybody in town seemed to have a card, so the way to the second floor was far from an exclusive promenade. It was a mob, struggling to pass through two narrow little doors, into a room already filled beyond comfort. The seats of the aldermen were surrounded by visitors. The aisles were jammed. Even the railings were occupied by perching photographers. For more than half an hour the mayor's rostrum was occupied only by the Rev. John Thompson, pastor of the Chicago Temple, who delivered the invocation. The mayor was nearly half an hour late.

Mayor and Party Arrive.

It was not until 8:30 that the mayor and his party arrived. It took the efforts of two or three policemen to get them into the door and up to the platform. With the mayor were County Clerk Robert M. Sweitzer, Col. A. A. Sprague, Corporation Counsel Busch, Clayton Smith, Michael Igoe, Ald. John S. Clark, Edward F. Kelly, Judge Harry Fisher, Judge Joseph Sabath, Chief Justice John J. Sonsteby, William F. O'Connell, Henry Sonnenschein, the mayor's secretary, and members of the mayor's family, including his self-possessed little granddaughter, Vivian Graham.

After prayer had been offered and pictures taken, the roll call showed 47 aldermen answering out of the crowd. This was the first meeting of the new city council, which has 21 new members and consists of thirty Democrats and twenty Republicans.

After this got under way and the clerk began to read the entire set of council rules, the mayor went out into the corridors and mingled with the people for half an hour. The reading of the rules was regarded in itself as unusual, as this formality usually is dispensed with.

Ald. Clark took the chair while the mayor was out of the room, and the regular business proceeded. The appointments of Lindheimer and Szymczak were approved after they had been commended by various aldermen.

Invite Nations to Fair.

Ald. John Toman then presented a resolution, which was adopted, requesting the mayor to invite the nations of the world and the states of the Union to the World's Fair, which begins June 1, 1933.

"It will be the object of the new administration," it was stated in this resolution, "to present Chicago to visitors from the United States and from all parts of the world, in a holiday dress, and to keep the city clean, not only in its heart and spirit, but physically, throughout its entire area, and to so govern it on principles of business and efficiency that our reputation for hospitality, good government, the preservation of law, peace, and good order, will be recognized in the farthest corners of the civilized world."

Ald. Jacob Arvey in another resolution sought to have the mayor appoint a commission of citizens to receive and entertain visitors to the city, but Ald. Oscar F. Nelson objected to such a commission being made ex officio members of the council and the matter was deferred.

Turn Floor Over to Mayor.

Routine business was suspended at 10:15 o'clock, and the floor was turned over to the mayor for the inaugural.

Emmett Whealan, new president of the Cook county commissioners, congratulated the mayor and also congratulated the city for acquiring such an executive. He spoke of the greater coöperation that must result between the city and county governments in the new administration.

County Clerk Sweitzer referred to the celebration as "the rebirth of Chicago," and said the city now has a mayor who knows his job and who can be depended upon to perform it. He presented the mayor with a finely bound copy of the last eight years' proceedings of the county board, with a new gold star, embossed with the seal of the city, and with a new ivory gavel from the Lawndale Auto club.

Michael Igoe, minority leader in the legislature, said that all the people wished Mayor Cermak well, that he was a product of Chicago, and understood and loved the city, and would serve it well.

Former Mayor Edward F. Dunne was next on the inaugural program.

"I have lived in this city for 55 years," he said, "and can say truthfully from my experience in office and out of office that no mayor of Chicago ever faced a more serious situation than Anton J. Cermak today."

He then described the tax situation, which he regards in much the same light as does the mayor.

"I confidently predict," he said, "that our newly elected mayor will use to the limit his great experience in office and his undoubted ability, to secure relief to the taxpayers both by economy in office and a determined effort to amend laws and constitution.

"Lead on, Mayor Cermak. We're with you until Chicago is restored to moral and financial health."

The mayor was presented to the radio audience by his granddaughter, who told the world without hesitation that "my granddad will make the best mayor Chicago ever, ever had."

The mayor then read his address.

Mayor's Inaugural Address Promises Fight to Cut Chicago's Taxes and to Curb Crime

"I deem it appropriate at this time to address you briefly on what I regard as comparatively the more serious conditions in our municipal affairs.

"The matter which I rank first in importance is the present financial condition of the city of Chicago and its relation to the ever increasing burden of taxation which is being loaded upon our citizens. In the last four years, the city's tax rate has increased from 93½ cents per hundred to $1.37 per hundred. In figures, the city's expenditures (including those for school administration) have increased from $152,716,412 in 1927 to $171,261,262 in 1930.

Cites Increased Taxes.

"The general tax bills just mailed out for 1929 taxes are from 19 to 25 per cent higher than those of 1928. The progressive increase in the item of loss and cost in tax collections indicates a startling increase in forfeiture of property for nonpayment of taxes, and glaring instances of excessive taxation amounting practically to confiscation are unfortunately matters of common knowledge.

"Directly, the city is without power either to change the existing tax laws or to more equitably distribute the tax burden. The first is a matter of legislation. The second depends upon the honest, intelligent and efficient administration of the legally constituted tax assessing and tax reviewing bodies.

"The city, however, through the combined efforts of its mayor, its council, and its administrative department heads can contribute materially to a reduction of taxes.

Seeks to Reduce Costs.

"Of every dollar paid in taxes in Cook county 32.3 cents goes to the city of Chicago for general corporate purposes and 33.1 cents goes for the administration of its schools. With your help and the active assistance of our department heads, I propose to reduce the cost of our municipal government to the lowest possible minimum consistent with the effective functioning of our vital municipal services.

"Let me direct your attention to the present state of departmental appropriations. In several of the departments rendering essential service, the expenditures made against appropriations up to April 11 exceed the proportion of the fund which it appears should have been spent between Jan. 1 and April 11; in other words, the period from Jan. 1 to April 11 constitutes approximately 29 per cent of the entire fiscal year and in these departments more than 29 per cent of the annual appropriation has already been spent.

Expects to Stop Waste.

"Despite this condition, I confidently believe that by the elimination of incompetence, waste, and the unnecessary duplication of services and the application of modern methods in ordinary use in well ordered private business the city can not only function for the remainder of the year within its unexpended budget balances but that a very considerable salvage can be effected.

"I am fully aware this will be no easy task. I will need your help. I will insist upon the active and sustained coöperation of every department and bureau head. I shall ask, and confidently expect to receive, the aid of disinterested civic minded citizens whom I shall call upon to assist in this necessary reorganization of the city's business.

"To these ends, I shall ask your concurrence in the appointment by me of a 'mayor's advisory commission,' composed of disinterested, nonpartisan citizens whose functions will include a thoroughgoing study of every department of the city government with the definite object in view of making practical constructive recommendations designed to accomplish the following specific purposes:

"1. To consolidate the existing 32 separate departments of the city into a smaller number of principal departments so as to bring about a more responsible and harmonious direction of the city's affairs, eliminate unnecessary employés, and terminate the existing duplication and overlapping of municipal services.

"2. To standardize, so far as possible, contracts and specifications for municipal work and supplies so as to invite a much wider competition than has heretofore existed in the letting of such contracts and thus obtain fairer prices for the city; to improve the city's central purchasing administration, by providing approved safeguards in the purchase, handling, delivery, and accounting for supplies, materials, and equipment, and to encourage by every proper means a feeling in the business community that the city of Chicago is entitled to the same consideration in its contracts and purchases as are large private businesses, and that the city of Chicago on its part will deal fairly and honestly with the business public in its purchase of supplies and the letting of contracts.

Wants Civil Service Reform.

"3. To coöperate with the civil service commission which I will appoint in a complete reclassification of the classified civil service so as to do away with the present utter lack of logical relationship between the duties and responsibilities of many positions and the salaries paid to the incumbents of such positions; to restrict, so far as possible, the number of so-called '60 day,' or temporary, appointees; to provide safeguards in examinations so as to develop a confidence in the community that civil service examinations are on the square, to the end of inducing a better class of applicants to enter the service; to establish lines of promotion so that the provision of the civil service law that vacancies in the service shall, wherever practicable, be filled by promotional examination shall be carried out, and to set high standards of service and so encourage the rank and file of the civil service employés that they will strive to render full, efficient, and courteous service to the public which pays them.

"4. To install modern labor saving devices and practices so as to avoid duplication and reduce expense in water, license and special assessment billing and collections and related administrative services; to discontinue duplicating accounting and bookkeeping services through the unification under a central head of all such services; to provide, within the municipal service, for an independent auditing of all municipal accounts, and the continuous supervision of budget appropriations and expenditures to the end that the exact condition of the city's finances can be determined and known by the public at any time.

For Publicity on Activities.

"5. To provide for the publication and publicity of regular reports in simplified form on the activities, service and projects of the city government, and on municipal receipts and expenditures.

"6. To canvass and study the merits of all proposals made for municipal bond issues for public improvements to the end that no ill considered or questionable proposal shall be submitted to the electorate.

"The above six specifications are not designed to limit the jurisdiction of this committee, but rather to indicate the general scope of its activities and the nature of the service expected of it. It is my thought that this committee should hold frequent and regular meetings and follow through to accomplishment a definite and progressive program along the lines above laid down.

NAMES ADVISORY BODY

"I hereby respectfully ask your concurrence in the appointment of the following persons as members of this mayor's advisory commission:

William R. Dawes	Sewell Avery
Elmer T. Stevens	Barney Balaban
Oscar Mayer	Charles E. Merriam
D. F. Kelly	Patrick H. Joyce
Victor Olander	Henry H. Porter
John McKinlay	Otto Kaspar
Mrs. Kellogg Fairbank	Joshua D'Esposito
Julius F. Smietanka	Burt A. Massee
Newton C. Farr	Gordon Strong
Theo. W. Robinson	Mrs. G. V. McIntyre
Joseph Triner	B. M. Winston
Jacob M. Loeb

Busch to Be Counsel.

"Francis X. Busch, now serving the city temporarily as corporation counsel, has agreed to act gratuitously as the permanent counsel of the mayor's advisory commission and I also request your approval to designate him to act with the committee in this capacity.

"I have purposely named on the mayor's advisory commission a number of the same persons who were appointed by me while president of the board of Cook county commissioners as members of the Cook county citizens' commission on public finance and economy. I have done this in order that each committee can have intimate knowledge of the work being done by the other and both can work in complete accord.

"The program of the county citizens' commission includes a survey of all of the many governmental agencies within the county and the recommendation to the county board of well considered proposals for legislation and perhaps constitutional amendments which will effect a permanent consolidation of the present independently functioning and overlapping agencies and resulting a saving to the taxpayers of millions of dollars annually.

Aims at Coöperation.

"It is my thought that the mayor's advisory commission, while dealing primarily with specific problems which can be accomplished without new legislation, will coöperate in every way possible to effectuate the broader program of the county citizens' commission.

"In this connection, also, I am not unmindful of the fact that the previous city council appointed a committee to recommend measures looking to a consolidation of existing taxing bodies in Cook county and it is, likewise, my thought and desire that if that committee is continued, the mayor's advisory committee should work in complete harmony with it.

THE CRIME SITUATION

"The next matter to which I wish to direct your attention, and the importance of which is recognized by you and every good citizen of Chicago, is the so-called crime situation. I stated in my preëlection campaign that the minimizing of crime and the apprehension of criminals was a police problem. Punishment of criminals is, of course, a matter for the prosecuting agencies and the courts.

"I wish to repeat that statement now and to declare that the administration, through its police department, must accept full responsibility for the prevention of crime so far as humanly possible, and for the prompt apprehension of offenders against the criminal laws.

"The responsibility for the conduct of the police department and its administration will be placed squarely upon the commissioner of police. He will not be interfered with in the slightest degree by me. I shall insist that he does not permit himself to be interfered with by any one else. He will be judged solely by the results he accomplishes, and I shall not hesitate to reorganize the department at any time when I shall be convinced that it is not functioning efficiently.

Will Offer Coöperation.

"I shall direct the commissioner of police to coöperate fully with the official law enforcing agencies and to welcome and encourage the assistance of voluntary civic agencies which are honestly endeavoring to aid in the apprehension of criminals and the rigid and equal enforcement of the law. I invite particularly the coöperation of the prosecuting officials in an effort to make the collection by the police of the evidence of crimes more effective to secure convictions.

"While the police and crime problem is a most difficult one, I am confident that with the mayor, the commissioner of police, the civil service commission, your committee on police, fire, and civil service, and the other official and unofficial agencies working unitedly and earnestly to a common purpose, we can well before 1933, when the Century of Progress exposition is held, present to the world a city well governed and well ordered, and with a record for the suppression and prompt punishment of lawlessness equal to that of any other large city in the United States.

What Fair Means to City.

"And this brings me naturally to that epoch marking event in Chicago's history, the celebration of its hundredth anniversary as a municipality, its Century of Progress exposition to be held in Chicago in 1933. The success of this exposition means much to Chicago. Important public works, great philanthropic enterprises, vast private undertakings must be completed by 1933 in anticipation of this event.

"Your honorable body has created a standing committee to deal with the many problems which the council will have to pass upon in connection with the celebration of this our first anniversary.

"The first unit of the subway as provided by the recently passed traction ordinance must be pushed to completion. Important street widenings, still uncompleted, must be finished. The new postoffice must be built. The new Rosenwald Industrial museum must be finished and equipped.

"The various exposition buildings, already well under way, must be ready to receive the exhibits which will be sent from all parts of the world.

"Vigorous constructive efforts should be made through your proper committees with the coöperation of the department of public works and board of local improvements to put through the streets made possible by the straightening of the Chicago river, and to bring about the construction of a unified railway terminal in that area for the greater convenience of the hundreds of thousands of people who will visit us during the exposition.

"In these endeavors I pledge you my active assistance and the aid of every agency I can command.

"Every effort must also be made through the enlistment of our numerous splendid and efficient civic organizations to make known to the world that Chicago's traditional spirit of accomplishment which made the 1893 world's fair the greatest event of its kind, either before or since, is again actively at work to make Chicago's 1933 World's Fair eclipse it in cultural value, in magnificence, and in beauty.

"We want the world to know that Chicago, reborn in civic pride, in determination, and in inspiration for worth while progress, extends her invitation to people everywhere to enjoy the hospitality of the middle west's great metropolis, which in a hundred years has emerged from a settlement of less than 200 people to what we will be prepared in 1933 to prove is the best governed, the safest and the most beautiful city in the world.

ON CHICAGO JUBILEE

"May I be pardoned for one other observation of more immediate concern. The period of May 10 to May 20 has been designated as the Chicago Jubilee, during which, by appropriate ceremonies, Chicago will celebrate the determination of its civic, business, and industrial leaders, to do everything possible through coöperative effort to stimulate a revival of trade and industry and interest in Chicago.

"I have already pledged my active assistance to this movement, and respectfully solicit the aid of your honorable body and of all the departments and bureaus of the city government to a like purpose.

"In conclusion, may I make just a few rather personal observations.

"I want it known that I fully appreciate the tremendous responsibilities imposed upon me by the unprecedented vote of confidence which I received from the people of Chicago on April 7. Alone and unaided I can accomplish little. With the support and help which I ask for, I think I can do a great deal. I am not afraid of hard work.

Full Time Job, He Says.

"I regard the mayor's office as a 'full time job,' claiming and entitled to the best I have in me. I shall devote all of my time and thought to the discharge of its obligations. I expect every one in the city's service, from the department head to the humblest employé, to do the same.

"By law I am not only mayor but a member of the city council. I expect to perform my duty as such member. I shall sit in with the finance and other committees on important measures for the twofold purpose of informing myself on the details of such measures and to lend whatever aid my experience and counsel may be to the other members of the committee.

"I must have the coöperation of the city council if we are to accomplish anything of lasting good for our beloved city. I have received, I think, the personal assurance of every elected alderman that I can count on such coöperation.

To Meet with Officials.

"This voluntary and sincerely meant expression of confidence and good will inspires me to look forward to four years of pleasant and treasured association. I shall also initiate the practice of meeting regularly and frequently with the heads of city departments and the chairmen of council committees so that I may be kept in intimate touch with every branch of the city service and discuss suggestions for improved administration.

"I have always been a believer in the practice of enlisting disinterested, specially equipped and nonpartisan citizens to aid in the solution of public problems. Some of the most effective public service of which I have knowledge has been accomplished by such groups. I expect to call frequently upon this citizenship during my term as mayor.

"It is a source of great gratification to me that I have received from literally thousands of our citizens, without regard to party, nationality, race, or creed, offers to assist in any way possible in the rejuvenation and development of our great city.

"It has been impossible in this message to even mention many of the important tasks ahead of us. At subsequent meetings of your honorable body and at an early date I shall ask the privilege of inviting your specific attention to them."

COUNCIL READY FOR WORK; O. K. 18 COMMITTEES

Steering Group's Report Adopted Unanimously.

The city council, at the special inaugural meeting last night, adopted by unanimous vote the slate of working committees submitted by the committee on committees. By its action the new council completed its organization and is ready to function for the next two years.

The report of the steering committee listed the chairmen, vice chairmen, and members of the eighteen council committees which will handle the city's business during the term of the present council. It also contained rules of procedure to govern the council's deliberations.

New Committees Created.

The principal change in the organization of this council from that of the old one was in the division of the judiciary and special assessments committee into two groups. The two new committees created out of the old one are the committees on special assessments and on judiciary and state legislation.

Ald. Oscar F. Nelson [46th], floor leader in the last administration, was taken from the chairmanship of the old judiciary and special assessments committee and put at the head of the committee on railway terminals. This committee is considered of equal importance in that it has the task of developing the south side terminal area.

Although Nelson was not discussed, Ald. John J. Hoellen [47th], and Louis B. Anderson [2d] felt the hand of the new administration. Hoellen lost his chairmanship of the committee on schools, fire, and civil service to Ald. Albert Loescher [44th] and Anderson lost his place on the finance committee to Ald. Robert R. Jackson [50].

Newcomers Given Posts.

Two members of the council who were elected a little more than a year ago to fill vacancies were placed at the head of committees. One of them, Ald. Frank Landmesser [38th], was made chairman of the special assessments committee which will be active on the subway, and the other, Ald. George A. Williston [49th], heads the police and municipal institutions committee. The 18 committees and their memberships are as follows:

The only new member of the council obtained a chairmanship. That was Ald. Thomas O'Grady [14th], a member of the state legislature, who was placed at the head of the committee on judiciary and state legislation.

Proof of Butler's Exploit

Marines gathered around the drain leading into Fort Riviere, Haiti, through which Brig. Gen. Smedley D. Butler led his men to the capture of the fort, winning the congressional medal of honor for his bravery. Dantes Bellegarde, Haitian minister to the United States, was quoted as saying he had never heard of the fort or been able to find any one who had. He modified his statement when Butler asked for an inquiry.

Envoy to Explain

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., April 27.—[Special.]—Secretary of State Stimson will give Dantes Bellegarde, the Haitian minister, an opportunity tomorrow to officially explain his much quoted interview in which he was represented as having spoken disparagingly of the military prowess of Maj. Gen. Smedley D. Butler.

A state department note officially acquainting the minister from Haiti with the fact that publication of the interview was made the subject of a letter of protest to the navy department by Maj. Gen. Butler was drafted at the state department this afternoon preparatory to dispatch to Minister Bellegarde. Upon receipt of this letter the minister is expected to explain to state department officials that he had been misquoted.

BRIDGE ON OUTER DRIVE TO BE OPEN BY OCTOBER, 1932

Contract May Be Awarded This Week.

Automobile traffic will begin to stream over the new outer drive bridge, which is to span the mouth of the Chicago river, by October, 1932, it was predicted yesterday by Hugh E. Young, chief engineer for the Chicago plan commission. Mr. Young's prophesy was based upon the probability that the contracts for the bridge would be let this week.

Bids from twelve construction companies were opened in the offices of the plan commission, 208 West Washington street, last Thursday, in a joint meeting of the Lincoln park and south park boards. The Ketler-Elliott Construction company submitted the low bid of $1,491,326, and the park commissioners indicated that, when the joint committee completes its comparison of the bids, this company will be awarded the contract.

Set Limit of 18 Months.

This contract calls for the construction of two large coffer dams to house machinery for opening the bridge and for the installation of the machinery and the two leaves of the bridge.

The specifications call for the completion of the bridge within eighteen months. A. C. Ketler of the Ketler-Elliott company said the work could probably be completed in fifteen months. The work of steel fabrication should be completed within a year, according to Young.

Young explained that the entire bridge project, to cost an estimated $10,000,000, and which includes also the construction of approaches and of two large plazas at each end of the bridge, should be completed by October, 1932.

Work on North Approach.

The Lincoln park commissioners reported yesterday that the north approach, which will connect with Lake Shore drive, is nearing completion as far as the Ogden slip from Ohio street, and that specifications for a single leaf bridge over the slip and a viaduct between the slip and the river are complete.

While specifications for the south approaches have not been completed, Linn C. White, engineer for the south park board, declared the work would be completed by the time the bridge is finished. Bids probably will be called for within two months, he said. The south approach includes the extension of Field boulevard on a viaduct across the Illinois Central freight yard to the south bank of the river, and a roadway east on the river bank to the bridge.

Prosecutor Bitten Trying to Part Fighting Dogs

State's Attorney A. V. Smith of Lake county was bitten on the right hand yesterday when he tried to stop a fight between his chow and another dog near the Smith residence, 1817 North avenue, Waukegan. It was the state's attorney's own dog that did the biting.

Lindheimer and Szymczak in Cabinet; Aid Cermak Plans

Mayor Cermak's two new cabinet appointees, Benjamin F. Lindheimer, president of the board of local improvements, and M. S. Szymczak, city controller, last night pledged their energetic support to the mayor's program of public building and financial reorganization.

The appointments of Mr. Lindheimer and Mr. Szymczak were submitted to the city council at the inaugural session and both were confirmed by unanimous votes following laudatory speeches by council leaders. The two are expected to take charge of their offices today, replacing acting civil service deputies who have served temporarily since April 9.

Rosinia Is City Prosecutor.

A third appointment announced yesterday was that of Michael L. Rosinia, former assistant corporation counsel under the Dever administration, as city prosecutor.

"I expect to devote myself unremittingly to the task of carrying forward the great public improvements planned by Mayor Cermak," declared Mr. Lindheimer. "My intention is not only to help the mayor build a greater Chicago but to see that the people get their money's worth out of every dollar that is spent."

Mr. Lindheimer, according to those close to the mayor, was selected as being fitted by experience for his new position. For years he has been engaged in directing loop and south side real estate development and now controls several skyscrapers, including the State-Lake and Lake-Michigan buildings. He lives at 4805 Drexel boulevard and his office is at 120 South La Salle street.

Now South Park Commissioner.

Mr. Lindheimer since March 1, 1930, has been a member of the south park board. During the mayoral campaign he was secretary of the Cermak business men's organization. He is one of the sponsors of the Association of Real Estate Taxpayers, a group seeking to lower real estate taxes.

Mr. Szymczak, who is 35 years old and lives at 5530 Pensacola avenue, formerly was professor of business ethics at De Paul university and is engaged in the insurance and real estate business. He became head of the forest preserve district in 1927, resigning that post when he was elected Superior court clerk in 1928. He ran for city treasurer in 1927, although defeated, led the Democratic ticket.

Faces Financial Crisis.

The new controller faces the immediate responsibility of helping Mayor Cermak straighten out the city's financial shortage problem caused by the failure to sell 1931 tax warrants.

"It appears to me that the first requisite in the solution of the financial problem is to secure the confidence and coöperation of the banks," Mr. Szymczak declared last night. "I have requested the mayor, as a condition of my appointment, to invite the help of the best banking minds of the city in an advisory capacity and I pledge the energetic help of the controller's office to them and Mayor Cermak in putting the city back on a business basis."

The appointment of Lindeheimer and Szymczak were the second and third made by Mayor Cermak to major cabinet positions. Col. A. A. Sprague previously having been named commissioner of public works. Corporation Counsel Busch and City Sealer Grein are serving temporarily. Other important posts still to be permanently filled include those of police commissioner, building commissioner, health commissioner, commissioner of gas and electricity, and members of the civil service commission.

HUNT BONUS CASH IN ROBBERY.

Two bandits invaded the home of Lawrence and Mary Brosnan at 1025 West 16th street yesterday, and threatened her with death unless Brosnan turned over his bonus money. The husband convinced the gunmen he had already spent the bonus, and they departed, taking $9.

Bundesen and Lyle See New Mayor Inaugurated

Mayor Cermak slipped away from the council chamber last night while the clerk droned through the rules.

As he reëntered, Judge John Lyle, defeated Republican nominee stood near him at the door. "Hello, John," said the mayor, stretching across several heads for a handclasp.

Dr. Herman N. Bundesen, coroner, who dropped out of the mayoral race to promote the candidacy of Mayor Cermak, also was present at the inaugural. He stayed near the door.

Mrs. Kellogg Fairbank, Mrs. Francis X. Busch, and Mrs. Walter Wolf were among the numerous prominent personages who found themselves unable to find seats.

BEATEN IN STORE HOLDUP.

Martin Morse, 2147 West Lake street, was beaten by two robbers yesterday when he was slow in raising his hands in the Hartman furniture store at 2241 West Madison street. The robbers got $543, including $50 belonging to Morse, a customer.

CALLS ON LABOR TO BREAK DRY LAW SHACKLES

'Yoll Declares Minority Rules People.

Philadelphia, Pa., April 27.—[Special.]—Organized labor in this country was called upon by a group of its leaders here today to adopt a program not only asking congress to modify the Volstead act to permit the return of light wines and beer, but to seek the eventual repeal of the eighteenth amendment itself.

H. A. MACKAY. [Keystone View Photo.]

The program was suggested by speakers at the opening session of a two day convention of labor's national committee for the modification of the Volstead act, bping held at the Benjamin Franklin hotel. The 200 delegates from all parts of the country represent a cross section of the union-ized trades.

Demand Breweries Open.

Speakers charged that since advocates of prohibition claim credit for the country's prosperity in the years between 1921 and 1929, they must in fairness bear the blame for the existing depression; that the immediate reopening of breweries would mean work for 150,000 men and would open an endless chain of other work to laborers in the building and allied trades; that the reopening of breweries would take the edge off the farm relief problem by supplying an important market for grain; that three speakeasies flourish today where one saloon was before, and that law is disregarded and racketeers dictate the government of the large cities.

Matthew Woll, vice president of the American Federation of Labor, in taking the chair in his capacity as president of the prohibition modification committee, delivered a militant speech in which he said he did not believe in "milk and water methods" and that the drive against the Volstead act was "the first step in the development of a militant labor movement."

"Prohibition," he said, "is becoming an important question in labor phases. Congress has disregarded facts and has been following whims and fancies which lead nowhere. It is taking the bidding from organized minorities, not from the opinion of its constituents.

Sees Too Much Law and Order.

"There is too much law and order today. I want to see the shackles of injunction broken, if not by lawful methods, then through physical resentment. It is only by aggressiveness that states and communities will regain their privileges.

"Our nation came into being through a violent disregard of law and order. The Negro was freed by bloody strife, in complete disregard of law and order. Labor unions came into being and won for American labor its high standards of living, through strikes, lockouts and other violent methods."

Mr. Woll added that "labor is against the saloon, but God save it from the speakeasy."

"I am opposed to communism," he said, "but if congress is justified in socializing the conducts and habits of the nation then it is also justified in socializing property."

Mr. Woll declared the groups which "forced" prohibition on the country were the industrialists "who were prompted by the desire to increase their profits through higher production by making machines of human labor," and the church groups "who have admitted their failure to rule man by moral suasion, but seek to force their rule by the use of the big stick of the law."

"This movement, as I see it," he went on, "is a great crusade. This is labor's liberty legion, and I urge you to arouse yourselves to become legionnaires. Have we the red blood to go out and fight for what we want? I believe we have and nothing will stop us but victory. We shall not rest until victory is ours."

Rabbi Israel Goldstein of New York, the only nonunion speaker during the afternoon session, said: "Prohibition was conceived in error, born under duress, and nurtured in hypocrisy."

Mayor Harry A. Mackey of Philadelphia, who welcomed the delegates, declared they were meeting in a city where "95 per cent of the people are at war with prohibition and with the hypocricies, intolerances, and prejudices occasioned by the antiquated 1794 blue laws."

DR. WILSON ASSAILS WETS.

Dr. Clarence True Wilson of Washington, D. C., general secretary of the board of temperance, prohibition, and public morals of the Methodist Episcopal church, last night told the students of Garrett Biblical institute, Evanston, that recent assaults on prohibition had failed.

Dr. Wilson pointed to the unsuccessful investigations of Bishop James Cannon Jr. and of the lobbying activities of the Methodist board as being wet propaganda conducted at the instance of Representatives Graham and Tinkham. He predicted that no political party in 1932 would seek votes by including wet planks in their platforms.

678 Pound Negro Is Dead; Height, 7 Feet 6 Inches

New York, April 27.—[Special.]—James Finch, 38 year old Negro giant, whose 678 pounds have occupied two beds in Harlem hospital for the last five days, died there today after a brief illness. The problem of lifting his 7 feet 6 inches of dead weight gave orderlies a bad morning. Finch made $12.50 a day as a walking advertisement for chain stores, his pay invariably being collected by a young colored woman who said she was a dancer.

SUPREME COURT TO REVIEW "L" FARE LITIGATION

The question of whether Chicago elevated riders shall continue to pay a straight 10 cent fare or again buy tickets three for a quarter and $1.25 weekly passes is soon to be finally settled by the United States Supreme court, according to word received from Washington yesterday.

Attorneys for the city were informed yesterday that the high court acceded to the city's petition to review the elevated fare case, which involves $4,000,000 a year paid annually by "L" riders. The city had appealed from an injunction ordered by the federal district court, setting aside the Illinois commerce commission's refusal to allow the "L" lines to institute the straight 10 cent fare.

The elevated company in 1928 filed proceedings before the state commerce commission, pleading that it was losing $7,000 a day because of the three-for-a-quarter tickets and the $1.25 weekly pass. The commerce commission disallowed the company's plea to make the fare 10 cents straight, whereupon the company obtained first a temporary and later a permanent injunction restraining the commission from interference with the new rate schedule.

vestigation, again summoned Perry's widow and her father for their third interrogation since Perry was slain last Friday night in Canniff's back yard.

Repeat Earlier Stories.

Father and daughter only reiterated their previous statements, that they were aware that Perry had been involved in the faro swindle and considered it possible that one or both of his accomplices in the swindle, Roscoe Reynolds and Roy Bruder, alias Burgess, had killed him for his failure to share the $50,000 loot.

That Perry had a criminal record was discovered today when his finger prints, taken after his death and forwarded to Chicago police, were discovered already to be in the Chicago police bureau of identification. The finger prints, Chicago police said, were found on file under the name of George Lee Sparks, alias, Maj. George L. Saulter.

Arrested in Memphis, Tenn., in 1925 on a confidence game charge, Perry had given his name as Sparks and, providing a bond, had fled trial. The Memphis records listed his native town as Emporia, Kas., although his parents are said to have always lived at Hutchinson, Kas.

It was about 1925, from what Chicago police have learned, that Perry first appeared in Chicago, using the name of George Parker, under which name he became acquainted with Mrs. Myrtle Tanner Blackidge, whose participation in the faro game forced her to resign her post as federal internal revenue collector at Chicago.

Litsingers Fail to Appear.

Neither Edward R. Litsinger, member of the Cook county board of review, nor his nephew, Fred Litsinger, 26 year old president of the Litsinger Motor company of Chicago, followed Mrs. Blackidge's example today in coming here to identify Perry's body. Coroner Bolka said the nephew had promised to appear.

In Chicago the younger Litsinger was quoted as saying the faro swindle, in which he lost to the confidence men the $50,000 his uncle had produced at Mrs. Blackidge's behest, was a closed issue.

Hope that a New York safety deposit box, in which Perry was reported to have kept a cash hoard, might yield a clew, was dispelled when Capt. Hamilton said the key given him by Mrs. Perry was not for a New York bank but for one in Chicago. The key was traced to a bank vault and the box opened, Capt. Hamilton said, but nothing of value was found.

12 PARALYZED BY LIQUOR; WOMAN IS FOUND GUILTY

Marion, Ind., April 27.—(AP)—Maude Carson, former Marion grocery store operator, was convicted on a charge of selling liquor here today as a result of an investigation into sale of Jamaica ginger said to have resulted in the partial paralysis of more than a dozen persons in Marion.

Some of the victims still are in the county hospital, one of them testifying against the woman today. The jury recommended she be sentenced to serve thirty days in jail and fined $100.

RUN-DOWN TIRED FOLKS
Find New Way to End Poisons
"Kidney Laxative" Discovery Ends Use of Needless Drugs and Habit-Forming Cathartics
MILLIONS who now suffer from weakening poisons in the blood—people who are run-down and tired, who suffer with bad skins and dull eyes—are amazed at a new health discovery which is restoring health and good looks. Doctors are now prescribing what they call a "kidney laxative"—a wonderful discovery which reaches the deep-seated poisons in the blood. Ordinary drugs, laxatives or cathartics cannot reach these poisons. The poisonous acid wastes must be driven out through the kidneys.
And this kidney laxative, which is known as Sleepy Water, neutralizes and dissolves these poisons. It gently activates the kidneys and speeds the elimination of wastes. Not only people who have suffered from fatigue and low vitality, but victims of 20 common serious ailments, including diabetes, high blood pressure and arthritis report remarkable improvements in health.
Sleepy Water can be obtained only from two springs in the Arkansas hills. Peculiar natural forces here cause Sleepy Water to contain certain minerals, combined into certain compounds. No other water contains this exact balance of vital minerals. Tear out the coupon and mail it in to find out about the amazing thirty-minute test which will demonstrate how Sleepy Water acts. ADVERTISE IN THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE

SLAYER BURKE SENTENCED TO LIFE IN PRISON

Pleads Guilty to Killing Policeman.

BULLETIN.

St. Joseph, Mich., April 28.—[Special.]—Fred Burke, notorious desperado, was started on his way to Marquette penitentiary at 4 o'clock this morning. He was taken in an armored automobile followed by a second armored car filled with state police. Every precaution was taken to prevent an attemps at rescue by the gangster's friends.

St. Joseph, Mich., April 27.—[Special.]—Fred Burke, 45, gangland killer, pleaded guilty today to a charge of slaying a policeman and was sentenced to life in prison at hard labor.

Judge Charles E. White, after hearing testimony of two witnesses concerning the killing, Dec. 14, 1929, of Policeman Charles Skelly, 28, formally charged Burke with second degree murder, and sentenced him to Marquette prison. Judge White called Burke to the railing, asking him if he had anything to say.

"Thank you," replied Burke. These were the only words spoken by Burke in the brief arraignment.

Burke, handcuffed, was led from the jail to the courthouse at 2:30 o'clock.

Burke, nonchalant until then, showed his only signs of nervousness when Judge White said:

Calls Crime Unpremeditated.

Judge White in charging second degree murder, said that Burke, at the time of the shooting of Policeman Skelly was evidently intoxicated.

"The crime was in hot anger, not premeditated," the judge stated. Attorney Charles W. Gore, Benton Harber, in behalf of Burke, waived the reading and entered a formal plea of guilty. Burke said nothing.

Forrest Kool, Buchanan, Mich., farmer and Dr. Clayton Emery of the St. Joseph sanitarium staff, were state witnesses.

Kool related how on the night Skelly was slain, his automobile collided accidentally with Burke's car. Burke resisted Policeman Skelly's efforts to take him to police headquarters to pay a $5 fine, he said, although Burke offered $25 to settle, but had no change. When Skelly jumped on the running board to force Burke to go with him, Burke shot Skelly, Kool said. Dr. Emery testified that Skelly was shot three times.

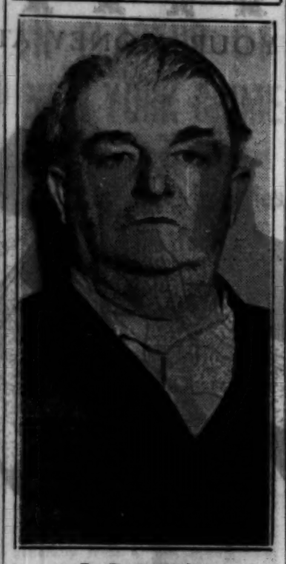

Parole in 25 Years.

Burke will be on his way to Marquette tomorrow. The time of departure is being kept secret. Two cars will be used, one a state police car. Sheriff Cutler will head the party.

Burke will be eligible to apply for parole after 25 years, less time off for good behavior, Prosecutor Cunningham said.

Burke had lived here as Fred Dane in an expensive home on Lake Shore drive a year before the killing of Skelly. With him posing as his wife lived Mrs. Viola Brennerman of Kankakee, Ill. They were looked upon as respectable members of the community. In his home officers found sawed-off shotguns, bullet proof vests and $318,000 stolen bonds. He evaded capture for more than a year.

QUIZ GENKER ON GASOLINE FIRE IN HIS CIGAR STORE

Charles [Monkey Face] Genker, known to the police as a vice monger and gambler, was questioned by police last night after a fire, supposedly of incendiary origin, had damaged a cigar store at 409 South Halsted street of which he is part owner.

Chief Dell White of the Sixth fire battalion said that two five-gallon gasoline cans, one of which was still half full, were found on the premises after the fire. The gasoline had been sprinkled on two partitions and on a pile of empty cigar boxes. The damage was between $500 and $1,000. Firemen said that the only cigar boxes found in the place were empty.

Genker denied that he had anything to do with setting the fire and was released, but the Des Plaines street police said they would continue their investigation on the theory that the blaze might have had some connection with his participation in vice and gambling rackets.

RED AGITATOR HELD AS INCITER OF BANK RUNS

Bond of $100,000 Set in Sedition Case.

D. E. Earley, 538 North Wells street, a communist, whose alleged revolutionary activities are believed by police to have included the fomenting of runs on banks, was held in bond of $100,000 on a charge of sedition when arraigned before Police Magistrate Zeller at Chicago Heights yesterday.

The capture of Earley, whose credentials showed him to be a functionary of the United Farmers' league, a proletariat organization, and of the communist party of the United States, was brought about by Chief of Police Harry B. Stafford of Chicago Heights on Sunday. Secret meetings had been held for two months in a hall at 122 West 18th street. The police were unable to gain entrance, but Chief Stafford assigned an undercover man to the job on Sunday morning, and Earley was seized as he left the hall.

Earley, according to the police, advocated the use of violence to overthrow the government, and books, papers, and pamphlets of an allegedly seditious nature were found in his possession. It was learned that Earley has been conducting a so-called workers' school at 601 North Wells street, Chicago, and that he has been collecting for the United Farmers' league in Gary, Roseland, Chicago, and Chicago Heights.

No evidence suitable for criminal prosecution on charges of inciting bank runs was found by the authorities, but an entry in Earley's note book under date of April 24 said "4,555 bank failures," and he is alleged to have harangued on the "condition of banks" at various meetings.

Investigators reported that in recent months housewives have been receiving anonymous telephone calls and letters warning that certain banks are about to fail. The warnings have been shouted up the speaking tubes of apartment buildings, and laborers waiting for street cars, particularly those of foreign extraction, have been exhorted to "get your money out of the bank," the police say.

In its issue of Jan. 17, the Daily Worker, official organ of the Third Internationale in the United States, declared that two important Chicago banks, using their names, were insolvent, and warned the workers to beware.

Earley was alleged by the authorities to be in close touch with Emil Gardos, formerly of Chicago but now of Philadelphia, and with Sam Don of New York, alleged agitprop (agitation and propaganda) directors for the communist party.

The Chicago Tuberculosis institute has contributed $1,000 and the governor's commission on unemployment and relief has given $700 to pay for vacation lunches, which are not provided for in the regular fund.

PROPAGANDA FOR BROTHERS FLOWS ON AFTER TRIAL

Incidents of Conviction Are Discussion Topic.

BY JOHN BOETTIGER.

CHAPTER XXIV.

The trial of Leo Brothers for the murder of Alfred Lingle was opened before Judge Joseph Sabath on March 16. The story of that trial has been told in the newspapers of the nation and there is no need here to retell it. But some of the circumstances of the trial should be discussed and others explained.

The state was represented by C. Wayland Brooks, a regular member of the staff of State's Attorney Swanson, and a prosecutor who conducted himself with such great ability and ease that there were few among those who followed the trial who did not predict that ere long Wayland Brooks will take his place as one of the leading lawyers of the Chicago bar.

Fair to the Defendant.

Brooks was fair to the defendant, preserving his rights scrupulously. He was equally zealous of the rights of those whom he described as his "clients," the people of the state of Illinois.

Wayland Brooks was assigned to try Brothers by State's Attorney Swanson at the request of Prosecutor Rathbun. The latter perceived that the defense proposed to try any one except Brothers in the trial of the case. They would essay to try THE TRIBUNE, to try Lingle, and to try Charles Rathbun.

Rathbun felt it would weaken the case were he to retire altogether. This might be interpreted somewhere as a confession of weakness. But he could stand by, he could let the jury see that he was not the framing monster that the defense would be painting him.

Rathbun Silent at Trial.

And so, a crowning stroke of strategy, Rathbun sat silent during the entire trial, counseling Brooks at times, but permitting the brilliant young prosecutor, who as a regular state prosecutor could not be assailed as retained by any private interest, to conduct the case against Brothers.

Associated with Brooks in the prosecution was John Holman, a veteran prosecutor who is one of the legal experts of State's Attorney Swanson's staff.

Seven days were spent in selecting the jury, and even during this time, when the minds of prospective jurors might be influenced by what the newspapers might print, the rain of propaganda did not cease.

On March 19 the Herald and Examiner ran a story, which was stated to have been issued by the defense lawyers, wherein it was charged that John Hagan, described as an ex-convict, had built up a frameup against Brothers.

The activities of John Hagan in exposing the murderer of Lingle had been guarded by the closest secrecy.

Didn't Fear an Exposure.

This was not because the state feared an exposure of Hagan would injure the case against Brothers. On the contrary, the testimony of Hagan, if it had been admissible against Brothers according to the strict rules of law, would have damned the gangster defendant so convincingly that Brothers could never have escaped the electric chair.

But the state did fear that if Hagan were exposed and Brothers' gangster pals knew that he had tricked them into revealing Brothers' guilt, he might be assassinated.

There is still a fear that Hagan may some day pay the price for his courageous work in exposing the killer of Lingle. The story from the Herald and Examiner was broadcast to the nation and to the world by the Associated Press, even though Roche and Rathbun refused to verify it and despite the fact that the story in the main was untrue and did not state the facts correctly concerning Hagan's service to the investigation. The responsibility for the exposure of Hagan and his work must rest upon those who first broadcast it.

Folly of Defense Claim.

The Herald and Examiner stated that the defense attorneys proposed to force Hagan upon the witness stand as a court witness. This was utter folly. The defense knew that Hagan, if permitted by the court to tell his story, would surely send Brothers on his march to the electric chair.

Paddy Hogan, the St. Louis gangster pal of Brothers who unwittingly had revealed Brothers' guilt to Hagan, was in communication with the defense lawyers, and when they learned of Hagan's talks with Hogan, they knew that John Hagan could convict Brothers.

It should be explained that Hagan could not be called by the state as a witness against Brothers. The evidence that Hagan could give against Brothers was that which he obtained from Hogan and other of Hogan's and Brothers' pals. The law in criminal cases bars any testimony as to conversations or admissions made by persons other than the defendant unless they were made in the presence of the defendant. Of course, none of Hogan's admissions to Hagan concerning Brothers were made in the presence of Brothers.

Did His Job Well.

As a matter of fact, it was never intended that Hagan should be a witness. From the first, his job was to pry into the gangs, and learn the identity of the man who had killed Jake Lingle. He did that job, and he did it well, and the witnesses to the murder did the rest.

During the trial desperate efforts were made to induce John Hagan to betray the state. A gangster who knew both Hogan and Brothers, and who knew Hagan also, communicated with the undercover man and asked him to meet him. They did meet, in a place where they were under the watchful eye of detectives from Pat Roche's staff. This was so no harm could befall Hagan.

"I visited Brothers in the jail this morning," the gangster told Hagan. "He says you're the only man that can save him. He says you've got to help."

Lawyer Wants to See Him.

"Why, I don't know anything about Brothers," Hagan replied, still carrying out his part. "What do they want me to do?"

"Well, Louie Piquett wants to see you in the worst way."

But Hagan didn't go to see Defense Attorney Piquett. John Hagan was loyal to the state. He never miscued once.

Even after the trial was over, and Brothers was convicted, the Herald and Examiner continued its efforts to embarrass the prosecution and Hagan. On April 13 the newspaper published the fact that Hagan was hidden in Winnetka, under the protection of W. M. Peterson, chief of police of that village. Hagan went to Winnetka so that he would be safe from the threat of assassination. The story of the Herald and Examiner forced him to seek another place of safety.

The charge that Hagan "framed" Brothers was as false as all the other propaganda issued by the defense. He could not possibly have framed the gangster.

No Recollection of Brothers.

Hagan had no recollection of what Brothers looked like. He had a vague memory of having seen the gangster at the Green Mill gardens. He never saw him afterwards. He hadn't the faintest idea of whether the witnesses to the Lingle murder, who were reliable citizens who would never place an innocent man in the shadow of the electric chair, would identify Brothers when he was captured.

Hagan didn't even know the name of Brothers, until after he was arrested and the investigation officials told him. Hagan knew Brothers only as "Buster," and that was the name given him by Pat Hogan, along with the information that "Buster" had killed Lingle. The undercover man took no part whatever in the capture of Brothers, except to give Roche and Rathbun a telephone number, the number of the gangster Benny Butler, and it was from the surveillance of that telephone that information came which resulted in Brothers' capture.

It was then that the witnesses were called, and it was then that without hesitation they identified Brothers as the murderer of Alfred Lingle. Hagan has never talked with a single witness in the Brothers case.

When the jury to try Brothers had been selected, after seven days, Prosecutor Brooks outlined the state's case, and then Defense Attorney Krum stated what the defense would prove.

"We will show you exactly the type of man that Brothers is, that he did not fire the shot, he knew nothing about it, wasn't there, was many miles away," Krum said. "We are going to show you gentlemen by our evidence that this is purely and simply a frameup by certain characters in the underworld, by certain men, ambitious to succeed in the prosecution of somebody, to clean up this case."

Not one word of evidence to support these statements was offered by the defense. This time it was propaganda for the jury. Brothers never took the witness stand to show "what type of man he was." There was nothing shown that he was "miles away" at the time. Not a word was offered to prove a frameup.

Didn't Take Witness Stand.

Brothers didn't testify because he was guilty, because he was in the tunnel, and he did kill Lingle. He knew, and his lawyers must have known that the state had smashed his fake alibis. Brothers knew that he had admitted he was in Chicago on the day of the murder, and that he had professed again and again that he couldn't remember where he was at the time of the murder.

Brothers and his attorneys knew that his murderous, criminal record would be shown if he took the witness stand, and that he had fled from St. Louis after another murder and was hiding in Chicago under an alias. They knew also that if Brothers took the witness stand his gangster talk would convict him and wipe away the good effect that his handsome, sleek appearance gave him.

The charges of frameup faded away. The defense produced no evidence to support their oft repeated charges of conspiracy. There was no evidence of it, because it didn't exist.

Attorney Krum had declared in his opening statement that the defense would show the motive for Lingle's murder. They didn't show any motive, but they might have. Who knows it better than Brothers?

8 IDENTIFY BROTHERS

Eight witnesses called by Prosecutor Brooks testified that Brothers was the killer of Lingle, and not one of the eight could be shaken under cross-examination. The defense sought to counter this with seven witnesses who said Brothers was not the man. But two of these witnesses had previously told the state that they could not identify the slayer if they saw him. Another had given a statement to the police that the slayer had dark hair, but on the witness stand he swore the killer had golden blond hair.

Paul Thorne, the spinner of detective fiction, testified Brothers was not the man, but the state produced a witness to whom Thorne had stated, immediately after the murder, that he had been half a block away from the scene. One of the two women defense witnesses was shown to have a prejudice against Pat Roche.

Another defense witness admitted his uncle was a political worker for Defense Attorney Piquett, and that he had known Piquett for eight years.

Propaganda About Jury.

With this the defense rested, the lawyers' arguments were heard, and the case was given to the jury. For twenty-seven hours the jury wrangled, and even during this time the opposition newspapers continued their propaganda favoring Brothers. Reports were printed in these newspapers that the jury stood 10 to 2 and 11 to 1 for acquittal.

There had been no means of learning how the jury did stand, but later it was learned that for many hours they had stood 11 to 1 for conviction.

Finally the jury came in, and their verdict giving Brothers 14 years in prison was announced. The newspapers which had been heralding that the jury favored acquittal were forced hurriedly to make over their articles. In one case the Chicago Evening American, on an inside page, carried a headline that the jury favored "Leo" by 11 to 1. The lead of the main story, on page 1, stated that the American had learned on apparently "unimpeachable authority" that the jury stood 11 to 1 for acquittal. Above this was a hastily prepared bulletin announcing that Brothers had been convicted, and was given 14 years.

Matter of the Reward.

In connection with the opposition of the rival newspapers, it has been pointed out that the Herald and Examiner had offered $25,000 reward for the arrest and conviction of Lingle's slayer and now stands liable to pay that reward. As for the Daily News, no one had expected that the News would go into the trenches in the war on gangland, but it was at least expected that some four minute men would be turned loose against the enemy.

After the verdict of the jury had been announced, it was learned, by interviewing the jurors, that almost all of them favored giving Brothers a life sentence and that only one man had stood out for an acquittal. This juror, a street car motorman, was quoted in the Herald and Examiner and other newspapers as stating he still believed Brothers was innocent but he had voted him guilty and verified his verdict in open court when the jury was polled by the clerk of the court.

The other jurors, in order to prevent Brothers' escape from all punishment, compromised with the lone holdout and voted with him to give Brothers a sentence of 14 years.

First Gang Murder Conviction.

No one disputed that the cowardly murder of Alfred Lingle deserved a much more severe penalty. But it was a penalty! For the first time in Chicago the killer in a gang murder had been convicted, the seemingly unsurmountable obstacles of prosecuting a gangster had been overcome.

Other notorious murderers have escaped with the same penalty of 14 years, due to the inadequacy of the jury system, and to the sentimentality of some jurors. Three-Fingered Jack White, the Capone gangster recently tried for murdering a policeman, was given 14 years, and this verdict was heralded as a great victory for the prosecutors, as it was indeed a great victory. Two other Capone killers, Scalisi and Anselmi, who had killed two policemen, were sentenced by a jury to 14 years.

Propaganda Not at End.

Propaganda aimed at discrediting the prosecution did not end even after the jury had convicted Brothers, and had written the formal seal of the law on his guilt.

An effort was made to belittle the significance of the conviction of Brothers in the eyes of the newspapermen of the country, and to make it appear to the American press that THE TRIBUNE and the state's attorney feared a full exposure of the facts in the case.

This move was instigated by Edwin Johnson, a member of the staff of the Chicago Daily News, who is also employed as the Chicago correspondent of Editor and Publisher—the Fourth Estate, a weekly journal which circulates widely among the newspaper men of the United States.

Trys to Discredit Case.

Johnson sent an article to the press magazine, published in the April 11 issue, in which he told of the verdict of the jury sentencing Brothers to serve 14 years in prison for the Lingle murder, and then he wrote as follows:

"The verdict of the jury, fixing the punishment of Brothers at the minimum, came as a surprise to many and brought a torrent of denunciation upon Chicago courts in newspaper comment from other cities.

"The very fact that Brothers received the minimum sentence has given critics a basis for charges which have persisted since the announcement of the arrest. The utter certainty of officials that Brothers was the man who killed Lingle and the fact that not one witness testified he saw Lingle slain, presents at least a groundwork for the ugly rumors that have been circulated.

"Despite gossip of 'railroading' and of a 'frameup' which is hinted involves even Brothers' attorneys and Brothers himself, it is held unreasonable that a jury, finding a man guilty of the cold blooded murder of Lingle, could impose the minimum sentence on the evidence presented.

Calls Guilt a Question.

"It is a question in the mind of the police at large as to the guilt of Brothers.

"THE TRIBUNE has, from the first, maintained that Brothers is the man. This persistence, in the face of an unwillingness on the part of either the newspaper or officials, to strip the case bare, show a motive, reveal gang connections, and thus prove to the satisfaction of the world that Brothers had a reason for killing Lingle and did so, has engendered a belief among newspapermen, some of whom covered the trial for newspapers wholly out of sympathy with THE TRIBUNE, that Brothers is the man who killed Lingle, but it cannot be legitimately proved without entailing a scandal which would prove so devastating as to render the game not worth the candle.

"That the evidence against Brothers was not complete is shown by the 'compromise' verdict. Under Illinois law, the sentence is commutable in about eight years. Observers hold that no purpose whatever is served by such a sentence. Civic leaders have stated that the conviction of Brothers is a step in the right direction, but feel the sentence is too light. Those dissatisfied with the verdict are of the opinion that from a point of general good, Brothers belongs in jail but they hold that there is still the question left unanswered, 'who killed "Jake" Lingle, and Dhy?'"

Protest Registered by Tribune.

A protest was registered by THE TRIBUNE against the article in Editor and Publisher, which first brought the following reply from James W. Brown, publisher of the magazine dated April 15, and addressed to the publisher of THE TRIBUNE:

"I haven't had anything occur in the 20 years I have been associated with Editor and Publisher which caused me so much anguish and distress as Johnson's perfectly rotten story in re the Lingle murder verdict on page 16 of Editor and Publisher for April 11. I have never seen Mr. Pew more deeply distressed by anything that has ever appeared in Editor and Publisher.

"I offer to you, sir, on my own behalf as well as on behalf of Mr. Pew and the staff, a sincere and humble apology.

Offer Apology to Tribune.

"Yesterday Mr. Pew wrote and signed for publication this week a statement which nails the blather in Johnson's story and sets the matter right in terms of decent journalism.

"The only extenuation that I can find anywhere in this distressing incident is the fact that the dispatch came at closing time and was passed by the makeup men without reference to the editor. We have taken steps, you may be sure, to see that nothing of this kind can reoccur.

"We bespeak your indulgence and hope to have the pleasure of seeing you next week during the conventions."

In the April 18 issue of Editor and Publisher a retraction was carried, which was headed as follows:

"Rumors and gossip in Lingle story unjustified and call for apology. Editor and Publisher regrets publication of Chicago dispatch of Brothers conviction last week and unwarranted comment of correspondent."

FIND GIRL SLAIN IN FLAREUP OF NEW YORK CRIME

Civic Scandal Inquiries Also Grow Heated.

BY TOM PETTEY.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, April 27.—[Special.]—Gangland ushered in the new week today with bullets and murder, the city scandals investigations reached new heights of bitterness, Wall street had a bad afternoon, and old Father Knickerbocker suffered generally from a high temperature and a throbbing head.

JACK [LEGS] DIAMOND.
[Acme Photo.]

Up in the Bronx a pretty redhaired girl was taken for a ride in the bright sunlight, shot in the heart, and her body stuffed under a stone wall guarding St. Joseph's seminary. Although the dead girl was not immediately identified, the police set to work on a theory she might have been a witness in the vice inquiry and was slain to prevent her from giving damaging evidence.

Tentative identification of the girl later as Virginia Brannen, lately of Bangor, Me., however, discounted the vice theory. The vice investigators, nevertheless, requested complete details of the girl and her murder.

The girl's blood stained arm dangling from the low stone wall disclosed her murder and convinced police she had been wedged into the crevice while still alive and that she succumbed to her wound while trying to signal passersby on the roadway. The time of the murder was between 9 and 10 o'clock this morning, according to the medical examiner.

A crimson trail led from the road where tire marks showed an automobile had stopped far to one side of the roadway while the dying girl was lifted from the car and carried to the place where her assassins believed she would remain hidden for days. Somehow she managed to free her arm and in a last effort wave it to signal help.

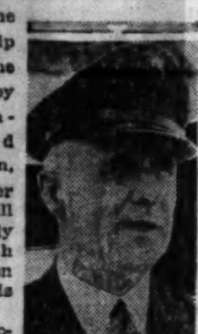

At the same time police were planting their broad toed shoes in reluctantly opened doors as they poked about in gangster haunts on a search for the men who shot down Jack (Legs) Diamond, New York's bulletproof public enemy, from an ambush in the Catskill mountains. Diamond caught buckshot in his lung, back and liver early today, but again cheated death and was still alive in an Albany hospital tonight.

Gov. Franklin D. Roosevelt moved swiftly to chase the thugs out of the hills, beginning an anti-gang war all his own and sending state troopers to patrol the region lately terrorized by the Diamond mob. The prosecutor of Green county was superseded and Attorney General John J. Bennett Jr. ordered to the scene.

While gangland was erupting, the myriad city investigations were beginning the week with new charges and counter charges bringing them to new heights of bitterness. Dr. John Haynes Holmes answered Mayor Walker's charge that he was a "pulpit communist" and declared that the mayor, who is expecting exoneration from Gov. Roosevelt on recent charges of general shortcomings in office most any day, was getting in a "panicky" state of mind. Mayor Walker, meanwhile, continued his one man frontal attack on "the Red plot" to overthrow him and then "the national government."

EXPLORER MAC MILLAN WILL TRY ROUND TRIP ACROSS SEA BY PLANE

Los Angeles, Cal., April 27.—(AP)—In the role of a trans-Atlantic flyer whose goal is the first round trip crossing of the north Atlantic by airplane, Commander Donald B. MacMillan, veteran explorer of the arctic, will attempt to fly back and forth between Boston and London this summer.

COMMANDER D. B. MAC MILLAN.

A swift monoplane, a Lockheed-Vega, the same design of ship in which many transcontinental speed records have been set, will be used. A Los Angeles flyer, Charles F. Rocheville, will pilot the ship.

The takeoff is set for June 1. Leaving Boston, the two will steer a course to Labrador, where they will make a search for the plane of Capt. Charles Nungessor and Francois Coli, French flyers missing since 1927, then continue to London. If successful, they will fly back to Boston as soon as possible.

BARKER TRIES TO GET OUT OF JAIL ON WRIT

George (Red) Barker, public enemy, labor racketeer, and gunman, who was released from the penitentiary by the Supreme court on a writ of habeas corpus, is going to try the writ method to get out of the county jail on a gun toting charge. His attorneys appeared before Chief Justice John P. McGoorty of the Criminal court yesterday with a habeas corpus writ and it was assigned to Judge John Prystalski for hearing today.

Barker's attorneys contend that inasmuch as the state did not prosecute Barker at the time he was indicted that it cannot now reinstate the cases and hold him in jail. They say that the state abandoned the prosecution and has no right now to revive the charges. The attorneys explained that this was the reason why they had not previously sought Barker's release on $10,000 bond.

Judge Frees Nephew of Police Official

John Rafferty, 21 years old, 2603 East 73d street, a nephew of Deputy Chief of Detectives Lawrence Rafferty, and John Hawkins, 18, of 2818 East 78th strete, were freed yesterday when they were arraigned in the Boys' court on disorderly conduct charges. They were arrested on Saturday night after fighting with Nathan Bender, 7422 Colfax street, in a restaurant at 2613 East 75th street. Judge Allegretti held that all combatants were at fault.

DRY RAIDERS SEIZE 63 IN HURLEY, WIS.; CLOSE 'SILVER STREET'

Hurley, Wis., April 27.—(AP)—An automobile caravan carrying twenty-four federal prisoners, the first of a group of sixty-three saloon operators and bartenders, charged with violations of the prohibition laws, moved from notorious Silver street late today into Ashland, Wis. Eighteen others are to make the trip tomorrow.

Townspeople lined the streets and waved farewells from windows as the prisoners made hasty arrangements for the conduct of their business while absent, and for bond money.

Except for four places located on side streets, the marshals virtually made a clean sweep of establishments on Silver street, mecca for sporting lumberjacks and miners whose ribald "celebrations" achieved for Hurley the reputation of being "the oasis of Wisconsin."

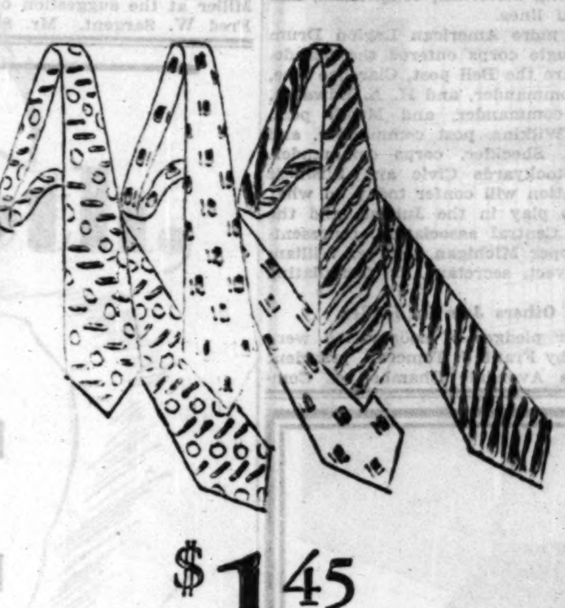

U. S. AGENTS NAB WHOLE GANG OF COUNTERFEITERS

Three men arrested by federal secret service agents yesterday completed the rounding up of a gang of $20 note counterfeiters, according to Capt. Thomas J. Callaghan. The imitations were said to have been among the finest ever found in Chicago and were made by bleaching $1 bills and reprinting them as $20 notes.

Carmine Pirofalo, Leo Cudia, and Louis C. Olivo waived examination yesterday and were held in bonds of $10,000 each by United States Commissioner Walker. Michael Dodig and Robert Sluyo, arrested Saturday, also waived examination and were held to the grand jury.

The engraving allegedly was done by Pirofalo, who was said to have given up a $100 a week job to work for Cudia. The bills were allegedly printed in a shop at 1706 West 51st street, owned by Olivo. About forty of the notes were struck off.

Mrs. William Blake

A beautiful early American apartment at 900 North Michigan Avenue, Chicago, affords a restful retreat for Mr. and Mrs. William Blake when they are not on one of their extended trips to some far corner of the globe. In addition to travel, Mrs. Blake finds time to be an enthusiastic hostess and sportswoman. She entertains, hunts, fishes and adores outdoor life.

"In our home we start the day with Welch's," she says. "As a breakfast fruit it is a wonderful time-saver and gives zest to the appetite. Welch's is always in season and delicious the year around. It is richer and fresher than any other grape juice I know of. Welch's satisfies my craving for sweets between meals. When I am shopping it rests and strengthens me more than anything else, because it seems to be abundant with nourishment. I have confidence in the cleanliness and purity of Welch's because I know it is prepared the way I want my foods prepared."

this tonic-food that does not fatten » » »

That is why Welch's Grape Juice so perfectly serves the purpose of those who want to forestall excess weight. There is no need to suffer that famished feeling when Welch's supplements a restricted diet. This pure, pasteurized juice of vine-ripened Concords possesses the mineral salts, neutralizing acids and fruit proteins which stay hunger.

Drink Welch's at breakfast, luncheon, dinner and you may safely curtail your usual quota of heavier foods. You will also find it an energizing bracer for the mid-morning and mid-afternoon "fatigue period." Many people prefer to dilute it with one-third to one-half water. Thus the cost is less than any other form of fruit diet.

Make grape juice a family habit the year around, but be sure it's Welch's. Only then can you be certain of quality that is laboratory controlled.

Welch's "by-the-bunch" is now available in the 10c Junior, the new sampler size, convenient for a single serving. It is the concentrated goodness of one and a quarter bunches of full-ripe Concords. Ask for Welch's at leading fountains, hotels, clubs and restaurants. Include it in your diet for one month—then check results. The pint bottle at 30c is most economical for household use. Write for health-and-weight-control booklet . . . Welch's, Dept. CT-9 Westfield, New York.

the line of march. James C. Petrillo, president of the federation, will lead the union band.

Meanwhile preparations for the Chicago Jubilee added steadily to the hundreds of various phases. Loop stores and merchants in the outlying districts formulated interesting events. Stores downtown will be decorated with special symbols of the occasion. Special sales will be offered. More definite programs will be mapped today at a meeting of the State Street council.

Entries for the first major event of the Jubilee, the May 11 parade, increased. The floats will as a whole be gorgeous and symbolical. However, Mr. Ashley pointed out that the floats must carry the dominating theme of the pageant, depicting the city's progress along historical, commercial, and cultural lines.

Two more American Legion Drum and Bugle corps entered the parade. They are the Bell post, Clarence Kee, post commander, and H. A. Edwards, corps commander, and Medill post, J. E. Wilkins, post commander, and W. H. Sheckler, corps commander. The Stockyards Civic and Business association will confer today on what rôle to play in the Jubilee, and the North Central association, representing Upper Michigan avenue, William C. Calvert, secretary, is formulating plans.

Others Join in Jubilee.

Other pledges of cooperation were made by Frank J. Tomczak, president of the Avondale Chamber of Commerce; Charles Rudolphy, president of the Parkview Civic league; Arthur C. Clemensen, president of the South Shore Chamber of Commerce, whose organization will feature a baby carriage parade; A. L. Foster, executive secretary, Chicago Urban league, and the Rudolph Wurlitzer Music company.

The Wurlitzer company will furnish an expert band of 175 pieces. Its float entry will be a huge, golden lyre.

The Chicago & North Western railroad will also supply a band, consisting of forty-five employé musicians, which was organized in 1925 by R. A. Miller at the suggestion of President Fred W. Sargent. Mr. Sargent has offered to exhibit the replica of "The Pioneer," first locomotive to run West from Chicago on any line.

A float, carrying a miniature model of the new $10,000,000 outer drive bridge, will be put in the parade by the Ketler-Elliott Construction company which, it was intimated last night, would be awarded the contract. The site of the bridge will be dedicated during the Jubilee, and ground will be broken.

Mayor Proclaims Chicago Jubilee

Mayor Cermak last night issued the following official proclamation setting aside the period from May 10 to May 20 as the Chicago Jubilee week:

"WHEREAS, Numerous civic organizations, commercial, industrial and financial institutions and prominent citizens of the city of Chicago have evidenced a desire to engage in a great civic celebration designed to demonstrate to the world Chicago's great market facilities, its many educational and cultural advantages, its beauty, and its unequaled opportunities for wholesome recreation and thereby attract to Chicago many visitors; and

"WHEREAS, The period from May 10 to May 20, 1931, both inclusive, is regarded as an appropriate time for holding this great civic celebration to be known as 'Chicago Jubilee Week'; and

"WHEREAS, The city council of the city of Chicago has, by a resolution, unanimously voted at its meeting on April 27, 1931, to endorse the plan and has authorized the appointment of a committee of citizens and aldermen for the purpose of making suitable plans for this celebration.

"NOW, THEREFORE, I, A. J. Cermak, mayor of the city of Chicago, do hereby proclaim the period of May 10 to May 20, both inclusive, as 'Chicago Jubilee Week,' and call upon all of our commercial, industrial and financial institutions, and the citizenship generally, to observe this week by suitably decorating their places of business and cooperating with the 'Chicago Jubilee Committee,' the Chicago Association of Commerce, and other interested organizations to the end that the event may be made an occasion worthy of the traditions and ideals of Chicago."

You can pay a little less, or far more . . but Pontiac is the happy medium in car quality and cost ★

If you are like a lot of other motorists, what you really want is a car you can be proud of, at a reasonable cost.

That describes the new Pontiac. It has the quality you insist on, yet the price is well within the limits of a reasonable motoring budget.

Driving this car, you will feel a smooth, even power which speaks volumes for its new 60 h. p. engine. One reason for that smoothness is the engine's large size, which means it never has to "labor". And along with ample size it has fine balance of design and construction.

Seeking reasons for Pontiac's unusual riding ease, you will learn that rubber cushions at 43 points in the chassis absorb shocks and vibration.

On hot days or cold days or rainy days you will appreciate the snug comfort and protection of a Pontiac body—insulated against outside temperature, dampness and noise.

Stopping in traffic or riding down a steep hill, a light touch will prove that Pontiac has brakes you can depend on.

And if you care about other people's approval, you'll notice plenty of it as you drive your Pontiac around town! Better still, you'll hear that approval as your guests note the genuine mohair or whipcord upholstery, the rich appointments, the fine finish of every detail inside and outside this modern car.

See the new Pontiac—drive it—and we know you will find it the kind of car you like at the price you want to pay.

YOU MUST OBEY ME! POPE TELLS FASCIST ITALY

BY DAVID DARRAH.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

ROME, April 27.—The sharp conflict which has been renewed during the past few weeks between Fascism and the Vatican over the activities of the Azione Cattolica, a church organization with thousands of Italian members, reached a head today when it was revealed that Pope Pius XI. has personally taken a hand in the controversy.

POPE PIUS XI.
[Associated Press Photo.]

The dispute grew over Fascist charges that the organizers of the Azione Cattolica were not confining themselves to strictly religious and moral welfare work, but were, in fact, attempting to organize workingmen into Catholic syndicates in rivalry to Fascism's system, which claims a monopoly, and so were opposing the corporative state.

Heated Dispute Develops.

Sig. Traglia, head of the Catholic organization in Rome, resigned a few days ago after Fascist newspapers here printed a circular letter, which, it was alleged he had sent out, giving instructions for organizing laborers.

A heated controversy developed. Secretary Giovanni Guiriati of the Fascist party in a speech at Milan last week warned church authorities against any intrusion into the field of syndicalism, which field, he indicated, was totally controlled by the Fascist régime.

The Fascist claims were that the Azione Cattolica leaders were covertly trying to organize the old Populist, or Catholic party, and to set up a rival labor organization which, in event of any emergency, could be substituted for that which has been elaborated upon by Fascism. Greater bitterness has been aroused in Fascist circles by Catholic preparations to celebrate the 40th anniversary of the encyclical of Pope Leo XIII, the "Novarum Rerum," which sets up labor doctrines that the Fascist régime considers have been superseded by its own.

Pope Pius makes a direct reply in a letter to Cardinal Schuster, archbishop of Milan, published in tonight's issue of Osservatore Romano, Vatican organ. The pontiff deplores Secretary Guiriati's speech and challenges Fascism's sole right to the instruction of youth, and its claim to the right to determine in what way lay organizations may assist the church.

Row Over Field of Action.

Difficulty has arisen, continued the pope, over the relative field of action between the church and state. As far as the Fascist régime is concerned, he declared, it must apply itself "only to matters which are in the competency of the state."

"All supernatural, moral, and religious matters are in the total competency of the church, and the state must recognize this, since it has established Catholicism as a state religion under the Italo-Vatican concordat," the pontiff continued.

The Azione Cattolica, the letter urged, must obstain from political activities, but adherents of the church organization "cannot be prevented from having a spiritual part in such political activities as are intended to procure the greatest good for the multitude."

"It is evident," the pope said, "that the church has a right to direct the work of the Azione Cattolica and to look after the good of the workingmen, not in order to oppose the work of the syndicate state, but to safeguard and enhance the good of souls. There cannot be a conflict because the corporative state's function is to regulate the relations of labor and capital, while the Azione Cattolica's field is purely spiritual.

"Difficulties may arise on account of the attitude of the Fascist state and régime as such. But since the Fascist state maintains that it is Catholic, it becomes plain that it must obey the church and its head if it wishes to be truly Catholic, and accept what the pope and the church say about the Azione Cattalica as part of its duty to the church and faith in its support."

The pontiff ended by declaring he hoped his letter will dissipate unjustified suspicions. It is generally felt that the letter has established an impasse from which there can be no exit unless one side or the other yields in its stand.

STRONGHOLD OF HONDURAN REBEL ARMY CAPTURED

TEGUCIGALPA, Honduras, April 27.—(AP)—Gen. Ferrera, commander in chief of the main body of the rebel army, the government learned tonight, was driven from his position on the outskirts of San Pedro Sula last night after a determined attack by loyalist troops under the government commander, Gen. Reina.

When Gen. Reina sent two large bodies of troops against Ferrera last night, the rebels refused to battle and evacuated their position.

Reports from Trujillo and Villanueva, a small town 20 miles from San Pedro, said the rebels were terrorizing the inhabitants.

"The Old Order Changeth, yielding place to new"

There's as much difference between Electrolux and other automatic refrigerators as there is between modern automobiles and the first horseless carriage.

Electrolux automatically makes ice cubes and constant cold—without any machinery or moving parts at all

WHEN you come to investigate automatic refrigerators, as sooner or later you will, you'll find that the weight of evidence all points in one direction.

Electrolux—the finest, most modern of all automatic refrigerators—is fast becoming standard equipment in the best homes and apartments everywhere. Over 140,000 are already installed, chosen solely on merit by architects, builders and individual owners.

And no wonder! Electrolux has no machinery or moving parts. Consequently there is no friction, vibration or wear—no alternate stopping and starting. The cold stays remarkably even, varying scarcely at all from the ideal temperature. And with no moving parts, Electrolux can never make the slightest noise. It is forever silent.

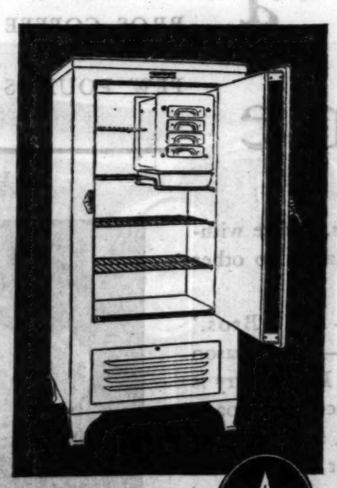

In this magically simple box, a tiny gas flame and a tiny flow of water are the whole "works." They act on a liquid refrigerant which is hermetically sealed in rigid steel. The refrigerant is ordinary ammonia, little stronger than household ammonia. The tiny gas flame is completely protected by an automatic shut-off.

"Fine!" you say. "But what about cost?" Actually, it costs less to operate an Electrolux than it does to buy ice. Only a few cents a day covers everything.

Installation, too, is a simple matter. Connections for gas and water, through flexible copper tubing, are quickly and easily made for you by your gas company. And should you ever need service on Electrolux, you get the prompt, efficient kind of service for which your gas company is famous.

Despite its many advantages, Electrolux prices are no higher. There are 10 household models, ranging from 3 cu. ft. to 20 cu. ft. capacity. See display at your local gas company's showrooms. For complete illustrated information by mail, write us today or phone Wabash 6000.

COSTS LESS TO OPERATE
Electrolux is the world's most economical refrigerator. It operates for only a few cents a day—less than the cost of ice—less than any other automatic refrigerator.

THE KITCHENETTE—a roomy, beautiful Electrolux model—extremely popular for families of 2 to 5 persons.

PAST EMPLOYERS URGE PAROLE FOR CUTTEN ROBBER

Ask Release of a Thief Hunted for Years.

Testimony was given before the state parole board yesterday to the effect that if Charles Simon Rosenberg, leader of the robbers who nine years ago locked Arthur Cutten and his family in a vault at his summer home at Downers Grove after obtaining $25,000 in cash and jewelry, is released he would become a good citizen and would be given employment.

C. S. ROSENBERG. [Acme Photo.]

Even Mr. Cutten, following the hearing, indicated that he is convinced that if Rosenberg is freed he will not revert to his criminal ways, and said he will not oppose the parole. Sympathy for Rosenberg's wife and two children, Mr. Cutten said, also influenced him to leniency.

This Rosenberg was the eighth of the bandits to be captured because of an unrelenting search by Mr. Cutten, millionaire grain and stock dealer. The search, which lasted eight years, brought about the capture of the entire band. The ninth was Casper Rosenberg, a brother of Charles Simon, but Casper was the beneficiary of a change of heart by Mr. Cutten, who declined to prosecute him and the charge was nolle prossed.

Pleads Guilty at Trial.

"I didn't mind the loss of the money and jewelry," Mr. Cutten said after the capture of Charles Simon. "What made me determine to get them if it took a lifetime was that they tied up Mrs. Cutten, my brother, four servants, and myself and put us in a vault where we might have died of suffocation.

"That was an unnecessary and fiendish piece of cruelty. I said then that I'd spend every dollar at my command to put them where they belong—behind bars."

Charles Simon Rosenberg was captured in Cleveland, O., and he fought extradition to Wheaton. At his trial he pleaded guilty and was sentenced to one year to life and he was received at the Joliet penitentiary last April.

Former Employer Testifies.

At the parole board hearing yesterday Stewart Howard of Detroit, Mich., testified that Rosenberg worked for him for three years—1922 to 1925—and that he was one of the most efficient salesmen he had. He once entrusted Rosenberg with $17,000 in cash to go to Colorado to swing a deal.

R. A. Ladding of Lansing, Mich., said that for the next few years the fugitive was employed by his company and had been elected vice president and would have been reelected to that office in 1929 only that Rosenberg wanted to come back and surrender on the Cutten robbery charge.

The two men said Rosenberg's record as a citizen was excellent during the time they knew him. He was married in 1926, they said, and they urged that he be freed. The parole board said they would question Rosenberg at its next session two weeks from now.

ALCOCK BANK BALANCE HUNT MEETS DELAYS

It was agreed yesterday by Chief Justice John P. McGoorty of the Criminal court and Assistant State's Attorney Charles J. Mueller that the obtaining by grand jury subpoena of bank account records of Commissioner Alcock, his chief aids and the 57 police captains of the city is a "fishing expedition." The judge and the prosecutor differed, however, on whether the fishing expedition should be continued.

JUDGE McGOORTY.

Last week the bank account records of seventeen captains were produced, and some were considered as worth further investigation. Yesterday Mr. Mueller presented a petition to Chief Justice McGoorty asking a writ to obtain those of Alcock and the rest of the commanding officers.

"This is a fishing expedition," Judge McGoorty said, in refusing to authorize the bank search, "and to besmirch men on a fishing expedition is grossly unfair. The issuance of a subpoena duces tecum in regard to Commissioner Alcock would be unfair and embarrassing to the present police administration. It is quite evident that Alcock has the confidence of Mayor Cermak, evidenced by the fact the mayor has retained him in command of the police department, and as evidenced by the press and the public."

Mr. Mueller was not present when the petition was presented to Judge McGoorty and the court commented that he did not believe Mueller's policy was in accord with the wishes of the foreman of the special grand jury, Joseph A. Farmar. Later Mr. Mueller admitted that he and Mr. Farmar had disagreed on the inclusion of the names of Alcock, Chief of Detectives John Norton, Deputy Commissioner James B. Scanlan, and Deputy Detective Chief Lawrence Rafferty.

NO ONE can drink Hills Bros. Coffee without realizing that it has a flavor no other coffee has.

Controlled Roasting—Hills Bros.' patented, continuous process—is the reason for this delicious difference. Every berry is "done to a turn" by this process that roasts only a few pounds at a time, and possesses the utmost in uniform flavor and fragrant aroma. Such perfection cannot be achieved in bulk-roasted coffee.

Whenever or wherever you buy Hills Bros. Coffee, it is always fresh. Air, which destroys the flavor of coffee, is taken out and kept out of the vacuum can in which Hills Bros. Coffee is packed. Ordinary cans, even if air-tight, do not keep coffee fresh.

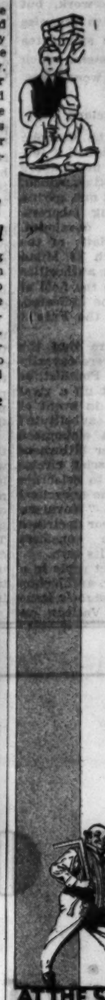

Ask for Hills Bros. Coffee by name and look for the Arab—the trade-mark—on the can. Sold by grocers everywhere.

If you've ever taken Bayer Aspirin for a headache, you know how soon the pain subsides. It is just as effective in the relief of those pains peculiar to women!

Don't dedicate certain days of every month to suffering. It's old-fashioned. It's unnecessary. Aspirin will always enable you to carry on in comfort. Take enough to assure your complete comfort. If it is genuine aspirin it cannot possibly hurt you. Bayer Aspirin does not depress the heart. It does not upset the stomach. It does nothing but stop the pain.

Headaches come at inconvenient times. So do colds. But a little Bayer Aspirin will always save the day. A throat so sore you can hardly swallow is made comfortable with one good gargle made from these tablets. Neuralgia. Neuritis. Rheumatism. Pains that once kept people home are forgotten half an hour after taking a few of these remarkable tablets. So are the little nagging aches that bring fatigue and "nerves" by day, or a sleepless night.

Bayer-Tablets Aspirin Genuine

Genuine Bayer Aspirin tablets cost so very little after all, that it doesn't pay to experiment with imitations!

ADVERTISE IN THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE

INDICT STEDMAN, 7 MORE OFFICERS OF CLOSED BANK

Charge Receiving Deposits While Insolvent.

CRIMINAL COURT.

SEYMOUR STEDMAN

Seymour Stedman, prominent Socialist lawyer and once a candidate for mayor, and seven other officials of the defunct City State Bank of Chicago, 130 North Wells street, were reported named in true bills voted by the grand jury yesterday charging receiving deposits while the bank was insolvent.

The grand jurors, it is expected, will vote an additional true bill for conspiracy this morning and will name other persons than the bank officials identified in the true bills voted last evening. Assistant State's Attorneys Henry Ayers, Leonard Rice, and Voyle Johnson refused to indicate the identity of the others to be indicted, but admitted that they would be persons not already named.

Name Others Indicted.

Those named beside Stedman, who was vice president and trust officer of the bank, are:

Frank D. Robinson, vice president and a director.

Edwin G. Rellihen, Bennett J. C. Johnson, and William C. Hartray, all directors.

Cornelius R. Miller, former Small political leader and president of the bank, has died since the institution was closed Nov. 2, 1929, by order of the state auditor. Since the bank was taken over by a receiver the depositors have received only 20 per cent of their money. The prosecutors said they have not much hope for any future substantial dividend.

Name Specific Deposits.

The two true bills are voted on the specific deposits made by George W. Stilwell for $500 on Dec. 31, 1929, and of Mrs. Louise Green, 3522 Monroe street, for $105 on Nov. 2, 1929. It is charged by the prosecutors that the bank was insolvent long before the institution was closed and that the officers knew it and continued with the banking business.

According to Prosecutor Ayers the assets show a shrinkage of $1,500,000 from what the bank officials claimed just before the bank was closed. The institution had $400,500 of public funds, state, city, and county, on hand when the bank was closed. Time and demand deposits were more than $3,000,000, it is said the audit shows. Among the items found by the auditors are loans of $456,000 to the Coöperative Society of America, $204,417 to George Pollo, a real estate operator; $101,987 to the Lakeside hospital, and $690,000 to corporations in which the bank directors were themselves interested.

Known as Parker Bank.

The bank originally, according to the prosecutors, was known as a Harrison B. Parker bank. Parker was founder of the Coöperative Society of America. It was later taken over by the Stedman interests and was supposed to attract the funds of the labor organizations.

SHOW TIME LOST IN TRANSFERS OF AIR-RAIL TRAVEL

Need Fields at Train Terminals.

BY ROBERT WOOD.

How valuable time is lost by travelers using combined rail and plane service was demonstrated yesterday in flight of THE TRIBUNE airplane from Cleveland to Chicago carrying a passenger on the last lap of a trip from New York.

Record time was made in the Chicago-Cleveland hop—two hours and ten minutes of flying time for a distance of 318 miles in a fast cabin monoplane capable of cruising speeds in excess of 150 miles an hour. That was only twice the time required to transport the passenger from the depot to the airport at Cleveland, showing that minutes clipped off in the air are dissipated on the ground because of the inaccessibility of airports.

Loses Time in Transfer.

The passenger departed from New York at 7:45 p. m. on the New York Central, breakfasted aboard the diner the next morning and arrived at Cleveland at 8:40 a. m. eastern standard time. An hour was consumed in reaching the airport, the plane departing at 9:40 and arriving in Chicago at 10:50 central standard time. That hour wasted in Cleveland, if saved, would have brought the passenger into Chicago ahead of the Twentieth Century Limited which left New York hours before the passenger departed.

The so-called air-rail services are in reality air-auto-rail services and the loss of time incurred by the intervening auto rides from rail stations to airports detracts from the positive benefits of the combined train and plane service.

The solution, air operators are convinced, lies in the building of air terminals along the railroad rights of way so that passengers may be quickly transferred and lost motion eliminated. The Pennsylvania line has solved the problem for its Transcontinental Air Transport-Western air route from Chicago to Los Angeles. Passengers who prefer to use rail service between New York and Columbus, O., are transferred from train to plane or vice versa at Port Columbus, the air line's terminal built along the Pennsylvania tracks at Columbus.

Similar Problem Here.

Chicago has the same problem for none of its principal airports are centrally located. Nearly an hour's ride by auto separates them from rail stations.

Air ticket agents report growing favor for the air-rail services for the business man who wants to utilize sleeping hours for train travel and transfer to air lines for quicker transportation during daylight.

The bureaus frequently receive requests for air-rail conections eastbound which would allow the passenger to leave Chicago by train at 9 p. m. and transfer to plane service at Buffalo at 9 a. m. the following morning. While New York is some 400 miles from Buffalo by rail the distance is only 300 miles by air and by fast airplane can be covered in little more than two hours as compared with a rail journey of nearly twelve hours.

"Rounded" Performance!

The Torsiograph, one of the most nearly infallible of automotive laboratory instruments, records accurately the vibration of any rotating shaft. The closer the record chart approaches a true circle, the more nearly perfect the balance of the crankshaft. Above are shown the Torsiographic records of The Dictator Eight nine (9) bearing crankshaft and those of two other eights of double The Dictator's price. Notice the smooth roundness of The Dictator graph contrasted with the irregularity, or "humpiness" of the other two.

No car in its price class matches the velvet smoothness of The Dictator's 81 horsepower engine. Its Torsiograph record is smoothly "rounded" in striking contrast to the roughness common to ordinary eights, sixes and fours.

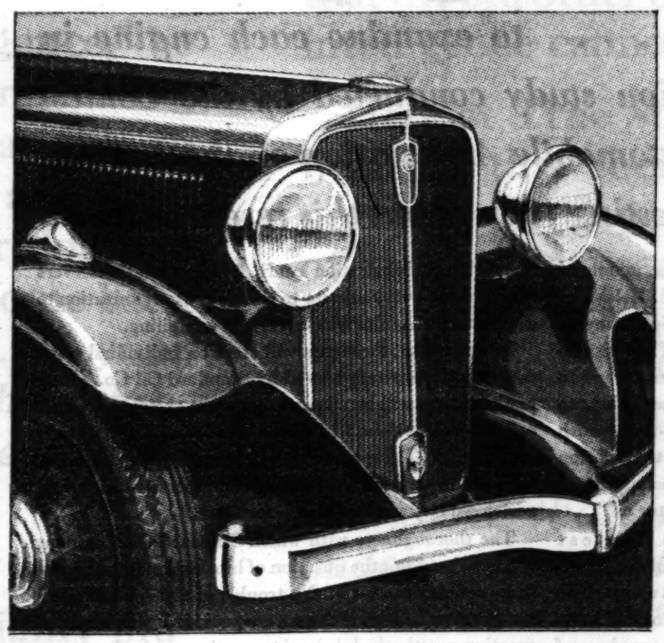

No car in its price class has the effective carburetor silencing and the full-power engine muffling without back pressure that combine to give The Dictator Eight quiet and smoothness equaled only in high priced cars.

Studebaker goes to extremes not approached by any maker in this price class to remove vibration. The crankshaft of The Dictator engine has nine (9) bearings and is balanced not only statically but dynamically on machines that are marvels of precision.

What remains of vibration is further minimized by a crankshaft vibration damper. Dual carburetion and manifolding, feeding exactly proportional amounts of fuel to each cylinder, avoid "starving" of the end cylinders and assure even power impulses.

And plus all this, plus the fact that The Dictator Eight has only 38.2 pounds of weight per horsepower, you also get Free Wheeling, greatest engineering advance since the electric starter. You get Free Wheeling's unique travel-smoothness, its freedom from clutch pushing, its 15% to 20% gas and oil savings, its officially approved increased safety.

Drive this Free Wheeling Dictator—the Eight without a "rough spot" in its whole sparkling speed range and you'll recognize, without a word of salesmanship, that it's far and away the best "buy" in its price range.

Is a Reputation Worth While?

An excerpt from the Daily News Record, a publication devoted to the interests of retailers and manufacturers.

"Men in their lives play many parts, but I doubt the ability of merchants to change fronts with every passing breeze. Grounded in certain traditions, retail establishments are forever associated in the public mind with those traditions, and the things they stand for.

"If a store is known as an exclusive and expensive store in its palmy days, it is henceforth and forever associated in the public mind with expensive and exclusive merchandise.

"Any sort of a reputation is persistent. Reputations survive long after men and things are dead. Nature deals a cold hand to those who contradict her. Only the most remarkable institutions play many roles successfully."

In the long run we usually get what we pay for—but never "something for nothing." This has been a quality institution for 59 years. As such it will continue.

PRINCE OF WALES LOSES CHILE AS "AIR" CUSTOMER

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

SANTIAGO, Chile, April 27.—The prince of Wales, who was rushed to South America as Great Britain's "master salesman" in an effort to capture more business for the British market, lost a sale to the United States today when the government announced its plan to purchase a second 14 passenger Sikorsky plane for the national air line.

PRINCE OF WALES.

The heir to the British throne lost the sale unwittingly when he practically talked Chile into buying from the United States.

It all occurred on his visit to Chile. The government had purchased a Sikorsky plane to transport the prince over the Andes. The prince expressed his delight with the plane and became so enthusiastic about it that the government decided to put in an order for another one.

Yanks Steal a March.

Americans have also stolen a march on British aviation officials by inviting Air Secretary Merino Benitez and other Chilean aviation officials and flyers to attend the aerial maneuvers in the United States in June before going to England in response to an invitation by the prince of Wales.

America's invitation was extended through its embassy and was accepted. When they have completed their observation tour in the United States they will proceed to England for the Hendon air display.

British circles are chagrined, in as much as they were congratulating themselves over the progress the prince of Wales made in "winning" the Chilean air market.

British Show Closes.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BUENOS AIRES, April 27.—The British Empire Trade exhibition, opened by the prince of Wales on March 14, will close tonight. The attendance up to last night was announced as 1,443,914, more than doubling the original estimates.

Apart from the spectacular side of the show, exhibitors have reported strong business interest with a fair number of orders, which they look upon as satisfactory under the prevailing trade depression. American business men view the British exhibition with equanimity. They insist it implies no danger to standard American exports such as farm machinery, tools, typewriters, and automobiles.

Wales Flies to Paris.

PARIS, April 27.—(AP)—The prince of Wales and his brother, Prince George, returning home after an extensive tour of South America, spent tonight in Paris before making the last leg of their trip by air. They expect to fly home from Le Bourget tomorrow.

The royal tourists drove to the British embassy here this evening after flying from Bordeaux. Earlier in the day the brothers had notified their parents of their safe arrival in France. After spending a night in Portugal the princes came to Bordeaux this morning on the H. M. S. Kent. They arrived in the French seaport in a heavy drizzle.

STEAL $5,000 IN DRESSES.

Two robbers entered the Lo-Mae Dress shop at 5047 West Chicago avenue yesterday and after binding and gagging the proprietor, Morris Perlberg, loaded $5,000 worth of dresses on a truck and drove away.

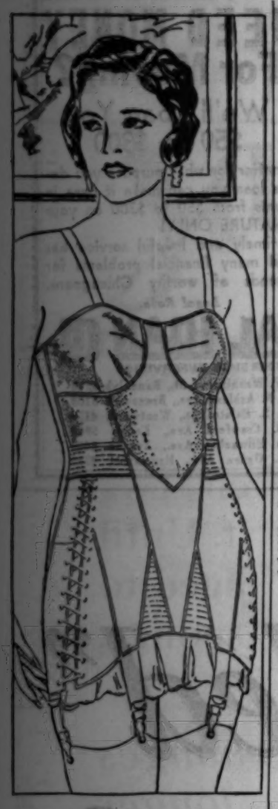

$60,000 IN RUM CONSIGNED TO A CLUB IS SEIZED

Labeled "hardwood building blocks" and consigned to the University club of Chicago, a freight car load of fine liquors, valued at more than $60,000, was seized by special prohibition agents in a railroad yard at Atlanta, Ga., yesterday.

Roy Osgood, president of the University club, protested that the use of the club's name was outrageous, but Eliot Ness, assistant in charge of the special agents in Chicago, declared that rum smugglers always consign their shipments to innocent and reputable concerns to elude suspicion.

Information from the special agents at Savannah, Ga., where the liquor was shipped, put prohibition forces at Atlanta on guard and the contraband was seized on its arrival there.

Agents at Atlanta said the liquor had been imported from Canada and France, landed on the south Atlantic coast and reconsigned. The booze included Buchanan's Fine Old Scotch, Indian Hill, Old Colonel, Coon Hollow, Golden Wedding, and American bourbons, Bacardi rum, port and Bordeaux wines, and French champagnes.

INSPECTORS SPRANG EAGERLY

. . . . . to examine each engine in the searching lubrication study conducted by the Contest Board of American Automobile Association on the Indianapolis Speedway. Interesting facts about this research work.

DAY AND NIGHT the work went on from the middle of March through the first week in April. Relays of drivers kept the cars whirling around the Speedway at Indianapolis until a test run was finished. Then inspectors sprang eagerly to examine the engine of each car—to remove and preserve the carbon for careful weighing, to measure the cylinder wear even unto one ten-thousandth of an inch. Also they checked accurately on the dilution and consumption of the motor oil.

The Contest Board of the American Automobile Association handled every phase of this elaborate lubrication study. Their official observers were present every minute to enable that organization to certify to the results which it is now compiling.

In two weeks, these cars will start on individual tours covering the territory served by Standard Oil Co., (Indiana). Dealers will be allowed to inspect their car when it calls to present them with the certified results of the study on the track. These cars also will be gathering additional lubrication data as they swing along country highways and down city streets. Watch for them.

The thoroughness with which Standard Oil Company (Indiana) studies the question of lubrication is found also in its refining methods. No trouble or time or expense is too great to be sure that you are provided with motor oil meeting exactly the lubricating requirements of your car.

Human or Dog Intelligence?

Out in Chicago there was (and still is) a truly great and, therefore, a very gentle professor of biology named C. Judson Herrick.

Some years ago Mr. Herrick set himself the task of giving to a group of hard-headed business men their first course in biology.

The thing went along all right with a varying degree of success until the professor began tracing the development of the cortex, or new brain, up to the level of human intelligence; or rather, began differentiating between human and animal intelligence.

And there the personal experience of the hard-headed business man with innumerable pets stepped in, and the puzzlement began.

"But, Professor," some querulous voice would call from the middle of the room, "my uncle had a dog who always used to go fishing with him in his boat, and my uncle always carried a big sponge in his boat to bail out the water. And one day my uncle forgot his sponge and said to the dog, 'Go back and get sponge.' And the dog went back to the house and got the sponge. Now, Professor, isn't that human intelligence?"

"No," the patient Herrick would reply. "I'm sorry. That is not human intelligence. That is dog intelligence. If your uncle's dog had gone back to the house for the sponge and, failing to find the sponge, had brought a bucket—that would be human intelligence."

"One good definition of human intelligence," he would continue, "is the capacity for translating experience. All that your uncle's dog was able to do was to try to complete the picture as it had always been. Man, boat, sponge. If your dog had failed to find the sponge, he would have come back without anything else to take its place. If your uncle had failed to find the sponge, he might have come back without anything else to take its place, but we hope not."

In the light of tne recent experience of the business world the Herrick story becomes highly illuminating and, in some cases, rather sharply pointed. As long as business was on an even keel, the picture could always be completed in the old way and there was no problem involved. But when our business boat began leaking and the sponge got lost, there was the devil to pay.

Again and again, we have turned to the business dog, who can best be represented by our habit of always doing the same thing in the same way, and told him almost tearfully that the boat was leaking and please go back and get sponge. And each time our business dog has come back without it. Until finally, quite a number of us have been obliged to give up relying on a business dog and a lost sponge, and go after a bucket ourselves.

The waves of business and social changes have come upon us so rapidly that we no longer have time to look for a lost sponge, and it wouldn't be much good if we found it.

This new order of things is calling for a new order of operations, wherein the dog intelligence of trying to complete the old picture is no longer of any avail. We have seen the concentration of business into units so great as to be appalling. We have seen the speeding up of production to a point where there seems to be no limit to what we can turn out. Side by side we have seen the social changes parallel the business changes. And we ourselves, or our necessities, have been very largely responsible for those changes.

We have put more money into wages than we ever put into banks. We have elevated our wage-earning group financially to a point where they represent the entire balance of power in our production plants. We have turned an entire economic system upside down with care, and it's no wonder that the old order of things will no longer work. Dog intelligence cannot complete the picture any more.

Here at True Story Magazine we get at the very heart of that social and economic change, as no one else could possibly do. We have two million of these wage-earning Americans who represent the great central core of this social and economic change. They are our readers and our writers. And they are the contact point of millions more. We know what is going on in this new order of things. We know that here is a mass market which under any conditions has never been equalled before in the history of the world. We know that your advertising dollar will go farther in the pages of True Story than it has ever gone before.

This is no longer a matter of argument. Too many of the great advertisers of America have already found it out. They have taken charge of the boat themselves and gone after a bucket.

A BUREAU FOR MAJOR CRIMES.

One of the improvements in police organization conspicuously needed is a bureau to deal with major crimes. The detective bureau is supposed to be something of this nature, but the detective bureau has been largely a resort for policemen with pulls. It has offered berths for policemen who wanted to avoid the hard work and irksome duties of patrol and for those who would use their office to their own advantage. That there have been very able and honest men in this branch of the police service is a tribute to their character rather than to that of the bureau.

With the reform of the police service which is now promised, a bureau of scientific detection and suppression of major crimes should be established. Men of the best quality should be assigned to it and all available resources of science should be employed. There is no question that such a bureau would bring prompt and substantial results. Our present methods are faulty and inadequate, even where sinister influences are not involved. They can be greatly improved by adopting scientific methods and facilities and by developing stricter technique and acquiring, as science does, records of well digested experience. In a country devoted as ours is to applied science it is deplorable that our police methods should be limited to the haphazard experience of an ever changing personnel. Every great industry has its staff of research workers, searching for improvements, testing and accumulating experience, developing better and better technique. The detection of crime is a major industry that is a century behind the times.

BEER AND THE FARMER.

As David Darrah of THE TRIBUNE news service reports, the international grain conference in Rome has been more definitely a grain market for the Russian wheat exporters than anything else. Abraham Kissin, soviet delegate, says he has renewed many interesting contacts and expects to follow up with profitable contracts for the sale of Russian grains. This is getting somewhere for Russia, but otherwise the negotiations seem to flounder. Nevertheless Engelbert Dollfuss, Austrian minister of agriculture, had a suggestion which appears whimsical against our moral background and likewise makes our moralities appear absurd against a background of common sense.

Mr. Dolfuss said that the grain situation the world over would be relieved if American farmers would raise hops for beer instead of so much wheat. The American government has been subsidizing the growing of wheat, which cannot be sold, and prohibiting the use of beer, which the majority of American citizens want. The lunacy is apparent.

The United States has endeavored to discourage overproduction of wheat by pegging the price above the world market. The American millers are disturbed by the diminishing use of flour products and will make the fortune of any man who will increase the demand for breadstuffs. (The bakers will not concede that their output could be more palatable.) Therefore the country farms for a declining appetite and closes its fields to one which is just about as old in man and virtually as harmless in its satisfaction.

To further puzzle the observer of American habits the government which puts a half billion dollars behind the cultivation of certain staples gives $20,000,000 of it to the manufacture of an intoxicating beverage made from California grapes. The Volstead act has been modified in enforcement to allow the salvation of California agriculture as expressed in grape tons and the eighteenth amendment permits the entire citizenship to get drunk, if it cares to, upon a product backed by public money. Grape culture, thus itself cultured by a dry administration, has been a bright spot in California economics and has produced a glow in American homes from one ocean to the other. The only interdiction against the intoxicant is in California itself.

Grapes may be used for the pleasure of citizens and the profit of growers, but grains cannot legally be converted for such purposes. The wine has a heavy alcoholic content, beer has a light. One is permitted, the other forbidden, proof enough that for some purposes the United States goes to Bedlam for its laws and their enforcement.

Not the least of the depressions which have blanketed the country is the one which comes from the blue nose regulations. Repression has become a dismal wetting down of American buoyancy and elan. The censors follow croaking and suppressing on the heels of every activity, and the average American asks how the devil he can escape the pursuit. A restoration of rationality which would permit the use of beer would cheer the flagging spirit of people who have come to think of their social order as one of defeat instead of accomplishment.

The best intentioned of the prohibitionists are people from whom government never should take its initiative. For one thing, they have none. They are quietists. Repression is their code of life, a good thing when applied by the individual to unruly impulses, a bad thing when slapped upon the morale of a nation.

Since Roosevelt the American republic has been bogging itself in moral doubts, uncertainties, and repressions. Censorship and sentimental platitudes have taken the place of its old confidence in itself as a well intentioned democracy, in its citizens as competent and well intentioned individuals.

A nation which will not permit its citizens to drink beer at their own discretion has uttered the final reproach against their character. A government which will then subsidize the making of wine has offered proof of its own stultification. Fields of hops grown for the legal production of malt beverages would be one indication that reason was returning to the scene from which it had fled and another indication that agricultural economics had light ahead.

THE STOCK EXCHANGE CLEANS HOUSE.

The president of the New York Stock exchange, Mr. Richard Whitney, has called attention to the plans of his organization for correcting a number of evils in connection with corporate reporting. It is fortunate that he has done so. The practices which he complains of, while far from universal, are thoroughly unsound and have tended to create a lack of confidence in the integrity of all balance sheets and income accounts.

Mr. Whitney notes that some corporations have needlessly delayed the publication of the results of their operations. Others have confused their accounts by including in income items which are of a nonrecurring nature without so stating. Still others have declined to permit disinterested auditors to review their accounts or have given out as correct statements which had previously been found erroneous by independent auditors.

The exchange, Mr. Whitney explained, in future will refuse to list securities of companies which pursue these and similar methods. Complaints will be examined by the listing committee and its findings in turn will be acted upon by the all powerful governing committee. Action will be delayed only long enough to permit stockholders themselves to bring the offending corporation into line. If they fail, the corporation and the owners of its securities will suffer the consequences of de-listing, and they may well be severe.

Needless to say, the effect of these measures may be somewhat minimized if other important exchanges throughout the country do not insist on rules at least equally stringent. Investors throughout the country will expect statements from the executives of other exchanges which will offer no comfort to corporate directors who would prefer to leave the investing public in the dark.

Even before the collapse of 1929 some congressmen had been seeking to gain notoriety for themselves by making a drive on the principal stock and commodity exchanges. Since then the effort has been redoubled in the belief that the current discontent would yield a rich return to the demagogue. It will not be enough to say that the practices complained of are far from universal, though that is true, or that regulations imposed by law are almost certain to be clumsy, hampering, and ineffective, though that is also true. The attack can be turned back only if the weak points in the exchanges' defenses are strengthened along the lines suggested by Mr. Whitney.

A KINGDOM WITHOUT A KING.

Count Bethlen took the occasion of his tenth anniversary as premier of Hungary to discuss the curious fact that his country is a kingdom without a king. The heir to the throne is Prince Otto, a Hapsburg who was not of age when the present government came into being, but meanwhile has reached his majority. Nevertheless, he has not been invited to reign, and Count Bethlen, though he insisted that the Hungarian people is confirmed in its adherence to the monarchical principle, gave no intimation that Otto or any one else is soon to be summoned to the throne.

Of course it is not impossible that the monarchy will be restored in Hungary, but it is difficult to believe that, if it is, the kingdom will long endure as such. The forces of history are moving in the opposite direction. Spain offers only the latest of a long series of republican victories. The concept of superiority in the reigning family and its fringe of nobility is absurd to the modern man and becomes increasingly so every day. The concept of fealty to an individual personifying the state is childish in the extreme, and it cannot endure in the face of the proved incompetence of the occupants of thrones.

Even the Turks have abandoned the monarchical notion. It is scarcely credible, then, that the Hungarians, with centuries of struggle for human freedom in their history, will long submit themselves to it.

Editorial of the Day

FAUNTLEROY, 1931.

[Grand Rapids (Mich.) Press.]

Charles Ernest Pellew was an American citizen and a chemistry professor at Columbia university, a highly educated and useful New Yorker. He had come over from England at the age of eight with his father, and acquired citizenship with the latter's naturalization.

Today Prof. Pellew is again, after sixty years, a British citizen by virtue of recent action of the London courts, and is entering the house of lords with the title of Viscount Exmouth.

He is a viscount and lord because his great-grandfather, Admiral Edward Pellew, sailed into the harbor of Algiers, like our own Decatur, burned the entire battery, arsenal and fleet of the pestiferous bey, liberated three thousand prisoners, enforced an anti-slavery treaty and forced the bey to apologize. He earned his titles—and his deeds have come down the years to reach into an American college classroom and make a British lord.

Yet Charles Ernest Pellew now reveals that he would never have left America if his aged father had not begged him on his deathbed to live in England. That is entirely believable.

Charles E. Pellew had made a name for himself in America and was happy. He had earned his own merits and titles in his own field, and was respected for his books and his achievements. To exchange these honors for a great-grandfather's, in an entirely different field is nothing like the soft trade our Fauntleroy fiction makes it out to be.

To be in America's self-made "Who's Who," as Pellew was, is today a greater honor than to be in Britain's hereditary "Who's Who," as Lord Exmouth is. The values of the world have so changed in 1931 that we may credit Dr. Pellew with entire sincerity in saying that it was a sacrifice.

SKIN GRAFTING AFTER BURNS.

A CORRESPONDENT asks for an article on the subject of skin grafting after burns. This operation has two purposes. One is to shorten convalescence. The other is to hold disfigurement within bounds. If the healing were left to take care of itself the job would be finally accomplished, but much time would have been lost and considerable scar tissue would have been present. In order to save in these two particulars skin grafting is done.

The wounds caused by burns are those on which grafting is done because few other wounds destroy so much skin and result in such large, uncovered wound surface. The healing of wounds is a complicated process. If foreign material, including bacteria, are present, the defensive cells, called phagocytes, occupy themselves killing off the enemies and removing what is harmful or in the way. In burns there is much for these cells to do, both because of bacteria being present and of the large amount of injured tissue to be carted off.

Lymph and blood come out of the vessels to wash away foreign material and to plug openings. The connective tissue and blood vessels build up repairing tissue, called first granulations, and, eventually, scar tissue. The skin cells, at the margin of the burn, are throwing rafts of new cells over the top near the edge to make a coating of new skin.

Eventually, in the healing process, the bacteria have been routed, the wounded cells have been washed away or carted away, and the wound hole has been filled in by granulations. The time has come to put the finishing touches on the job. The oozing from the vessels must be stopped, the phagocytes must cease accumulating, the formation of granulation tissue must come to an end. To have skin grow over the wound accomplishes just this purpose. In some way the growing epithelial cells restrain all these processes so helpful at one time, but now doing more harm than good.

But there is much space to be filled and the skin at the wound margin finds the job a difficult one. Grafting is done to help out. Bits of skin cells are planted like seed on the wound surface after it has been dried and cleaned. If these take, each island that does so becomes a focus of growth for skin cells.

Sometimes the skin is taken from other persons; sometimes from other parts of the patient's body; and sometimes strips of thin, tongue-like skin shavings are lifted from nearby skin and swung around over the wound and planted there. In some cases one method is used; in some, another. Choice between the methods is made on the extent of the surface to be covered, and some other considerations. The skin to be used must be cleaned and made near-sterile, but beyond that nothing is required. Blood testing is not necessary.

MILK AND FAT.

A. V. B. writes:

Please tell me if milk will make one fat or if it gives one blood. I drink 2 or 3 glasses a day, one hot on going to bed at night. I am told I will get fat, which I do not want to do.

REPLY.

Milk is poor in those elements which make red blood. If you drink it, eat yellow of eggs, juicy meats and vegetables to help make blood. Milk is fattening if you drink much of it, particularly if it is mixed with an abundance of fattening foods.

LEASE IS BINDING.

Chicago, April 11.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—1. Will I be stopped from going abroad, in case of a hurry call, after signing a lease for a year on a flat? 2. Does the owner have the right to hold my furniture for the balance of the lease? 3. If I leave the city for several months will I be held on my return? L. M. G.

1. No, but he could hold your furniture if your rent is not paid to date.
2. Not true, if the rent is paid to date.
3. Yes. TRIBUNE LAW DEPARTMENT.

SWIMMING POOLS.

Chicago, April 20.—[Friend of the People.]—While swimming at La Follette park I slipped and fell on the wet concrete. It was a bad fall, my head hitting the concrete, but luckily I was not seriously hurt. The fall was due to lack of mats on the floor surrounding the tank and showers. I know of two others that fell on the slippery floor not long ago, one being knocked out by the fall. With summer coming on and the children about to go swimming in masses, I think this problem should be rectified. E. V.

Please be advised that every precaution is taken to insure against accidents not only at the swimming pools but any point in the west park system where activities are participated in. At La Follette park the building in question is of modern type and construction, with every facility for the comfort, convenience, and safety of the general public, and any person exercising due care and caution can be reasonably sure that no accident or injury will happen to him. Would you be so kind as to assure the writer of our sympathy and that his suggestion will be investigated with a view to correcting any unsafe condition at the swimming pools? E. J. DAIL, Secy.,
West Chicago Park Commissioners.

VIOLATION OF CONTRACT.

Chicago, April 18.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—Last year a friend purchased a fruit store which included the good will, and an agreement was drawn up whereby the seller or his associates could not enter in the same kind of business in that district for a period of five years. 1. The seller has engaged in business in that district, and the purchaser has notified him that the remaining payments due become canceled, as he has not lived up to his contract. 2. The seller has sued the purchaser for the entire amount. Can he collect? F. J. N.

1. The measure of damages for such breach would not necessarily be a forfeiture of the remaining installments.
2. It seems likely that he can collect something. The proper remedy for the seller's breach would be injunction proceedings. We advise the buyer to employ an attorney.

A LINE O' TYPE OR TWO

How to the Line, let the quips fall where they may.

LET US BE GOOD!

A radio station immediately chopped off Smedley Butler's radio talk the other night when he said the word—well, never mind, it was a naughty, dreadful word, and the shocked announcer, with pale face and trembling voice, was quite right in saying to his audience that the use of profane and indecent language was not permitted on the radio. It is dreadful to think of, but there are many words that commence with—well, the dreadful thing that Gen. Butler said. In the future such words must not be spoken over the air. Nor should they be spoken anywhere. Let us all be as pure as the radio.

So, please never again speak of "Helen of Troy," nor name dear little baby girls "Helen." Think of it! Helen! Oh, how perfectly awful! And Helena, Arkansas. Tut, tut! Let Arkansas change the indecent name of that city immediately. And, dear friends, kindly do not say again, even in jest, such wicked words as "hellebore," "Hellenic," "Hello," "heliochrome,' "heliotrope," "helmet," or "helper." And think of how horrible it is for New York to continue the use of that shocking cognomen, "Hell's Gate." Oh, goodness gracious! Something must be done about that at once. "Hell's Gate"! Oh, how perfectly awful; do not say it again or the radio will just die!

Let us all try to assist the very nice radio in this noble reform, and in the future, dearies, let us all be true ladies and nice little gentlemen, as the case may be, and never, never say that terrible, terrible word again! Let us rather use more cultured and refined expressions and be not like those uncouth, vulgar persons who say H—! right out loud. Let us rather say, "Oh, crushed strawberries!" Or something sweet, soft, and nice like that. And, of course, you will. Lykell! Lykell! Lykell!

THE KULAKS.

The kulaks are quite free: they go
Freely across the unbroken snow,
The sweat upon their brows congealed,
Like frost upon a wintry field,
The red blood oozing from their feet
To crust the snow like crimson sleet,
Their ice-bound hearts in misery—
They are not serfs; they are quite free.

They are not serfs, they are not slaves,—
Freely they dig each other's graves,
Freely, as dogs, they gnaw and gnaw
Bones from the garbage. It's the law—
The soviet law—they must obey,
But none could be more free than they.
They are not beggars, asking alms—
These men with empty, bony palms
And staring eyes that only see
Bleak snow and bleak eternity.
They are not beggars, for they dare
Not ask for succor anywhere.

This is the Brotherhood of Man,
This is the vaunted Five Year Plan:
The kulaks toiled a little longer,
Their arms and brains were somewhat stronger
(Though weak enough and meek enough,
God knows! Yet made of better stuff
The kulaks were). And so the mob
At Moscow set about to rob
These elder brothers of their fruits.
Brutes? Nay, we cannot call them brutes,
For jungle beasts but strike and slay;
They do not torture, thus, their prey.

There is some mercy known to Mars;
There are some limits even to war's
Excesses. Soldiers, by and by,
May win, may lose, may live or die.
Some time the raging battles cease,
And war, at last, must end in peace.

The trees the kulaks fell lie low
And rigid on the Arctic snow,
Exiles are they from some fair clime
Of peaceful, prehistoric time,
Ere man had risen to employ
His arts to master and destroy.
The trees lie low upon the snow—
They cannot feel, they cannot know
About the Brotherhood of Man
And laws humanitarian.
Yet, through the ages, long, they knew
The straightest trees the tallest grew—
That Nature's laws would not permit
Survival of the most unfit . . .

Will Nature alter her fiat
To aid the proletariat?
Rock-written for a million years
Her plan unchangeable appears,
A plan divine, eternal, just,
That crumbles tyrants into dust,
That keeps ambition's spark alive,
And orders that the best survive . . .
Tomorrow and tomorrow still Remain for her to work her will.

Yet, meanwhile, must the kulaks dwell
Within a ghastly, frozen hell,
Submissive to the Five Year Plan
That flaunts the Brotherhood of Man.

EOLUS.

OUR MAYOR was sworn in two weeks or so ago, inducted into office last night, and makes his inaugural address at the Jubilee celebration in May. And then, unless somebody thinks up something else, Mr. Cermak will be really mayor.

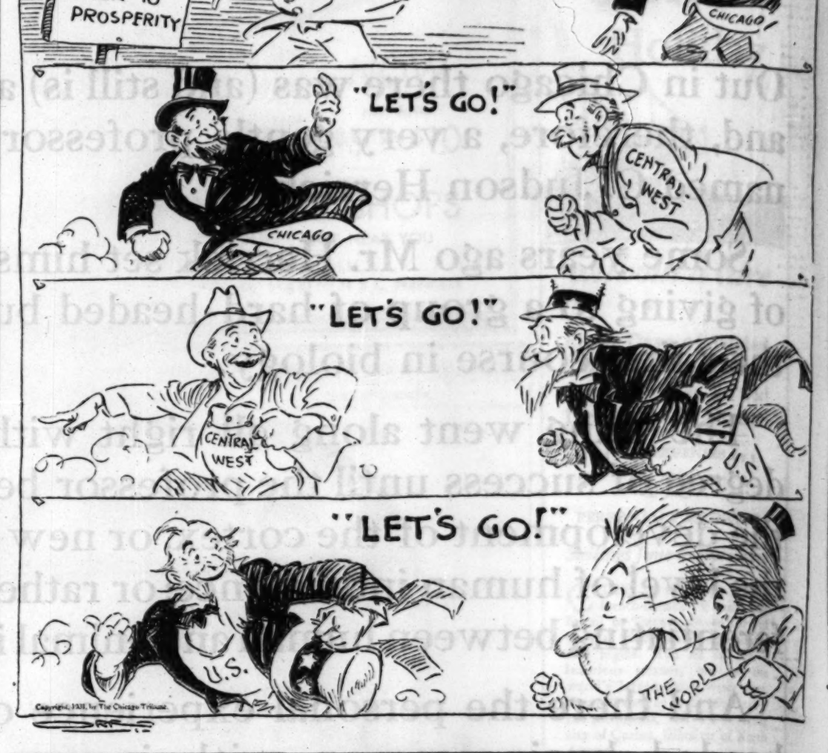

THE WEATHER MAN said there would probably be a frost last night. Might have been; it was cold enough all day; and the 27th of April at that. Well, we're looking forward to the 4th of July. We have hopes it may warm up a bit by the 4th.

AND AFTER ALL the fireworks over the barring of Russian lumber because it was produced by convict labor a Russian lumber ship comes into a U. S. port and is immediately admitted. The king of France and ten thousand men marched up a hill and then marched down again. Seelah!

LAGNIAPPE.

WELL, APRIL'S almost over, so what's the difference? Now May is going to be a grand month; prosperity jumping out from behind the corner and everything. We thought the same thing when April began, but, goodness gracious, April, what a hep you turned out to be! R. H. L.

THE CHICAGO JUBILEE MAY HAVE A FAR-REACHING EFFECT

FROM THE TRIBUNE'S COLUMNS

16 YEARS AGO TODAY

APRIL 28, 1915.

LONDON.—The war office in a statement supplementing its previous charges that the Germans in their fighting are using noxious gases says "Canadian soldiers have lost their lives in the recent fighting, not from wounds, but from poison gases employed by the enemy." In an editorial the Morning Post demands that measures be taken to prevent mistreatment of British prisoners in Germany. It suggests "the internment of all Germans in the British empire and holding them and their property as hostages for the good treatment of prisoners."

BELGIAN FRONTIER. — Reports from across the frontier indicate that the Germans have sustained terrible losses in their great effort to smash the allies on the Yser. It is now certain that the remnant of the German attacking force that managed to pass the Yser and take possession of Lizerne has been almost annihilated. The allies have thrown the Germans back to the right bank of the canal despite Berlin claims that the Germans are still in possession of Lizerne.

PARIS. — Allied troops under Gen. Sir Ian Hamilton have effected a landing on both sides of the Dardanelles under excellent conditions. On the Asiatic side they have occupied the village of Kum-Kalech and are preparing for an attack on the fortress under cover of the fleet's big guns.

CHICAGO.—The United States grand jury jolted combinations between contractors and labor unions in restraint of trade. Indictments were returned in Judge Landis' court against eighteen union officials, forty-one electrical and lighting fixtures contractors as individuals, and forty-one firms and corporations. The indictments grew out of the alleged boycotting of contractors and materials from outside of Chicago. Among those indicted are Simon O'Donnell, president of the Chicago Building Trades council; Michael J. Boyle of the electrical workers, and Peter Shaughnessey of the bricklayers' union. Among contractors indicted were George A. Kohler and Franklin Kohler of Kohler Brothers, James E. Baggot, and Henry Martin Newgard of Henry Newgard & Co.

30 YEARS AGO TODAY

APRIL 28, 1901.

CHICAGO.—A report from Hartford, Mich., says that the Pottawatomie Indians entrenched thereabouts are preparing to send a warship filled with 200 braves into the harbor of Chicago to collect $45,000 claimed to be due the tribe for land along the lake shore. The Indians are reputed to be allies of Capt. George Wellington Streeter, governor general of the district of Lake Michigan. The scheme of parading a menacing gunboat along the lake shore is credited to the fertile brain of Gen. Streeter.

CHICAGO.—Daniel D. Healy, county superintendent of public service, testified before the county hospital investigating committee that good coal had been delivered at the institution since THE TRIBUNE'S exposure last winter of the substitution of inferior coals.

50 YEARS AGO TODAY

APRIL 28, 1881.

PARIS.—The Grand Duke Nicholas, brother of the assassinated czar and uncle of the present ruler, whose arrest near Moscow was reported two weeks ago, has been sentenced to imprisonment for life. His complicity in the nihilists' plots was clearly established, or at least sufficiently so to satisfy his imperial nephew.

PARIS.—The French have made a remarkably rapid advance on Tunis. Gen. Ritter dislodged the Kroumirs at Damebella and Hadeba, driving them toward the Oned Djenan valley. Gen. Vincendon reached the hills on the right of this valley and took up a strong position on a plateau after several engagements with Kroumirs, in whose ranks several Tunisian cavalry and infantry were observed. It is reported that Gambetta is privately encouraging the government to act vigorously with regard to Tunis.

PARIS.—Emile de Girardin is dead.

NEW YORK.—There was a great rush to Booth's theater to hear Col. Robert G. Ingersoll in his new lecture entitled "Some Reasons Why." The speculators reaped a rich harvest. The seats they held brought from $3 to $4.

VOICE OF THE PEOPLE

Writers should confine themselves to 200 or 300 words. Give full names and addresses. No manuscripts can be returned. Address Voice of the People, The Tribune.

THE QUALITY OF MERCY.

Chicago, April 25.—Owing to the epidemic of mortgage foreclosures on real estate something ought to be done. Equities are being wiped out and many are losing their all. One class could relieve the situation and save money for themselves by the operation. The writer refers to the mortgage owners.

If they would voluntarily reduce the interest payments from 6 to 5 per cent for a year or two and extend prepayment obligations it would hasten the recovery of business and eventually aid them in securing their principal.

Foreclosure proceedings are costly; nobody gains but the lawyers, receivers, and others. The mortgagee when he acquires possession in most cases will not make over 3 per cent anyway. Then, too, he will have to look after the property, spend money for taxes, repairs, etc., pay commissions and fees galore, tend to discredit real estate investments, lower values, reduce rents, and give such a blow to this kind of security that it will not recover in many years. The mortgagor can better manage the property in most cases than the mortgagee. He often has other sources of revenue. On the contrary, the mortgagee has to depend entirely on the property itself for his return, which on the average will not be more than 3 per cent. MORTGAGOR.

TAXES.

Chicago, April 24.—The Hyde Park taxpayer who paid $10,000 for his home eight years ago is neither a poor nor misguided individual and should have no complaint to make about the real estate salesman to whom he listened.

The present value of his residence, computed on the basis of the 1929 tax bill, is $21,700, which represents a net profit of $11,700, a bonus of $1,450 a year over and above securing his rent at cost during this period of high rents! The advantages of home ownership with the possibility of doubling the value on the investment in eight years—on the basis of this individual's own figures—demonstrates beyond any reasonable doubt the desirability of owning Chicago real estate.

His statement of the tax situation as it affects him is entirely correct. However, the intrinsic value of Chicago real estate should not be confused with the present status of the tax situation.

FRANK J. O'BRIEN.

SCHOOL DISCIPLINE.

Chicago, April 24.—America can never become a great nation. She's too soft. Take our public schools, for example. Over at Stockton when a boy forgets his lunch and his mother takes it to him all the punishment he receives is to be obliged to remain after school for half an hour. And they don't do anything to the mother. Both should be strung up by the wrists or put in solitary for a week. SELMA WALDEN LINCOLN.

COOK COUNTY ROADBUILDING.

Chicago, April 21.—We have been promised some twenty millions of concrete roads to be built by Cook county out of gas tax money. Contracts have been awarded for about 25 miles. Plans are ready, but not one concrete mixer is going on this work, though construction season has been open a month. What is wrong? Is it because the election is over? CHARLES B. DONOGHUE.

A CALL FOR NEW DOCTORS.

Chicago, April 24.—Will our young men and women of today play an important part in our deliverance from the present position this world-wide crisis has placed us in? Surely at no time in history has the universe more pathetically called for a way out. Tons of paper and inconceivable amounts of time and energy have been spent in telling the multitudes of mass production, underconsumption, misuse of capital, too high a standard of wages, saturation point of population, mass speculation, etc. True, there may be some consideration awarded these subjects, but what good has come from it? Nary a day has passed in the last year but that one or more of our accepted industrial leaders has made the statement amid much applause from the optimists that a new era was not far distant, that better days cannot help but be in the offing. But has there been any material change of conditions resulting from these talks and writings? What good has come from trying to educate us in a constant dream of optimism?

To be frank, we have passed through a year of dire stagnation, a period of groping about. The reveille is calling for new leadership, new intellect. Was ever a more serious problem handed to youth? And why not admit that out of this mess will be born new leaders of legislation and industry? We have patiently waited for yesterday's leaders to deliver us from this catastrophe, but patience is exhausted. We are in dire need of action, and, mark you, the forward march will be led with new blood.

FLOYD W. TRUESDELL.

RUSSIANIZING AMERICA.

Chicago, April 22.—In reading the editorial in yesterday's issue quoting Mr. Gifford of the A. T. & T., I was struck with the parallel between Mr. Gifford's reasoning and certain remarks I heard made by a communist a few days ago.

If I had not already been convinced of the fact that there is very little essential difference between the working of big business and communism, this would have furnished sufficient proof. Both advocate crushing out the middle class. Big Business is driving toward the rule of the very rich and communism toward the rule of the very poor. The only difference in their line of reasoning is that the communist went a little further in his analysis and wound up by saying: "I think the concentration of wealth and power in the hands of a few is progress, because it will be easier for us to take it away from the few than from the many."

Mr. Gifford refers to this depression as part of a program of unprecedented progress, the kind of progress, he might have added, that puts the middle class out of the way and leaves only the very rich and the very poor. A CITIZEN.

MUSIC IN THE MIDLANDS.

Clinton, Ia., April 24.—With due respect to our neighboring city of Dubuque permit me to state that Clinton has had for several years a symphony orchestra using bassoon, oboe and horns, and has never since its organization allowed the use of a piano to bolster up the so-called weak spots. It has played concerts in this and several nearby towns and, carrying out the traditions of the orchestras in the big league, also has an annual deficit. A. W. C.

TROOPS LAND IN MADEIRA; DEFEAT REBEL OUTPOST

LISBON, Portugal, April 27.—(AP)—A general attack on the rebels in Madeira was decided upon for tomorrow morning at a war council of superior officers of the Portuguese government's expeditionary force.

The war council followed upon the first engagement between the rebels and the expeditionary force, which took place today at Cannicel, where the federal troops went ashore, defeated a group of 75 rebels armed with machine guns and dismantled the San Lourenco wireless station. The federal troops captured seventeen prisoners. Their own casualties were sixteen wounded.

Rebels Fire on Warships.

The rebel artillery fired on the transport Carvalho Araujo, under cover of whose guns the landing party went ashore. The rebel batteries were silenced, however, by accurate return fire from the ship.

The attack on the San Lourenco wireless station followed upon a series of fruitless efforts by the government to induce the rebels to surrender. Proclamations were dropped from aeroplanes on several occasions during the last few days.

Rebels Flee Wildly.

The fray was of very short duration. The rebels broke, scurrying in all directions, leaving one sergeant and 16 men in the hands of federal troops.

When the warships Vasco Da Gama, Carvalho Araujo, Ibo and Zaire appeared off Funchal yesterday panic seized the inhabitants. Those living on the seafront abandoned their homes and fled to the hills. The rebel authorities placarded the island with posters, urging the population to stand fast "against tyranny."

LEAGUE IS 'HIRED' BY CHINA TO DIRECT ITS RECONSTRUCTION

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

SHANGHAI, April 27.—That China will definitely link up with the league of nations was indicated today in an official statement by the Nationalist government. The statement said,

"The nationalist government has arranged for regular collaboration with Geneva, providing that the league of nations' technical organizations will be continuously available to advise the government on plans for national reconstruction."

A lengthy statement follows, outlining the phases of the league's assistance to China, including the creation of a health organization, the inauguration of numerous reclamation projects, motor and railway construction and financial and economic reconstruction.

In accordance with the agreement, the league will send numerous technical advisers to China and a permanent league office will be established at Nanking. Chief interest attaches to the financial phase of the agreement, which has not been announced. Sir Arthur Salter, British financier attached to the league, who has been in Nanking for several weeks, will depart immediately for Tokio to confer with Japanese officials.

Following this he will go to Washington for a conference with President Hoover. He then will go to New York to discuss the matter with Wall street financiers.

American officials here are of the opinion that China's hookup with the league is likely to throw the major Chinese reconstruction projects to European rather than American firms.

"ACIDINE HAS NO EQUAL FOR INDIGESTION, GAS"

"I have used ACIDINE for indigestion and gas pains and find that it has no equal. It is classed alone. Nothing can compare with it," says John D. Gates, 360 E. Garfield Blvd., Chicago, Ill.

Just another of thousands who are astonished at the way this new prescription ACIDINE succeeds when other known remedies fail. The reason is it is different from other medicines. ACIDINE contains Japtase, which in laboratory tests, digested 800 times its own weight of certain heavy starchy foods. ACIDINE neutralizes burning acid, soothes irritated stomach and intestinal linings, helps end acidosis.

Eat, drink all you want. When sour stomach, gas, pain, heartburn, bad taste, heavy feeling, short breath, dizziness, belching, nervousness, colds, gassy headaches and sleeplessness trouble you, take ACIDINE. Results guaranteed. If not delighted, maker refunds money.

SPAIN IMPRISONS KING ALFONSO'S LAST DICTATOR

Gen. Berenguer Surrenders to Republic.

BY JAY ALLEN.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

MADRID, April 27.—Dictator until two months ago, Gen. Damaso Berenguer is in prison tonight awaiting trial by the republic for his rôle in two of the major tragedies in the history of modern Spain.

The former premier presented himself tonight at the request of the republic's prosecutor, and went blithely to his cell in the military prison. He was hardly recognized because he had shaven his luxurious mustache to escape detection by the mob, which has been crying for his head. He had refused to flee to save himself and signed an oath of allegiance to the republic as a soldier and servitor ahead of all others.

Linked to Morocco Disaster.

It was in the service of the nation, then personified by King Alfonso, that Berenguer played the part for which the republic now reproaches him, his defense lawyer, Gen. Franco, brother of Maj. Ramon Franco, the aviator, will contend at the trial.

He is accused of connection with the disaster near Melilla, Morocco, where he was in high command in 1921, which cost the lives of more than 10,000 soldiers who were fighting the Moors, and with the executions of Capts. Hernandez and Galan after the revolt at Jaca last December. It is significant that these two tragedies did more than anything else to tumble the crown off Alfonso's head. In Berenguer the old monarchist system is on trial and a death sentence is not generally believed probable.

Although the old newspapers of the dictatorship are exhorting the republic to let bygones be bygones, the ministry tonight announced that the lieutenants of Primo de Rivera, not having been constitutional appointees, can no longer be allowed their annual pension of 10,500 pestas [$1,050] as former ministers.

Want Primo's Minister.

Most notable of these is Martinez Anido, Primo's minister of interior, who appeared at the Spanish consulate in Marseilles today and pleaded to be allowed to sign a pledge of allegiance to the republic. He undoubtedly did this with his tongue in his cheek, as the republic wants to try him for applying that ancient "law of fire" in Barcelona.

The jury system, not in practice since 1923, has been reëstablished, with an interesting addition in that, for the first time, women will be permitted to sit as jurors in "crimes of passion." Some take this as a forecast that Spanish women will soon have a right to vote. But, paradoxically, the liberal elements oppose it, suspecting that the Spanish women's vote would be what the padres desired.

A national power board is to be appointed to safeguard the nation's rights in the enormous hydro-electric developments now proceeding with foreign capital. The largest project, on the Guero river, in northern Spain, is backed by American capital.

Now to EUROPE a finer S. S. Lapland

Thousands remember the Lapland, the ship with the club-like atmosphere. Thousands this year will be delighted to see her more beautiful than ever—the new Long Gallery, for instance.

Fresh from the shipyards she comes—after a thorough refurnishing and refurbishing. Cabins made larger and redecorated, the most modern improvements installed—virtually a "new" Lapland, but still with the same charm that has made her a transatlantic Cabin ship favorite.

Streets of Forgotten Furnaces in "Silent Town"

... where "Silent" dependability has banished heating problems

Wherever Silent Automatic oil burners are sold, there are streets like this ... streets lined with homes in which heating problems no longer exist, and furnaces, so far as care and attention are concerned, have been literally FORGOTTEN.

Gaar Williams, famous Chicago Tribune cartoonist, lives in a "Silent"-heated home. So do F. D. Underwood, former president of the Erie Railroad ... W. A. Wieboldt, president of the Wieboldt Stores ... A. E. Wright, president of the Kraft Cheese Co. and Wright Mayonnaise Co.... and Ole Evinrude, president of the Elto Division of the Outboard Motors Corp.

But Silent Automatic ownership is by no means limited to men of wealth or prominence. Everywhere, in thousands of homes of every class, "Silent" has been chosen for the same reasons and is serving with the same dependability ... delivering constant, even heat, day and night, with no care or trouble.

"Silent" never disappoints those who select it. Warren Darst, 1115 Lake Ave., Wilmette, Ill., says: "We have used the Silent Automatic oil burner for four seasons and are pleased with it in every way. Its silence, heating capacity and combustion are ideal." Carl McQuinn, 400 North Michigan Ave., tells us: "I am very glad to say that the Silent Automatic in my home is very satisfactory in every way. In the past I have recommended 'Silent' very highly and I shall do so whenever the occasion arises."

You can find "Silent" owners near you who will tell you the same thing. Our entire list of owners is open to you at all times, and their experience is your best buying guide. Let us give you all the FACTS ... today.

OFFERS TO BARE CACHE OF GOLD STOLEN IN 1861

Charlotte, Mich., April 27.—[Special.]—A story from out of the past of how three bandits robbed the county courthouse here seventy years ago and transported a safe containing $17,000 loot, by team, to a point in Steuben county, Indiana, where it was buried, was told here by H. W. Face of Augusta township.

Face, appearing before the county board of supervisors, revealed minute details of the then startling robbery, and asked legal authority to proceed with unearthing the safe. Face also sought permission to be assisted by George W. Watson, county prosecutor, and Sheriff Spencer F. Cribb in the event that he be faced with legal entanglement which might arise.

Map Reveals Story.

The robbery, unknown to a majority of present day residents of Charlotte and Eaton county, was revealed by a map which Face received recently from a person residing in the state of Washington, alleged to be the son of the leader of the bandit gang.

The supervisors indicated they did not wish to commit themselves now and have pigeon holed the proposition for the time being.

Face has offered to reveal the hiding place of the loot, said to be in gold coins, and divide the fortune among the supervisors, the Washington resident and himself, provided he is protected from prosecution.

Leader Served Prison Term.

The robbery was committed a short time before the outbreak of the Civil war. The leader of the gang was captured and served a prison term in a southern penal institution, but refused to reveal the hiding place of the $17,000 in gold. His companions enlisted and were never heard from, it was said.

Nye to Ask 8 if Government Shall Pay Candidates' Expense

Washington, D. C., April 27.—(AP)—Whether the government should provide all or part of campaign funds of candidates for federal office will be one of a series of questions put to witnesses before the senate campaign funds committee at hearings May 4 and 5 or proposed revision of the corrupt practices act.

Another question will be whether the government should issue an election bulletin in which candidates or political organizations may be accorded equal space to present their claims for support.

Makes List Public.

Those who will appear are Profs. Charles E. Merriam, University of Chicago; James K. Pollock Jr., Michigan; Charles A. Beard, formerly of Columbia; Earl R. Sikes, Dartmouth; Louise Overacker, Wellesley; William Draper Lewis, American Law institute, and Albert S. Bard, vice president of the Honest Ballot association of New York; Thomas J. Walker, Pennsylvania Election association, and Perry Belmont, financier of New York and Washington.

Other questions to be asked the witnesses are:

"Should the congress undertake the enactment of a comprehensive corrupt practices act or should it limit itself to the control of campaign contributions and expenditures?

Power to Legislate.

"In view of the decision of the Supreme court in the Newberry case, has congress the power to legislate with reference to primary elections? If so, in what form and under what constitutional authority should such legislation preferably be drafted?

"Has congress the power to legislate with reference to the election of the President and Vice President of the United States? If so, in what form and under what constitutional authority should such legislation preferably be drafted?

"If a definite limitation is to be placed upon campaign expenditures what formula should be applied to give due weight to differences among the states as regards area and population?

"Should the limitation of campaign expenditures be inclusive of all items or should such expenditures as printing, postage, traveling expenses, etc., be unrestricted?

About Election Expenses.

"By what method may the expenditures alleged to have been made on behalf of a ticket comprising numerous candidates be most equitably and effectively limited or controlled? Is there validity to the claims sometimes advanced that such pooled expenditures should be allocated by a division among the candidates or should consideration be given to the opposing contention that pooled expenditures benefit every candidate upon such a ticket and are more effective because of the joint effort of all such candidates?"

NAT BOEING Divisions of UNITED AIR LINES

SOLONS REOPEN POSTAL LEASING INQUIRY TODAY

Will Probe Abandoning of Field Site.

Eleven witnesses, including James Simpson, chairman of Marshall Field & Co., were served with subpoenas yesterday to appear before the senate subcommittee investigating alleged corruption in the leasing of postoffice substations.

The subcommittee, headed by Senator John J. Blaine [Rep., Wis.] will resume its hearing at the federal building this morning, and one of the matters to be investigated is the abandonment of the Marshall Field postoffice site, for which the government paid $3,890,000, Senator Blaine said on arrival here last night.

New Site Selected.

The Marshall Field site was abandoned as undesirable for the new $31,000,000 postoffice, and the government selected the air rights site over the Union station tracks between Harrison and Van Buren streets, instead.

At hearings last November, Jacob Kulp, head of a Chicago investment house, was questioned concerning long term leases of substations to the government for alleged exorbitant rentals, and Senator Blaine said further inquiry along this line would be made.

List Those Summoned.

Woman Robbed of $2,000 While on Way to Bank

Mrs. Mary Hamill, 45 years old, 6505 Newgard avenue, reported to police yesterday that a pickpocket had opened her purse and stolen $2,000. The theft occurred, she said, on a south bound Broadway car while she was on route to deposit the money in a bank. Recently Mrs. Hamill sued her husband for separate maintenance. He denied she needed alimony because, he said, she had $2,000 of her own. The court advised her to deposit the money and Mrs. Hamill was carrying out the suggestion when the theft occurred, she said.

MORE AT WORK, SAYS RETIRING HEAD OF HOOVER'S JOB BOARD

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., April 27.—[Special.]—A perceptible improvement in general economic conditions has been registered in recent weeks, Chairman Arthur Woods of the President's emergency committee for employment, stated today shortly after announcing his retirement from active work with the organization. Mr. Woods plans to go to Europe next week to study employment conditions there.

ARTHUR WOODS. [(C) Paul Thompson Photo.]

As evidence of a slight business improvement, Mr. Woods announced that public and semi-public construction projects amounting to 132 million had been reported to the committee as awarded last week. Reports from Chicago stated that construction in that city during the first fourteen weeks of 1931 has maintained a pace 90 per cent ahead of the volume for the corresponding period last year.

"Since Jan. 1," the report stated, "permits at Chicago have totaled $31,460,500; for the same period in 1930 permits were $17,258,500."

LUMBER CARGO FROM RUSSIA IS ADMITTED

Washington, D. C., April 27.—(AP)—A cargo of Russia lumber brought to Providence, R. I., last week by the Finnish steamer Anversoise was admitted to the United States today because there was no evidence it had been produced by convict labor.

Under Secretary Mills of the treasury ruled the lumber could be brought into the United States after the importers, the A. C. Dutton company of Poughkeepsie, N. Y., produced documents to show it had not come from an area where convict labor is used.

The decision, however, applies only to the Anversoise cargo, Mills said, adding that each shipment of lumber from Russia must stand on its own merits as to entry into this country.

War Department Approves Rebuilding of Joliet Bridge

The war department at Washington yesterday approved reconstruction of a bascule bridge over the Des Plaines river at Cass street in Joliet. In giving approval the war department overruled protests submitted by property owners that the improvement would impair their property.

COUNTY BOARD CAN'T AGREE ON TAXING REFORM

Debates in Vain Over Pending Bills.

After a three hour discussion on the merits of the Schnackenberg bills to revise the taxing machinery in Cook county, the county board adjourned its meeting yesterday without adopting recommendations as to the disposition of the bills. The board had been asked by Attorney William F. Struckmann, its spokesman at Springfield, for instruction on the attitude it wished him to convey to the legislators.

The question of whether the commissioners favored or opposed the scrapping of the present assessing agencies was not voted upon, although it was apparent from the comments of the commissioners that most of them opposed the bills which are now pending in the legislature. The board will resume its deliberations today.

Attorney Without Instructions.

Attorney Struckmann, however, left last night for Springfield without knowing what recommendations to make when the bills come up before a subcommittee of the house today. The two house bills, Nos. 26 and 27, provide for the abolition of the board of assessors and the township assessors, and the substitution of an assessor appointed by the president of the county board. They retain the board of review under new restrictions and control.

Only one commissioner, Miss Amelia Sears, spoke in favor of the bills. She characterized the existing machinery as "archaic and cumbersome," and warned that unless the legislation is adopted the present financial dilemma in Cook county will be perpetuated. She was supported in her views by J. L. Jacobs, county efficiency expert, and County Attorney Hayden N. Bell.

A motion that the board go on record as opposing the bills was buried in the noisy discussion. At least seven of the commissioners spoke against the bills.

Hot Dispute Marks Hearing.

The meeting was featured by a lively debate between State Senator Emmett McGrath, a Democrat of Brookfield, and Attorney Bell. McGrath inquired what interest Bell had in the bills and was told that it was necessary that the assessing machinery be made efficient and workable.

The senator then wanted to know what salary Bell received and how long he had been employed by the county board as its legal adviser. Bell replied that he received $10,000 a year and has been on the county pay roll for 18 years.

"During which time you have been doing nothing," McGrath shouted.

"You can't get any one to agree with you on that," Bell replied in anger. "No one but an ignoramus would make such a statement."

WOUNDS WIFE IN QUARREL AND TAKES OWN LIFE

Clement Czarkas, 44 years old, shot and possibly fatally wounded his wife, Helen, 35 years old, early last evening, in the rear of his barber shop at 1539 North Ashland avenue. He then committed suicide by shooting himself in the head.

According to Mrs. Czarkas, she entered the shop to find her husband intoxicated, with two patrons waiting for service. When she began to remonstrate he seized a pistol and fired twice at her. One bullet struck her in the left arm and the other in the chest. He then turned the pistol against himself.

The patrons fled at the beginning of the quarrel. After she had been wounded Mrs. Czarkas crawled to the street. She was taken to the North avenue hospital, where it was said her condition was critical. She is the mother of two children.

PAIN after eating

WHAT many call "indigestion" is very often nothing but excess acid in the stomach. The stomach nerves have been overstimulated, and food sours. The corrective is an alkali, which neutralizes acids instantly. The best alkali known to medical science is Phillips' Milk of Magnesia. It has remained the standard antiacid with physicians in the 50 years since its invention.

One spoonful of this harmless, tasteless alkali will neutralize instantly many times as much acid, and the symptoms disappear at once. You will never use crude methods when once you learn the efficiency of this more pleasant way. A small bottle is sufficient to show its merit.

Be sure to get genuine Phillips' Milk of Magnesia, prescribed by physicians for more than 50 years in correcting excess acid. 25c and 50c a bottle; any drugstore. Complete directions for its many uses are enclosed with every bottle.

Look for the Phillips name on bottle.

Do You Know How Little It Costs to Own a La Salle?

There are three reasons why it is easily possible to overestimate the cost of La Salle ownership.

La Salle prices are now several hundred dollars lower than they were two years ago—a fact which many people overlook. The cost of La Salle service—which you can buy on a yearly basis, for a definite and pre-determined sum—is much less than most buyers estimate. Finally, many forget that a La Salle is kept and driven far longer than the average automobile—thus reducing enormously the item of depreciation. Actually, all things considered, it is more economical to own a La Salle V-8 than a lesser automobile. Won't you come in today—and let us prove this by facts and figures?

Twelve models: $2195 and upward. 2-pass. Coupe, $2195. 5-pass. Sedan, $2295. Wire wheels, fender wells, spare tires and trunk rack at slight additional cost. All prices f. o. b. Detroit. Coachwork by Fisher and Fleetwood. G. M. A. C. terms are recommended

NEW MOVE SEEN TO RELIEVE TAX ON REAL ESTATE

Chicagoans Confer with Gov. Emmerson.

BY PERCY WOOD.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Springfield, Ill., April 27.—[Special.]—New moves to lessen the tax burden on Illinois real estate were seen today in the hour's conference which Mark Levy, president of the Chicago Real Estate board, held with Gov. Emmerson.

Mr. Levy was accompanied by H. H. Haylett, business manager of the board, and J. Soule Waterfield, a director. None of the trio nor the governor would discuss the nature of the meeting, save for the admission from Mr. Levy that it bore on suggestions for the relief of Chicago property owners, now taxed, they claim, beyond reason.

One thing the party did not discuss was the Lantz income tax bill.

Dry Law Repealer Up Today.

The assembly has several events on schedule for this week that promise controversy. Special order of business in the house tomorrow morning calls for a consideration of the O'Grady bill to repeal the state prohibition law, which was vetoed by the governor.

Liberal leaders had not decided tonight if they would demand a roll call on a motion to override the veto. If a vote is taken it would reveal the number of Republicans who voted for the repealer but have changed their color since the executive action.

Charge Added Pay Rolls.

One of the major attempts to "make it tough" on the administration—the resolution to investigate alleged padded pay rolls in the department of printing—will be pushed this week by Representative Thomas J. O'Grady [Dem., Chicago].

O'Grady charged in a resolution that there are employés on the rolls "not known even in the towns where they are listed."

Manufacturer's Son Is Held in Jail.

William A. Payne, 21 years old, 1202 Maple avenue, Evanston, was arrested yesterday as the driver of the automobile which on Saturday struck and fatally injured Otto W. Beer, 2308 Cullom avenue, a butcher. The police charge Payne drove away after running over the man.

Beer died on Sunday in the Edgewater hospital, where he was taken by a motorist who found him lying unconscious in the street at Ashland and Catalpa avenues. The car which struck Beer was traced to Payne through the license number which was noted by witnesses. Payne, who is the son of Thomas J. Payne, vice president of the Reed Candy company, denied to the police that he had run over any one.

Co-ed Accuses Him.

At the inquest, however, Miss Joyce Burgerson, 20 years old, a Northwestern university co-ed, told police that she was riding with Payne on Saturday night but did not see the accident as she was lighting a cigaret at the time. She said that Payne stopped, tried to lift the injured man into his car, and, failing, drove on to a party at the Edgewater Beach hotel. The inquest was continued until May 6 and Payne was held without bail.

The inquest into the death of George W. Johnson, 73 years old, of Moline, Ill., who was killed on Sunday by a hit and run motorist in front of the Edgewater Beach hotel, was continued yesterday until May 7. Frank Hall, 428 St. James place, a barber, was arrested as the driver and released in bonds of $5,000.

Delay Another Inquest.

Eight persons were slightly injured last night when a Lake street car on which they were riding struck a large truck that was making a left turn at Albany avenue. The truck was pinned between the car and an elevated structure support, breaking the car windows and hurling the passengers to the floor.

Two deaths yesterday and last night increased the Cook county motor toll since Jan. 1 to 376. The victims:

Matthew Benesch, 9 years old, 1825 Orchard street. Fatally injured when he ran into the path of an automobile driven by Joseph Gutsmeidl, 1705 Orchard street, while playing in the street in front of his home.

Frank Shea, 43 years old, 3443 North Damen avenue. Died yesterday at the Augustana hospital of injuries incurred on Saturday when he was struck by a hit-and-run driver in front of 2000 Lincoln avenue.

GASOLINE DROPS TO 8¼ CENTS IN NEW PRICE WAR

Chicago's motoring public may now purchase gasoline for 8¼ cents a gallon, the lowest price in the modern era of automobiles. This does not include the state tax.

The price cut generated in competition among the leading companies, and was partly stimulated by heavy production. Standard, Sinclair and Shell are leading the price war.

Standard first offered "blue" grade fuel at 9 cents. Sheel dropped the price of its regular 11-cent gasoline to 10 cents, and Sinclair put out a third grade fuel on even terms with Standard. The next move was by Sinclair, dropping the price to 8¼ cents a gallon, and was followed by Standard at the same rate. No announcement was made by the Shell company as to whether or not it would establish a new price.

W. J. FOGARTY, POLITICAL RALLY SINGER, IS DEAD

William J. Fogarty, whose Irish songs and dances were for many years features of Democratic political meetings all over Chicago, died yesterday in the Alexian Brothers hospital. He had been ill for more than six months.

Mr. Fogarty was noted as a singer of "come-all-ye" songs and was once regarded as the champion cakewalker of the city, with his brother John as his only rival for the title. Through his talent for entertainment he gained acquaintance with all the more prominent Democratic chieftains of the last thirty years. He always introduced himself as "P. J. McGuire, the Horseshoer's Son."

For many years Mr. Fogarty, who was 59 years old, held positions in the county treasurer's office and with the sanitary district. He is survived by two brothers, John and Joseph, the latter a deputy Municipal court bailiff, and three sisters. Funeral services will be held at Our Lady of the Lake church at 10 a. m. Thursday. Burial will be in Calvary cemetery.

CHARLTON, NOTED AS MANAGER FOR MUSICIANS, DEAD

Stamford, Conn., April 27.—[Special.]—Loudon Charlton, 61, business manager of musical celebrities, shot and killed himself early this morning in his home here at Shippan's Point. His act was ascribed by Dr. Ralph W. Crane, medical examiner who made an investigation, to despondency over losses suffered in the stock market. Mr. Charlton is survived by his widow, the former Helen Stanley, who won fame under his management as a soprano, and by a daughter, Cynthia, 13 years old.

He was born Dec. 13, 1869, in Monmouth, Ill., and attended school in Omaha, Neb. He engaged for a time in the piano business in the west: and in 1899 opened a concert bureau under his own name in New York. Thereafter for 30 years he devoted himself to the development and management of musical talent.

DRUMMER BOY WITH SHERIDAN IN 1864 WILL BE 81 TODAY

David W. Evans, 8432 Throop avenue, who at the age of 14 was a drummer boy in the civil war, is 81 years old today. With company E, 195th Pennsylvania Volunteers, he followed Sheridan up the Shenandoah valley after the battle of Winchester.

"Drummer boys were supposed to be 18," said the veteran yesterday, "and I tried to enlist twice before I succeeded in 1864. Once my brother had gone off to fight, and I followed him, and he ran me back. I was pretty proud when I did get in. And I was too young to be scared—I didn't know enough to be."

In 1867 Mr. Evans came to Chicago. For forty-four years, until his retirement more than eight years ago, he was with the fire department, serving in various capacities, from running a hand pump in his early years to serving on the fire tug Geyser. He was a captain at his retirement.

Mae Tinee Gives Closeup of Motion Picture World

It's Gay Life Rapid One, Too, in This Book

Full of Merry, Solvent Wisecrackers.

BY FANNY BUTCHER.

"THE Rich Are Always with Us," by E. Pettit [Sears], is, like her "Move Over," a story about the smart, sophisticated billionaire society of New York, Long Island, Palm Beach, and Paris. Like "Move Over," it is written with gayety overlaying whatever of tragedy life holds for its characters. The creed of the members of the group which the author chronicles is never to be serious about anything, always to flip the situation with a wisecrack, and never to let the world know when the old heart is cracking.

The principal characters in "The Rich Are Always with Us" are:

A young writer, who always says the snappy thing, and is in love with the wife.

A girl of the manner and assorted manors born who isn't shocked at anything, even her own deep and engrossing love for the young writer.

E. Pettit has a knack of making all of her characters living people, even if they appear only for a few lines on a crowded page. She writes with a brilliant gayety. Her characters all talk with the same brilliance. The only thing that makes her books unreal is the assumption that any group of people, whether "rich" or poor or smart or intelligent or even professional wisecrackers, could keep up the high standard of conversational give and take that fills her two volumes. They rarely talk plain, dull talk the way all of us do most of the time. But that isn't a fault in a book—it's a blessed virtue. You've no idea how refreshing it is to meet amusing conversation in a book these days. What with every one trying to be absolutely realistic—if any one actually set down word for word the conversations that most of our so-called clever people indulge in, novels would be the ideal soporific. A lot of them are, at that.

E. Pettit's characters all have a supersnappy chatter, some of it slightly naughty, none of it ever, under any possible circumstances, about any of the solemn topics of the day. Her characters justify themselves in life by being amusing, giving enormous and extravagant parties, getting on a train or a boat whenever they wish, going wherever the whim drives them.

But the heroine of "The Rich Are Always with Us," although she gives her husband a divorce without a whine, does deeply love him, and returns from getting her divorce in Paris to see that her friends don't ostracize him and ruin his business and make his new wife miserable. In the end she finds love for herself, but gives it up when her ex-husband needs her.

"Everything is casual with E. Pettit's "Rich," and, as she pictures them, amusing and a little pathetic.

The most amusing part of the book is what some of them say. Julian, the young man who loves the heroine, and Madro, the girl who loves him, although just unimportant ones, say such things as: "I hate visiting the Wards, because the place is so cluttered up with servants that you never have any privacy."

"How do you suppose people feel who DO have privacy?"

"People who have privacy don't have privacy; they have obscurity."

Julian is responsible for this definition: "A flick misbehaves indiscreetly and is righteously indignant when any one else misbehaves at all."

The girl whom her husband was going to marry and for whom she was going him a divorce had said she was frightfully worried for fear her name would be mentioned in connection with the divorce, and her family would be frightfully mortified if they had a scandal in the papers, to which the heroine replied, "Tell Allison that my family would be frightfully mortified if their scandals weren't on the front page. They always have been."

Julian writes about Palm Beach: "I've been down to Palm Beach for two weeks. I came back with sunburn from fishing, with sinus trouble from diving, with insomnia from endeavoring to appear at all the parties, and with a hangover from imbibing frequently enough to give me strength to enjoy these pleasures."

That might have been the story of all of the characters in the whole book during the passage of the months that it records. They all work frightfully hard at being gay and the net result is—moral sunburn and sinus trouble and insomnia and a hangover. But the author doesn't get sentimental about any of that. She treats it with the same sophistication.

E. Pettit is Ethel Pettit, the maiden name of Mrs. Arthur Somers Roche.

GASOLINE ALLEY—RUNGS OF THE LADDER

MANY STARS MAKE WORLD LOOK SMALL, PROFESSOR DECLARES

Washington, D. C., April 27.—[Special.]—Stellar explorations over one-seventh of the sky's area have placed the pictures of 20,000 galaxies, or groups of stars, on astronomers' photographic plates and reared a possible threat to the Einstein theory of relativity, Dr. Harlow Shapley, director of the Harvard university observatory, at Cambridge, Mass., told the national academy of science today.

PROF. HARLOW SHAPLEY.

Dr. Shapley described studies conducted by astronomers in an apparently limitless universe probed with telescopic fingers for a distance of 56 million light years—or the distance light travels in that time at the rate of 180,000 miles a second—and of more complete closeup views of galaxies within a 5,000,000 light year range.

His address was one of twenty delivered before the academy membership today, ranging in topics from his survey of universes piled upon universes to such miscroscopic subjects as dissertations on electrons and an illustrated talk on the building up of an atom.

The day's program was closed this evening with an illustrated lecture by Dr. James H. Breasted of Chicago, one of the most noted of old world archaeologists, who described the rise of man and modern research, a topic which he has followed in Egyptian and other studies and on which he has written for many years.

In Dr. Shapley's studies, as he described them, lay bare the romance of the constant search for knowledge as to whether creation is finite or infinite. The theory of infinity still holds true, he said, as the most distant gaze, going far beyond the sun into universes where giant stars abound which would dwarf this whole universe, fail to reveal the end of substance.

These studies, he said, not only are concerned with the limits of creation, but bear heavily on the cosmogenic theory, on which Prof. Albert Einstein based his own theory, inasmuch as uniformity of matter has been assumed to be a fact in the study of Einstein, De Sitter, Lemaitre, Tolman, and others.

Good morning!

"Ladies' Man" is one of the worst vehicles ever wished on a brilliant star and able supporting cast. It strikes as a k. i. t. p., from Paramount to William Powell, who leaves them to become a member of Warner Brothers' organization.

"LAUGH AND GET RICH."

Produced by Radio.
Directed by Gregory La Cava.
Presented at the Palace theater.

Sarah Austin.....Edna May Oliver
Alice Austin.....Dorothy Lee
Joe Austin.....Hugh Herbert
Phelps.....Robert Emmett Keane
Hepburn.....John Harron
Biddle.....Charles Sellon
Vincentini.....Hector V. Sarno
Miss Teasdale.....Maude Fealy
Larry.....Russell Gleason

The story is vaguely reminiscent of "Lightnin'." It concerns the family of Joe and Sarah Austin. Joe's a lovable chap who knows by heart all the world's best excuses for not getting a job. Sarah runs a boarding house and keeps the wolf from the door. As impersonated by Edna May Oliver, she's worth meeting, I assure you.

Sarah and Joe have a daughter who insists on being interested in an impecunious young man. Sarah can't abide Larry, she being desirous that Alice wed money and family such as she thinks one Mr. Hepburn represents. Oil, patents, and intrigue of sorts have their bearing on the affairs of the Austin family. The story's ending forstalls a long life of prosperity and happiness for the leading characters.

You'll be fond of Sarah and Joe as impersonated by Miss Oliver and Hugh Herbert, respectively, and agree that most of the other players do well what they are called upon to do. I don't just see where Dorothy Lee displays much talent—but you may. Direction, sound, and photography are good and the lines were clicking over at the Palace yesterday morning.

"Laugh and Get Rich" is a clean little show to which no child need fear to take its parent.

See you tomorrow.

BY CHARLES COLLINS.

WITH "Green Grow the Lilacs," which followed "Elizabeth the Queen" at the Illinois last night, the Theater guild has gone American with gusto, whoopee, and a chorus of yip-yips and ki-yis. It has put away the high hat of the intellectual drama; it wears, for the time being, a sombrero and chaps. And every few minutes it lifts its cultivated voice in raucous ballads of the old cattle ranges—swinging, swaying saddle chanteys such as "Git Along, Little Dogies" and "The Chisholm Trail."

Technicians in the drama call "Green Grow the Lilacs" a folk play, because it deals intensively with the dialect, customs, and primitive songs of its locale—the old Indian Territory, back in the period of leg-of-mutton sleeves. I prefer to be less technical, however, and to call it a young rodeo with a wisp of love story added. Its simplicity, directness, and naïveté compel one to abandon the literary flourishes that Guild premières usually demand. The first thing to say about "Green Grow the Lilacs" is that it's a good show—yes, a whooping good show. It carries me back to my adolescent raptures over "The Virginian," which happened long before the motion picture camera transformed ranch hands into exhibitionists.

So far as narrative is concerned, this play deals with the courtship and marriage of Curley, a jaunty buckaroo, and Laurey, the belle of Claremont township and owner of a fat piece of farm land. They are troubled for a time by the sinister jealousy of Jeeter, Laurey's Freudian hired man; but on the night when the countryside turns out to give the bride and groom a bawdy "shivoree," Jeeter's homicidal frenzies are quelled by death and Curley goes to jail unjustly charged with manslaughter. But in this play the Guild is in a romantic frame of mind, and the story of Curley and Laurey ends with assurances that they will live happily ever afterward, as soon as Curley gets acquitted by a jury of his friends and neighbors.

This conventional outline of a western fable is enriched with the vivid, earthy idioms of the region; mellowed with closely observed and affectionately depicted character, and endowed with a treasure of authentic folk-song. "Green Grow the Lilacs" is a ballad-play as well as a folk-play. It is lusty with lyrics and rollicking with rhythm.

You have heard, no doubt, of the folk-songs of the old cattle ranges from specialists who have made a learned hobby out of them. Well, here is the cream of that western minstrelsy, chanted without any highbrow affectations—the quaint and curious carollings of the prairie folk. There are twenty, maybe thirty, of such songs in "Green Grow the Lilacs," and its author, Lynn Riggs, certifies that they are the genuine bunkhouse, corral-fence, and herd-rider stuff that he heard in his childhood.

To get these songs across the footlights was the reason why Mr. Riggs wrote "Green Grow the Lilacs." He was homesick for them, and he wanted to hear them again, with genuine cowboys to join in the choruses. The nostalgia of Mr. Riggs has resulted in a breezy evening of playgoing for the followers of the Theater Guild's banner.

Franchot Tone is the life of the party as the gay hearted Curley; he gives a captivating and plausible performance of a rôle that might easily have run off into the artificialities of operetta. June Walker is crisp and neat as the heroine, but somewhat too microscopic and sandpiperish to agree with my idea of a blooming western belle. Clare Woodbury is an excellent early American family portrait as Aunt Eller, and Richard Hale is a dark menace as the psychopathic hired man. The singing cowboys, I believe, would find approval in the eyes of the chief of their clan—Will Rogers himself.

School Chiefs Urge Churches to Aid Pupils

Bogan and Wirt Talk to Preachers.

BY THE REV. JOHN EVANS.

The shift of emphasis in secondary education from the "three 'Rs'" to character building puts a new load on educators and invites religious coöperation. This idea was presented to 250 Protestant pastors yesterday, convened at the Central Y. M. C. A. in the Union Ministers' meeting by Superintendent William J. Bogan of the Chicago public schools and by William A. Wirt, superintendent of the Gary schools.

Methods of religious coöperation in education which recognizes seperation of church and state were presented. Superintendent Wirt told of the Gary plan of coöperation between the churches and public schools. The Gary plan was the first large scale method of such coöperation.

The Gary superintendent declared the school authorities there were forced to call coöperation not only from the churches in their efforts toward character building among the pupils but also the libraries, playgrounds, and all other child welfare agencies.

The average pupil of American secondary schools, Mr. Wirt said, only attends school an average of two and a half hours a day. On the other hand, he asserted, all other social agencies outside the home claim only an average of 10 minutes a day of the child's time.

"Is it any wonder the Gary schools at the beginning urged, begged and implored the churches, libraries and other agencies to help us use constructively the time of Gary's school children?" Mr. Wirt asked.

The churches in Gary were given a great opportunity, Mr. Wirt declared as he pointed to the fact that each church was given a chance to train its own children.

"The churches were given the chance to get their children for all the time they could occupy them in activities the church could better provide than the public schools and the homes," said Mr. Wirt.

Superintendent Bogan of the Chicago schools told the pastors of the increasing need for character education. He then outlined the steps taken in Chicago in that direction.

"It is either luck or character training that will protect your children in the day of automobiles which will carry them to the next county between 9 and 9:30," Mr. Bogan declared.

Fay-Cooper Cole Will Head Geographic Society

The Geographic society of Chicago will elect officers today. Prof. Fay-Cooper Cole of the University of Chicago, is the candidate for president on the regular ticket and has no opposition. He will succeed George B. Utley, who retires after two years in that office. Mr. Utley will entertain a number of the members at a dinner in the Cliff Dwellers club this evening, with Prof. Cole and Dr. S. A. Barrett, director of the Milwaukee public museum, as guests of honor. Dr. Barrett is to speak at Orchestra hall following the dinner on his experiences as leader of the Cudahy-Masses expedition to Africa.

Social Service Class to Start on May 5; Helped by U. of C.

A class in social service work with special emphasis on opportunities for volunteer service in Chicago will start on Tuesday, May 5, in the University college, 18 South Michigan avenue. The class will be conducted under the sponsorship of the Chicago Council of Social Agencies and the University of Chicago graduate school of social service administration.

"The course is designated to reach the type of woman who has intelligence, reliability, human sympathy, and some time to give on a volunteer basis to help the social service program of the city," the announcement stated. "This program involves simple office work, neighborhood 'visiting,' and acting as case work aid. There is no admission fee."

The classes will be held on Tuesday and Thursday mornings from 9:30 to 11:30 o'clock, and will continue for three weeks. Some of the lecturers will be Florence Nesbit of the United Charities; Sara Place, Infant Welfare society; Clara Paul Paige, Cook county bureau of public welfare; Lea Taylor, Chicago Commons; Agnes Van Driel, Loyola university.

Ira C. Copley Marries Mrs. C. D. Worley by Parisian Civil Rites

PARIS, April 27.—(AP)—Ira C. Copley, American publisher and former member of the United States congress, was married today to Mrs. Chloe Davidson Worley of Pasadena, Cal.

After the ceremony at the city hall in the eighth ward there was a wedding breakfast and later the couple entrained for the Riviera to begin a honeymoon on Mr. Copley's yacht "Happy Days." They will return to the United States in June.

Among the witnesses were Mrs. Martin Aiken, Mrs. Joseph Sartoris of Los Angeles, William Tracy of Boston, and Philip S. Campbell of Washing, D. C. These with the exception of Mrs. Sartoris, will join the yacht cruise.

"STAY OUT OF RUSSIA": ENGINEER'S WIFE TO WOMEN OF AMERICA

New York, April 27.—(AP)—The wife of an American engineer, just out of soviet Russia after having lived there for a year, was in New York today with a message for the wives of other American engineers. It was:

"Stay out of Russia."

That message, she said, was the last thing the wives of some of her husband's American associates said to her before she left them a few weeks ago.

"They asked me very earnestly," she said, "to tell the wives of other Americans, who may be going to Russia on contracts, how they were living, and to urge them to stay at home."

For nearly a year Mrs. Mamie Ida Warren, Chicago and San Francisco clubwoman, lived in Kalata, in the Ural mountains. There her husband, Clarence Warren, an engineer for the Allis-Chalmers company of Milwaukee, directed the construction of a mill.

The soviet does not want the wives of American engineers to come to Russia either, Mrs. Warren said, "because, with their demands for better food, sanitation and comforts, they cause too much trouble and too much discontent among the Russians."

Her own lot, she said, was better than that of the other American women in Kalata, because at least she had comfortable quarters—a six room house furnished, in part, out of a cathedral.

Even so, she has come home with a disease called "Russian calet," which, she said, is brought on by nervous indigestion and bad food. She expects to go into a hospital in San Francisco for treatment. She and her husband are at the New Yorker hotel for a few days.

"Nearly every American who stays in Russia for any length of time comes out ill," she said. "It's especially bad on the women and children.

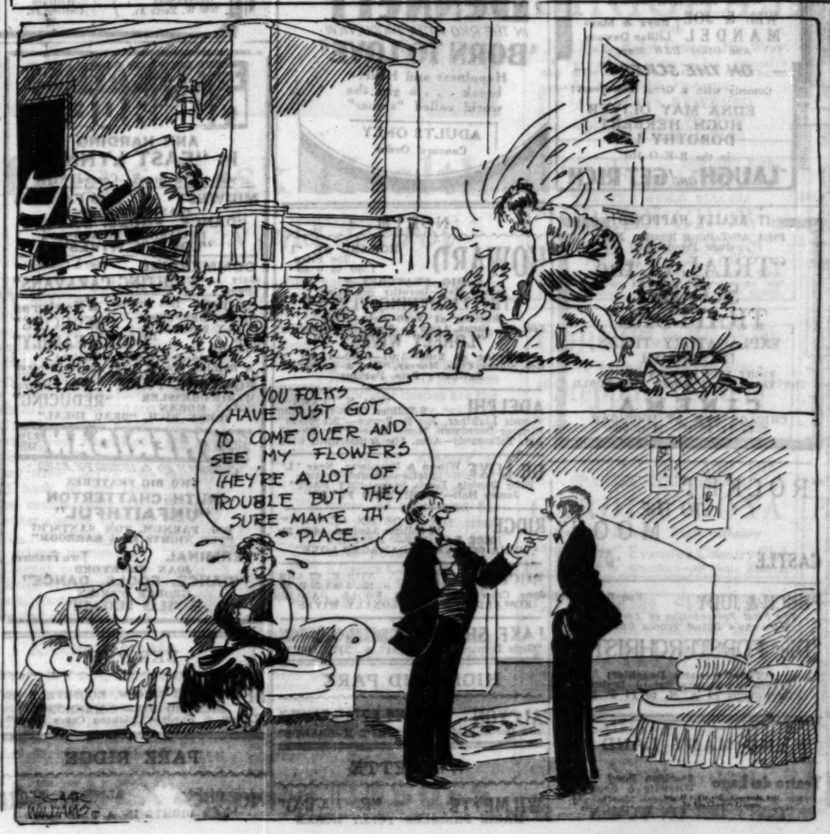

"You can't be happy in Russia. You are oppressed all the time by a terrible, nameless fear. You get cold with terror. Americans may not have any reason to be afraid—but they pick it up from the Russians.

"For the Russians are afraid. They seldom smile. They are in terrible want. There is, too, constantly the feeling that there is going to be another revolution, bloodier, perhaps, than the last."

Siam Happy, King Says in First U. S. Talk

White House Expert Has Ceremonials Ready.

NEW YORK, April 27.—[Special.]—King Prajadhipok of Siam, one of the three absolute monarchs in the world, sat at his ease in his private study at Ophir hall, the Purchase, N. Y., home of Mrs. Whitelaw Reid, today. He told, speaking good English, a small group of newspaper representatives his conception of his relationship to his people and his plans for their future development.

It was the first interview he has granted since he ascended the throne in 1926. He revealed himself as a "benevolent despot," saying the highest aim of government is the happiness of the greatest number, was his objective, and repudiating the concept of the divine right of kings, objecting to the word "subjects" as applied to his people.

The king, he said, is planning voluntarily to restrict his own authority by degrees through the grantings of provincial suffrage to his people, with the ultimate object of establishing representative government in Siam. This will be started, first, by allowing the people to vote on municipal officials.

While in America he hopes to see how democracy functions.

"I am most interested in the working of the franchise," he said. "I want to see whether voting really expresses the will of the majority. I want to learn about the form of voting and how your political campaigns are conducted, and so on. These things interest me a great deal."

The king, who is in America for an eye operation, hopes to see Babe Ruth knock home runs and view other sports.

Siamese Queen Does Light Shopping in New York.

New York, April 27.—(AP)—Queen Rambhai Barni of Siam now has 55 new pairs of gloves, 78 pairs of stockings, and 13 pairs of shoes, purchased during her shopping trip on 5th avenue last week.

Her majesty's bill in one store was $923.

The new gloves are: 42 pairs of four button slip ons, in black, rose beige, eggshell, and tan; six pairs of twelve button pink suede, six pairs of sixteen button ivory suede, and one pair of sixteen button pink suede. The prices ranged from $5.50 to $10 a pair.

The stockings are all 100 gauge chiffon, size 8, and most of them are black. They cost from $4.50 to $7.50 a pair.

The highest price her majesty paid for shoes was $27.50 for a pair of custom made black alligator opera pumps. The others ranged downward to $18.50 a pair. She wears a 3B.

How President and Mrs. Hoover Will Greet Siamese Royalty.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., April 27.—[Special.]—For the reception of King Prajadhipok of Siam and his consort when they call on the President and Mrs. Hoover Wednesday, the White House ritual of such ceremonies, which has been called more royal than that of some monarchies, has been modified in the direction of democracy.

That is because the King of Siam is a monarch whom President Hoover will receive as an equal in rank. Instead of having the king brought into his presence in one of the drawing rooms, as in the case of callers of lower rank, the President, accompanied by Mrs. Hoover, will receive their majesties just within the front door of the White House and will personally escort the royal guests to the blue room.

The President and Mrs. Hoover, the king and the queen will seat themselves and converse for a fixed period whereupon the king will request the honor of presenting his suite. The President will give consent and the royal retinue then will file into the blue room and be presented by the Siamese minister.

The program of the ceremony, setting forth the minutest details of ritual even down to the position at any given moment of the President's military and naval aides, was completed tonight by Richard Southgate, chief of the protocol division of the state department.

Among those who have pronounced the White House ceremonial ultra-royal were members of the suite of Prime Minister Ramsay MacDonald of Great Britain on the occasion of his visit to Washington a year ago.

This Busy Mother Prefers Her Life to One of Leisure

BY GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS

"These fabulous Sundays with nothing to do—where are they and who has them?"

The "Young Mother" [who has appeared in my column before] stopped in for a few minutes before dinner the other night, dumped her packages on the table, sat down, sighed, and put the above query to me.

"Don't ask me that question—I didn't know there was such an animal," I replied.

"Well, they used to exist—or I seem to have a dim recollection of them," she answered with a smile. And, as I expected, she launched forth on her little tale of woe.

"I've been promising myself a Sunday morning with a book—a nice, quiet, uninterrupted Sunday morning, with the family safely packed off somewhere and an exciting book, and lots of pillows and a box of candy—just like a story book. I thought I had achieved it last Sunday, pillows, book, chocolates, and all. Just as I got nicely arranged the phone rang. Have you ever tried not to answer a telephone? I tried, but at last I got up, only to find it was a wrong number.

"I went back to the couch, rearranged the pillows, took up the book and got as far as what He said to Her, when the Young Son came in with a handsomely bleeding hand and a large cut almost slicing off his finger. Nothing like having children to cure you of squeamishness, I said to myself, remembering the time when a drop of blood would make me faint. I staunched the flow of blood with cold water, put antiseptic on the finger, fitted the flap of flesh to the edge of the wound, bound it up, administered an apple, and returned to my book.

"'I've got that eleven o'clockish feeling,' the Little One said, tiptoeing into the room so as not to disturb me! 'All right,' I answered, 'go into the kitchen and get some cookies and a glass of milk.' I glanced at the clock. It was almost eleven. The Little One tiptoed back, still feeling, I suppose, that this disturbed me less. 'You know you promised me you'd go up the brook to look for wild flowers the first sunny Sunday.' My heart sank—I'd just been looking forward to reading that book all week. Then I looked at the baby's face—so happy at the thought of this little jaunt—just the two of us.

"So you picked up the book and continued to read," I said.

She gave me a look. "I put down the book, put on some woods clothes, got a couple of apples, and went for the walk with my little daughter. And I thought, 'I'll live life while I can, and read about it when I can't'."

She picked up her bundles and prepared to go. "I thought you might like this little gem of thought for other busy, leisureless mothers to put into those articles you write," she said.

FARM AND GARDEN BY PAUL POTTER

Flower gardeners have taken up the old time saying of "a penny for your thoughts" and have changed it to "pansies for thoughts," because of the thoughtful flowering faces presented by many colored pansy blooms.

The English, it appears, are the most extensive cultivators of this small flower. Kenneth Post of the New York State College of Agriculture explains that this is due to the typical cool moist air and large supply of soil moisture in England — conditions which favor pansies. But the French had something to do with the naming of the flower, as "pansy" comes from the French word "pensee," adapted because of the little faces found in the flowers.

Suggestions for the culture of the flower include such points as planting where the midday sun does not strike, using such locations as the east, northeast, or north sides of buildings.

A garden loam soil with two inches of rotted manure worked into the top six inches of the soil is advised. The plants should be set six to eight inches apart. Sprinkling twice each day during summer months is considered beneficial except when the soil has a tendency to become exceedingly wet. By keeping seed pods picked from the plants at all times the plants continue their flowering. Quality seed or quality plants are recommended for the best results, says Mr. Post.

Off the Face Hats Reveal Marcel, or the Lack of One

BY ANTOINETTE DONNELLY.

I suppose that in no branch of the beautifying trade has there been so much advice in real beautifying work as from the waving experts of hairdressing departments. To verify this, all you have to do is to look around you at a first night audience, let's say, or a second night, or any night, and in any place where women are to be found hatless. There you will see example after example of just how beautiful waving may be executed.

On finger waving, marcel and permanent the great majority of us women depend now for hair effects. The finger waving, as you know, is supported in patronage by those who've had a permanent and by those whose hair has a natural curl in it. But there comes a time, some distance removed from the last permanent date, when the finger wave doesn't hold as it used to. The permanent is almost completely grown out and for some reason or other a new permanent is put off for the time being. In which event the finger wave may not be of satisfactory duration.

Here's where a return to the marcel wave is advised. And, in support of my above statement about the advance made in waving beauty, you can get just as natural looking an effect with a marcel as with the finger wave. The theory that a marcel to last must be so tight that it is ugly for the first few days or week doesn't need to hold good any more. The wide, natural looking waves which you want and must have now, just as you must drop your skirt length or be away behind the times, can be had.

Food Talk.

"Why serve jellies with meats?"

"Will you please tell me what kind of jellies or fruits to serve with the different kind of meat and fowl?" inquires L. M.

Perfectly colored and textured jellies give a gay, luxurious touch to a serving of meat or fowl. The jelly supplies attractive color and contrasting texture. If the right kind is chosen it brings out the best flavor in the meat. Any garnish or accessory that emphasizes the beauty and savor of food increases our enjoyment of it, and whatever adds pleasure to our eating makes for good digestion.

Every one is familiar with cranberry jelly for turkey. But every one does not know that cider or grape jelly should be served with roast pork, and apple or gooseberry jelly with roast goose. Other meats and their jelly affinities are: Roast chicken and currant jelly, roast lamb and mint or currant jelly, baked ham and apple or cider jelly, filet mignon with spiced cranberry jam, broiled lamb chops with currant jelly, roast duck with orange jelly, broiled squab with currant jelly.

Fruits also have their allies in meats. Sautéed pineapple is often the delightful accompaniment for baked ham, but it is equally good with lamb; baked apples, jellied apple sauce, jellied baked apples are excellent with roast pork or roast goose; baked bananas with broiled pork chops or broiled beefsteak; baked oranges with roast duck; large prunes with roast goose; cranberry jelly with chicken, and green gage plums with squab.

CHOCOLATE CREAM TARTS.

2 squares bitter chocolate
½ cup sugar
¼ cup flour
¼ tsp. salt
1 cup boiling water
1 cup milk
3 egg yolks
1 tbsp. butter
½ tsp. vanilla
6 baked tart shells

Melt chocolate over hot water. Add sugar that has been thoroughly mixed with flour and salt. Blend well. Add boiling water and milk. Cook in a double boiler 25 minutes, stirring occasionally. Pour the chocolate mixture gradually over well beaten egg yolks, beating vigorously to prevent curdling. Return to double boiler and cook two minutes longer. Add the butter and flavoring, cool slightly, and pour into cold baked tart shells. Cover with meringue and brown to the preferred color in a slow oven.

Yield: Six servings.

"Hard Day" Is Not Peculiar to Man; Ask Busy Mother

BY DORIS BLAKE.

We hear a good deal about the bridge pursuing spouse and fair members of the tin can dinner variety. We hear about the American wife who goes in strongly for club life and "mental uplift" study, the latter to the disparagement of the poor slave whose nose is kept to the workaday grindstone to wrest the substance for this cultural upkeep. Mostly we hear about this latter class from visiting lecturers.

But these groups constitute a minor proportion of the great body of wives and mothers the country over. Among this sturdier body of American wives and mothers you will find a domestic situation frequently that could bear improvement. Or, more rightly, bear a little more coöperation from the man of the house.

Men cling faithfully to that time worn alibi about "a hard day at the office," which, in their opinion, entitles them to a good dinner and a comfortable fireside chair until it is time to go to bed.

They're entitled to the good dinner and the fireside chair some evenings of the week, it is agreed. But not every evening. Nor are they entitled to believe that a hard day is a thing peculiar to men and their business work only. Any woman who plies her household and her mother trade conscientiously has just as hard a day as the gentleman on his respective job.

Where there are small children constantly tugging at her heels, crying for this, crying for that; having to be taken here, there, and everywhere; having to be washed, fed and "laundered," by the end of a day a woman's nerves are by way of needing a change. And it's recognition of this fact we plead from more husbands. What these conscientious mothers and housekeepers need in the evening is a little light amusement. If they're conscientious they're not exacting women, but the need for change is there, just the same.

Otherwise they may develop into querulous, hard to get along with women. It's just the old story of all work and no play. Women have to get outside those four walls, and the husband who manages to supply a bit of diversity in his spouse's life comes off with a much more agreeable marriage record than those who think theirs has been the only hard day in the household.

DORIS BLAKE ANSWERS

Try to Forget Him.

"Dear Miss Blake: I had a fight with a young man. I was not at fault. I haven't heard from him since. Should I forget him? BLUE EYES."

If he isn't man enough to admit he was at fault, you may as well forget all about him.

BEAUTY ANSWERS

Hoover Sends Flag of the President for Lincoln Tomb

Springfield, Ill., April 27.—(AP)—Gov. Louis L. Emmerson today received from President Hoover the flag of the President of the United States which is to be placed in the reconstructed Lincoln tomb here.

The first "President's flag" somewhat similar in design to the one that will adorn Lincoln's resting place was authorized by Gideon Wells, secretary of the navy in Lincoln's cabinet.

The flag is about five feet six inches long, of deep blue, with a wide fringe of gold. It bears the seal of the United States in the center and a star in each of the four corners.

A black, gold mounted standard surmounted with a bronze eagle also has been provided by the President.

Flags that will be arranged in a half circle flanking the sarcophagus are: the state flags of Massachusetts, New Jersey, Pennsylvania, Indiana, Kentucky and Illinois and the United States flag and President's flag. The state flags are those of commonwealths in which the Lincoln family lived.

WOMAN'S DRESS.

Here's a smart dress that will answer many needs of the lovely spring days. The bodice has a deep cross-over vest, one of the best means to conceal breadth. The softly falling jabots lend a pretty effect and contribute much toward its slenderness. The yoke of the skirt is cut to the smartest depth to narrow the hipline. Printed crepe silk in midnight blue combines with plain matching blue crepe, with white embroidered mousseline in this lovely model.

Pattern No. 3038 is designed for sizes 36, 38, 40, 42, 46, and 48 inches bust measure. Size 36 requires 4 yards of 39 inch material with ¾ yard of 39 inch contrasting and ¼ yard of 39 inch allover lace.

SYNOPSIS.

Iris de Bertincourt lives in a remote section of Paris with her fifteen year old daughter, Clare. She and Maj. Alan Charnwood are desperately in love, but there are barriers to their immediate marriage. They are spending the last evening they will have together for several months, as Maj. Charnwood plans to leave next day for Africa. Clare is visiting in a school pilar and is to be brought home by friends.

Iris has been separated for years from her husband, Marcel de Bertincourt, a man of enormous charm but utterly lacking in moral sense. Iris and he are cousins and the possible heirs of their Aunt Victoire, the Comtesse de Castelmaurou. Iris plans to divorce her husband and marry Alan when he returns, but she is keeping her plans secret, as she wishes to avoid the interference of her tyrannical aunt, who has until recently ruled her life.

Iris receives a message telling her her aunt is on her way to see her. Alan leaves. The comtesse tells Iris that her husband's character has wholly changed and that he is anxious of reassuming his duties as a husband and father. She asks Iris to think it over and give her answer at the end of the week. Just after the comtesse leaves, Iris hears a motor stop in front of the house and hears Clare's friends bidding her good night. When she opens the door for Clare she has disappeared.

Maj. Charnwood is just ready to leave his hotel when Iris reaches him. He hurries to her home. He surgests calling the friends who drove Clare home.

INSTALLMENT VIII.

A VISIT TO THE COMMISSARIAT.

"They left her here, Alan, just as I said. O, my God, there's no doubt about it. She's gone."

His face expressionless, Charnwood stooped to replace the receiver, through which a stream of protestations continued to issue. Whatever happened, he must not let Iris see that he, too, was becoming alarmed.

"Well, then," he remarked steadily, "since she was here, she must have slipped out immediately to post a letter or attend to some errand. But just in case it's not that, perhaps on the whole it would be as well to notify the police. There's a branch near here, of course? Do you know where it is?"

"The police?" She tried to collect her scattered wits. "Yes, it is in the Rue Boyer-Barret, quite close. But——"

"Good! Then suppose we go round there at once. My taxi is outside; it won't take a minute."

She moved mechanically toward the hall, then stopped.

"We can't leave the house shut up. Suppose she does come back and there's no one to let her in?"

"You are right. Never mind, we can report it over the telephone. Hold on—is that some one coming?"

The gate had creaked, brisk steps approached along the stone path. Iris precipitated herself toward the hall, crying. "O! She's come! Quick! I——"

He passed her, flung open the door, only to block the entrance instinctively to spare her a fresh shock. The person on the threshold was a middle aged, reliable looking woman in a dark, plain coat and small hat. No doubt as to her identity; she was the servant, returned from her outing.

"Mathilde!" moaned Iris, the spurt of hope miserably quenched.

In a few sentences Charnwood made clear the situation. The woman listened with strained attention and a quick intake of her breath, but to his relief wasted no time in lamentations, hastening at once to the rear regions of the house to bring back a liqueur glass of brandy.

"You say you were alone when this happened?"

"Drink this, madame," she urged, holding it to her mistress' lips. "You must not permit yourself to give way. Come, I will fetch your cloak so that you can accompany monsieur to the commissariat, but really I have little doubt that when you return mademoiselle will be here waiting for you. It is some prank she is playing, naughty girl!"

Her last words sounded from the top of the stairs, whither she had already rushed, and before Iris had finished forcing down the brandy she was back again, panting, with a fur coat held out.

"There, like that you can go," she buzzed on, resourceful, matter of fact. "Draw it well up about your throat, for it is chilly tonight. What a comfort, monsieur is here!"

Charnwood remembered something and, turning back, picked up the photograph of the young girl from the mantel and slipped it into his pocket. Iris never knew, it might be wanted.

In the darkness of the whirling cab he let his hand rest upon Iris' knee, but forebore to trouble her by any further display of sympathy. In the moment of her unreasoning panic his steady composure furnished the only support possible in the circumstances.

In silence they watched the wide Avenue du Maine flash past, and in a few minutes had turned into the Rue Boyer-Barret, where, before an inconspicuous building, a dingy tri-color dangled limp and shadowy.

The employé at the entrance heard their errand and, after a racking interval, they were shown into a large, bare room, where, behind a big table, the chief of the division sat, laboriously writing. For a little while nothing was heard save the scratch of his pen. Then he glanced up, saw that one of the applicants was a lady showing signs of perturbation, and signed to his secretary to place chairs.

Iris sank into the proffered seat and told her story in quick, nervous sentences. Charnwood, who had an Englishman's shyness about revealing his linguistic defects, left matters to her, noting with the sensations of a nightmare the stained map of the quarter on the wall, the hard, green shaded light shining down on the bald head and gleaming spectacles of the man at the desk, and the phlegmatic secretary, stifling a yawn. The two bored faces betrayed little interest, and not till the recital was finished did the commissaire lean forward, chin in hand, to put a question.

"Precisely how long was it, madame, between the closing of the gate and the discovery that your daughter was missing?"

"No, but there may have been some slight noise which escaped me while I was passing from the salon to the hall. Certainly the garden was quite empty when I opened the door."

"Hum! Let me see. The Passage de l'Oratoire has two turnings leading out of it, I think. Where exactly is your house situated?"

"Third from the Rue Guillaume d'Orange."

"Can you see the Rue Guillaume d'Orange from your garden?"

"Not well. The walls are too high."

"You say you were alone when this happened?"

"Yes. Directly afterward I telephoned to my friend here, Major Charnwood, who joined me."

"And that was——"

"Twenty-five minutes ago. It was half-past ten to the minute when Madame Weber's car drove up."

The official's eyes flickered toward the clock over Iris' head. It was now seven-fifteen.

"I congratulate you, madame, on coming to us so promptly. Now, if you please, let us have a description of mademoiselle."

As Iris complied in a shaking voice, Charnwood silently laid Clare's photograph on the table. Picking it up, the chief raised his brows in slight surprise.

"Ah, but this is not a little girl. Fifteen and two months, you say? She is almost a young lady." The subtle alteration in his tone made Charnwood feel a little uncomfortable. "Her height? A few centimeters taller than you, madame? Hair golden-chestnut—eyes gray with black lashes—skin fair, with color. Dress?" He signed to the secretary who was taking all this down with indescribable nonchalance, as though the complaint was over a lost Pekingese dog.

There was a short pause. The commissaire examined his pen, squinting at it for possible hairs, dipped the nib carefully into the big inkwell before writing, then held it poised.

"Now, then, madame! My advice to you is to go home and wait quietly. At any moment your daughter may arrive. Young girls do impulsive things; perhaps she made some appointment, thinking you would not know. If, however, she has not returned by tomorrow morning——"

"Tomorrow morning!" gasped the mother, stricken to the very possibility of a whole night's suspense.

"By tomorrow morning," he continued imperturbably, "then I will send an inspector to take charge of the case."

He bowed in dismissal; the secretary opened the door.

The interview, utterly devoid of sensationalism, made Charnwood wonder if they were distressing themselves over something exceedingly slight. Apparently the chief had listened to many similar statements and knew that the majority of such affairs were speedily cleared up. However, standing aside for Iris to pass out, he happened to glance back, and in so doing caught a bit of by-play not intended for his eyes. He saw the stolid underling look across at his superior with a mute question, to be answered by a shrug and the spreading apart of short, stubby hands.

Tavern Club Show Is Gay; Chorus Funny

BY THALIA

THE Tavern's "April Fooleries," presented at the Goodman theater last night by and for members of the Tavern, was an uproarious, roistering, and sophisticated medley revue composed of a variety of travesties, burlesques, "black-outs," musical stunts, dancing and singing ensembles.

"Die Walküre," a dancing number, with the chorus including some of the town's prominent architects and business men; "Polite Political Spats of 1932," "Variations on an Old Spanish Theme," a Tavern annual meeting, "Sprig Sog," and a grand finale in which the audience was given "the whole works—Lock, Stock and Bissell," were some of the more elaborate of the acts.

"Stu" Prince and "Bert" Mullin [listed on the program as "Adagio" and "Pianissimo"], without whom no amateur program is complete, did their always popular piano-guitar act, and Johnny Lock and Tommy Wheelock performed an ingenious and screaming number entitled "A Gigolo, a Marionette, and a Ticket to Milwaukee on the Night Boat." Others of the amateurs who took prominent parts and various guises in the program included William C. Boyden, Alfred Shaw, Walter Frazier, Earl McDonald, John R. Winterbotham Jr., William Welsh, and Arthur Bissell, chairman of the committee in charge.

A skyline panoramic setting, designed by William Welsh and used as a background for a sort of theme song action recurring throughout the program, was one of the most effective features.

Following the entertainment, the audience, cast, and producers danced and supped on the stage and in the foyer. The hard working staff who managed the production included George Dickson, who had charge of the personnel; Frank Breckinridge, executive director; William Welsh, art director; William C. Boyden, librettist, and the costumes and properties committee included Roy Burrill, E. Kirk Friedel, W. A. Stephenson, and Warner Robinson.

MARRIED IN EVANSTON

The marriage of Miss Nancy Mae Steffy, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Clyde Steffy of the Sovereign hotel, to Cornelius Peter Van Schaack Jr., son of Cornelius Peter Van Schaack of Wilmette, was solemnized at 8:30 o'clock last evening at the First Methodist Episcopal Church of Evanston.

A reception followed at the Sovereign. The bride wore a long-trained gown of eggshell satin with a yoke of Alençon lace and detached sleeves made of lace from elbow to wrist, extending to form mitts over the hands and ending in a wide cuff of satin above the elbow. Her tulle veil fell from a small cap worn back off the forehead and trimmed with two clusters of orange blossoms. She carried a bouquet of orchids and lilies of the valley.

Two of the bridesmaids wore gowns of blue chiffon over orchid taffeta, and two were attired in orchid over blue, with sleeves and mitts of the same material. The maids included Mrs. William Schofield, Miss Dorothy Rose, Miss Josephine Clark, and Mrs. James Kirchberg Fling.

Harding Van Schaack was his brother's best man, and Milton Malmberg, Robert Van Schaack Jr., and Edwin Steele of St. Louis were ushers.

Two Mothers to Get Medals for Their Sons

Washington, D. C., April 27.—(AP)—Gold medals for being mothers of their illustrious sons await Mrs. Elinor Bolling Flood Byrd and Mrs. Mary P. Hardy MacArthur.

Their names were inscribed, "in recognition of motherhood," and with them the citations for their sons, Gen. Douglas MacArthur, chief of staff, United States army, and Richard E. Byrd, who flew over both poles and the Atlantic ocean.

The "mother medals" were voted by the Daughters of 1812, and will be presented tomorrow night at the annual banquet of that organization.

First to confer such recognition, the Daughters of 1812 announced their intention of continuing the plan in coming years.

Both of the mothers given the first honors chanced to be Virginians, members of old families that have been producing heroes for many generations.

An invalid, unable to leave her room in Gen. MacArthur's home at Ft. Myer, Va., Mrs. MacArthur commissioned her soldier son to receive her medal for her.

She probably is, she said, the only woman in all history, and certainly the only one in American history, to be both widow and mother of a chief of staff.

Born in Norfolk, where her family has been prominent for two centuries, she was married in 1876 to Arthur MacArthur when he was a captain of the regular army. She watched him rise, grade by grade, until he was lieutenant general in command of the American army. He retired in 1909.

When her husband died in 1912, Mrs. MacArthur went to live with her son, Capt. Douglas MacArthur. She watched him rise, grade by grade, until he was made chief of staff with the rank of full general November 21 of last year.

The Vogue for WHITE demands make-up witchery

• White dresses are decidedly the mode this Spring. You say you can't wear white—you're too pale? Elizabeth Arden will show you how!

• Miss Arden has make-up accessories to harmonize with every costume. And you will be astonished to see how a deeper tint here—a clever accent there—used at the suggestion of Miss Arden's make-up stylist—will alter your entire appearance ever so much for the better. White, and the vivid new colors, are not difficult to wear if you complement them with the make-up that belongs to them.

• Come to Miss Arden's Salon for authentic make-up information and advice. An individual skin-tone analysis is part of every treatment. And if you will describe your costume colors—Miss Arden's stylist will tell you what make-up to use with each of your gowns. COLDS saturate handkerchiefs with germs

Self-infection certain when you carry germs back to mouth and nose

Don't Risk Health

Use Kleenex and destroy

WHEN health authorities recommend Kleenex instead of handkerchiefs during colds, you may be sure they have excellent scientific reasons for doing so.

Here's what laboratory tests now prove: during colds a single handkerchief teems with as many as 4,170,000 living germs! These germ-filled handkerchiefs self-infect the user every time they're carried back to the face. That means colds have a better chance to hang on . . . to develop into flu, grippe, pneumonia.

Kleenex is safe

Kleenex is a soft, super-absorbent tissue. So inexpensive that you use each tissue only once. So gentle that irritation is impossible.

You buy Kleenex in Cellophane-sealed packages. Each tissue that touches your face is completely sanitary . . . as clean as clean can be. Kleenex will materially reduce your laundry bill. It is perfect for children.

Ask for Kleenex at any drug, dry goods or department store; 25 cents, 50 cents and $1. If you have not tried Kleenex send for a free trial package to The Kleenex Company, Lake Michigan Building, Chicago, Illinois.

1. That handkerchiefs used by persons having colds may contain as many as 4,170,000 germs per handkerchief. The organisms included are those associated with colds.

2. That organisms associated with colds, when impregnated upon linen and rinsed in boiling water and soap water, were not killed nor appreciably inhibited from growing.

Color Is Keynote in Spring Weddings

DOROTHY DULLEA PARIS

BY BETTINA BEDWELL.

PARIS.—[Special.]—Snowy white is no longer the bridal tone, par excellence. Paris couturiers are putting lots of color variety into their wedding gowns, and the spring bride may hide her blushes under a rosy veil to match them.

Of course, the palest possible tints are chosen for the wedding dress. Norman Hartnell introduced the color note to smart weddings, last season, by his pale gray satin bride. This spring, Ardanse shows a "second wedding" gown of lavender lace; Lelong favors tint blue satin; Callot's ice white bride has the allure of a mermaid and several other couturiers make a pastel harmony of the bridal cortége with the bride herself striking the sartorial keynote.

She was followed by no less than twenty-two bridesmaids, whose diaphanous frocks ran the whole gamut of the pastel palette.

This gown was extremely simple. It had long, tight sleeves and a Greek draped décolleté. The bodice descended in a double pointed incrustation in the skirt in front. Otherwise, there was no decoration. The skirt had low circular fullness. The pink satin train was attached at the waistline in back. The pale pink tulle veil was held in place by a lattice cap of pale pink pearls.

EMBARRASSING MOMENTS

An Ungraceful Exit.

Recently when I was leaving church I stopped on the step to light my cigaret. Somebody pushed me and I stumbled and fell to my hands. Two girls were walking by and one said, "What's wrong, mister? Were you thrown out?"

Amid the laughter of my fellow churchmen I fled. And as long as I live I will say that was my most embarrassing moment. J. E. C.

Good newspapers will sell more merchandise in 1931

SUPPOSE you are a manufacturer of foods, or automobiles, or cosmetics, or radios, or overcoats—anything that you have to sell in volume.

There's an immediate market for your merchandise—alive, pressing, urgent—a market that some one else will take if you don't.

How are you going to reach this market?

How are you going to reach all these Cleveland people—before your competition? How are you going to get your share of this normal business?

One answer—and one only—

Newspaper Advertising!

Flexibility—no other medium has it—is one reason why good Newspapers will sell more merchandise in 1931. Flexibility—and coverage so complete that it builds an instant market for your product throughout a great, productive area.

THE CLEVELAND TRADE EMPIRE

consists of 31 counties in Northeastern Ohio. It buys more automobiles in a year than all Massachusetts. Its income tax returns exceed those of the entire state of Texas—its realty tax valuations are greater than the combined total of Florida, Georgia, and South Carolina! 134 towns and cities of more than 1,000 population—note them on the map—with per capita incomes 26% above the average for the entire country! Rich, busy, growing ever larger—that's the Cleveland Trade Empire.

It rains in St. Louis—and some manufacturer in Chicago capitalizes on the weather—overnight.

The sun shines in Chicago, and a New York merchant makes a profit on the fact—immediately. That's merchandising flexibility—and only the big city daily newspaper offers you this.

In 134 towns and cities immediately surrounding Cleveland, the Plain Dealer is the only morning paper. The Plain Dealer has grown up with Northern Ohio, with the Cleveland Trade Empire, ever since covered wagon days. It enjoys a reader confidence that no other paper in this section—few indeed in the entire nation—can boast. Its circulation is far greater than that of any other newspaper—or national magazine in all Ohio.

For four successive years automobile manufacturers have placed more lineage in the Plain Dealer than in any other paper in the entire world! And that's because the Plain Dealer sells merchandise.

In 1931 you can sell the Cleveland Trade Empire, too—overnight—with the Plain Dealer, and with the Plain Dealer alone!

FRENCH FIGHTERS RALLY FOR CHICAGO INVASION

PIRATES CROWD CARDINALS OUT OF FIRST PLACE

Win, 5-3; Help Put Braves on Top.

St. Louis, Mo., April 27.—(AP)—The St. Louis Cardinals, pennant winners last year, dropped from first place in the National league race for the first time this season when the Pittsburgh Pirates defeated the Cards, 5 to 3, in today's game.

After Lindsey had relieved Rhem as the Cardinal hurler, St. Louis staged a ninth inning rally. With two out and the bases filled Delker doubled to score Gelbert and Wilson. Blades then struck out with the tying runs on base. Score:

Philadelphia, Pa., April 27.—(AP)—Brilliant pitching by Socks Seibold and a timely single by Rabbit Maranville enabled the Boston Braves to beat the Phils here today, 2 to 0.

The right handed ace of the Boston club limited the Phillies to four hits and was master at all times. Maranville delivered his timely hit in the third inning with one out, scoring Seibold and Wilson. Two thousand braved frigid weather to see the game. Score:

GIANTS 8; ROBINS, 5.

New York, April 27.—(AP)—A big first inning in which six runs were scored gave the New York Giants an 8 to 5 victory over the Brooklyn Robins in the first of their series today. Ten Giants went to bat in the opening inning as Joe Shaute and Clyde Day were driven to the showers. Phil Gallivan, recruit hurler, finally halted the attack. Johnny Vergez led the Giants' offensive with his second home run of the season, a double and a single. Score:

SHARKEY FIGHTS CARNERA JUNE 10 FOR N. Y. CROWN

Heavyweights Sign for 15 Round Bout.

New York, April 27.—[Special.]—Primo Carnera, the huge Italian heavyweight boxer, and Jack Sharkey, the Boston contender for the heavyweight championship, will meet at Ebbets field, Brooklyn, on June 10. The bout, which will be at fifteen rounds, will be recognized by the New York state athletic commission as a championship fight, inasmuch as the commission has shorn Max Schmeling of the honors he won here when he defeated Sharkey on a foul at the Yankee stadium in what was considered a championship affair after Gene Tunney had retired.

The match was made certain in this city today when articles of agreement were signed in an uptown hotel with James J. Johnston, the promoter.

Dodger Club Backs Bout.

The promotion of the bout will be under the auspices of the Dodger A. C., Inc., of which John J. McKeon, a New York man now in the movie industry, is president. McKeon was interested with Tex Rickard and Jack Gleason in the Jeffries-Johnson bout at Reno in 1914. Dan McKetrick, a veteran in boxing affairs, is the matchmaker.

Sharkey made the trip from Boston for the purpose of signing the articles. He is eager for the chance, for if he should win he would be recognized as the heavyweight champion, at least in New York.

Carnera was reinstated recently by the boxing board after having been under suspension for nearly a year in concurrence with his suspension by California for unsatisfactory doings in his bout with Leon [Bombo] Chevalier in Oakland, Cal.

New York to Recognize Victor.

There is no doubt at all about New York's recognition of this bout as a championship affair, because Schmeling was deposed when he declined to meet Sharkey in this state and signed to meet Young Stribling in Cleveland on the night of July 3.

Attorneys for the Madison Square Corporation of Illinois, which is promoting the Stribling-Schmeling match, have already served notice upon the New York commission, Johnston, and Carnera, that they consider his signing to meet Sharkey a violation of the Italian's contract with the corporation they represent. These lawyers, Chadbourne, Stanchfield & Levy, will attempt to block the projected bout by an appeal to the courts, it is understood, though they did not reveal anything as to the course they would pursue.

BROWNS TO FILE APPEAL ON LANDIS, BENNETT RULING

St. Louis, Mo., April 27.—(AP)—An appeal has been ordered in the Fred W. Bennett case, which was recently decided in favor of Judge Kenesaw Mountain Landis, baseball commissioner; Sol W. Swartz, attorney representing Phil Ball, owner of the St. Louis Browns, said today. Swartz said he had ordered a Chicago law firm to file an appeal with the United States Circuit Court of Appeals on the ground Landis was not legally invested with power which the opinion of Federal Judge Walter Lindley indicated he possessed.

The case began last summer when Landis ordered the Browns to sell Bennett to some other club not connected with the Browns, to waive on Bennett to other major league clubs, or release him outright. The Browns refused and sent him to Milwaukee, in which club Ball is interested, with the result that Bennett was ruled a free agent by Landis.

Lewis Posts Forfeit for Londos Bout

Ed (Strangler) Lewis, who owns at least half of the world's wrestling championship and claims all of it, will make his first appearance in Chicago tonight since he gained his share of the crown for the fourth time in winning a match with Don George at Los Angeles.

Posts $5,000 Forfeit.

Lewis posted a $5,000 forfeit with the commission to bind a match with Londos to settle arguments over the title. The commission accepted the forfeit and Gen. John V. Clinnin, chairman, telephoned Ed White, manager of Londos. White intimated that Londos would not be interested in a match with Lewis.

Lou Daro, Los Angeles promoter, went before the commission with a certified check for $25,000 which he said Londos could have for wrestling Lewis but the commission told him it was not interested in the promotional end of the game, but that Londos would not be permitted to advertise himself as champion in Illinois if he refused to meet Lewis to decide the championship.

Zbyszko vs. Sonnenberg.

There will be four preliminaries to this finish contest. In the semi-final Karol Zbyszko, nephew of the brothers Stanislaus and Wladek, will meet Gus Sonnenberg of Dartmouth who once took the title away from Lewis.

Babe to Play Sunday

New York, April 27.—(AP)—Babe Ruth is recovering rapidly from the effects of his bruised leg and should be back in uniform next Sunday when the Yankees return to their home grounds, in the opinion of his trainer, Artie McGovern.

The Babe's first day at home, in his apartment overlooking Riverside drive, was the signal for a demonstration by photographers, newspaper men, and other well wishers, but the big slugger, on orders from Mrs. Ruth, remained mostly in seclusion.

CARAWAY HURLS FOR SOX TODAY AGAINST TIGERS

BY IRVING VAUGHAN.

Cecil Pat Caraway, the 6 foot 4 inch southpaw belonging to the White Sox, is determined he'll pitch if he has to wait all summer. He was ready to go on Sunday, but Manager Bush decided Vic Frasier a more suitable candidate. He proved otherwise. Caraway was still ready to give the Tigers an argument yesterday, but frigid weather changed the program. Now he is hoping to appear today, and will if the mercury gets far enough away from the freezing mark. Bridges will be the Detroit nominee.

Caraway just now is the only member of the Sox staff who deserves to be rated as a pitcher. He stands as the sole survivor of what six weeks ago was proclaimed a choice collection of mound workers. Since then all the others have deteriorated into every day throwers, and that accounts for the unhappy showing of the Sox to date.

It's Up to Lyons, Thomas.

Whatever the south side forces amount to this season still rests in the arms of Ted Lyons and Al Thomas, both of whom, when right, can pitch in capital letters.

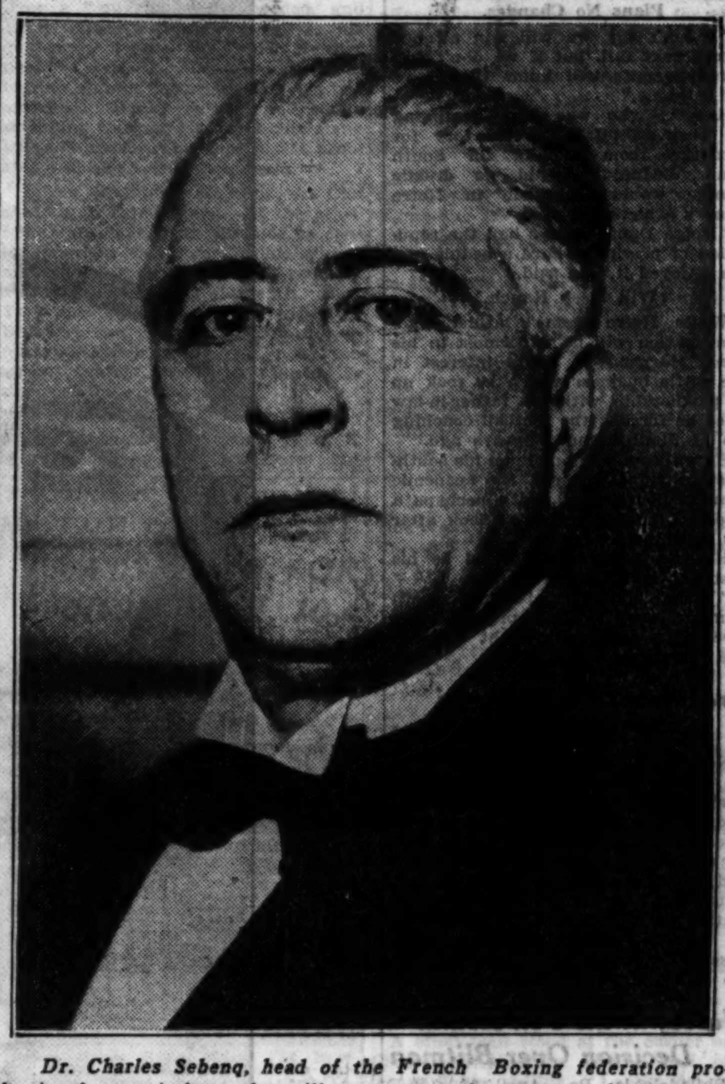

Lyons received another electric lamp treatment for his shoulder yesterday and afterward told Bush that the arm felt remarkably loose. If the weather should warm up this afternoon Lyons will take a ball in hand and start the job of reconditioning himself. If in four or five days of throwing no soreness develops, it will mean Ted can start a game in about another week. Bush's belief is that by the middle of next month Lyons will be pitching in his old time form.

Thomas Keeps Working.

Thomas, who in three starts this season was jarred from under his cap, hasn't surrendered on his idea that there is nothing out of whack in his arm, and that he will be laboring regularly inside of ten days. He was out pitching in batting practice on Saturday and again on Sunday. He'll be called on to turn himself loose in a game later this week.

Eichrodt, who has been serving in Jolley's place, has developed a sore arm and unless the ailment is improved this afternoon he will be benched in favor of Bob Fothergill. Jolley, who was operated on for the removal of a deep seated boil more than three weeks ago, doesn't think he'll be able to go to work for another couple of weeks. Jolley's hitting strength is missed.

Rotarians Hear Dempsey's Ode to Wild Flowers

Reno, Nev., April 27.—[Special.]—Jack Dempsey, the great nature lover, waxed poetic as he addressed the Rotary club here today.

"At this time," said the former world's heavyweight champion, turned botanist, "the wild flowers and flowering pink and red shrubs cover the hills. I certainly enjoy it all when doing my road work in the early morning. I can assure all here I intend making this my future home."

Dempsey went on to rhapsodize about the fishing streams and the lakes and bosky dells, but made no reference to his divorce suit against Estelle Taylor. He declared Reno's residential architecture to be second to none in the United States.

IDLE CUBS PONDER DOUBLE PLAYS

BY EDWARD BURNS.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Cincinnati, O., April 27.—No game today. No game tomorrow. But maybe the Cubs and Reds will play their final Wednesday to give the Cubs a record of four games played on eight scheduled days since leaving home last Tuesday night.

Today's game was postponed on account of cold weather and tomorrow's previously had been set over in respect to the memory of the late Garry Herrmann, whose funeral is to be held tomorrow afternoon.

Resting with the Cubs this time is less fatiguing than during the two day layoff in Pittsburgh last Wednesday and Thursday, however. In Pittsburgh the boys were reflecting on getting licked two out of three by the champion St. Louis Cardinals, whereas at present they are happy in the knowledge that they have won three straight and are in excellent shape to make a strong bid for a fair sized winning streak. These contrasting states of mind make a vast difference in ball players as loafing companions.

The Cubs continue to be amazingly slow and sometimes stupid on the base lines, but their power cannot be denied and they have been winning through the ability to get enough hits to more than make up for their waddling on the route around the diamond.

However, there seems no reason to worry about the pokey and ponderous movements of the so-called base runners as long as the hitters keep hitting and the pitchers keep pitching as they have in recent games. The reference to hitters is meant, in the current sense, as comment on the work of Manager Hornsby, Woody English and Riggs Stephenson, but the scope is a bit broader in the reference to pitchers, for almost the entire staff has been showing great improvement over last year's form.

But, getting back to the attempts of the colossi to run fast. In the ten games played the Cubs have been the victims of no fewer than 19 double plays, as compared with nine executed against their adversaries.

Two of the double plays were possible against fast men because of poor base running or poor catching—one instance being the doubling of Danny Taylor at third in Chicago on an easy throw by Paul Waner, and the other being on some fuzzy work by English in trying to get back to first after Roettger caught Hornsby's fly in yesterday's game here.

Seventeen of the double plays were setups because either one or both of the victims are athletes who are unable to run with any degree of speed whatever. While it is true that even fast men would have gone down in some of the double plays, it is further true that all slow runners are known as "double play men."

If you know the speed of your Cubs you cannot but be convinced by the following table that certain slow men are setups for double plays, and that to overcome this handicap they must be counted on to supply base hits in abundance. The couplings show the double play victims, the second name in each coupling being that of the batsman:

First game—Bell-Grimm; Root-English.
Second game—English-Wilson; Wilson-Stephenson.
Third game—D. Taylor-Stephenson [poor coaching].
Fourth game—Bell-Grimm [2]; Hornsby-Wilson; Stephenson-Bell.
Fifth game—English-Wilson.
Sixth game—Wilson-Stephenson.
Seventh game—Wilson-Stephenson.
Eighth game—Bell-Grimm.
Ninth game—Stephenson-Hartnett; Stephenson-Bell.
Tenth game—Hornsby-Wilson; Hartnett-Bell; English-Hornsby [poor base running by English]; Stephenson-Hartnett.

While Stephenson leads the double play victims, figuring in eight double killings, he has been on the front end of four double plays and was affected by an outfield double play on D. Taylor, which was no part of the defense strategy against "double play runners." The most recurrent double play combination has been the Bell-Grimm killing.

Equipoise Fit for Preakness, Trainer Says

Havre de Grace, Md., April 27.—[Special.]—"Equipoise was in fine shape today and I have every expectation of starting him in the Preakness," said Trainer Fred Hopkins tonight. Hopkins had the colt out on the track and J. Shillick, the veteran exercise boy, who has been up on Equipoise in preparing him for most of his big races, again was in the saddle.

"Shillick found no difference in him at all," continued Hopkins, "and he was galloped slowly for a mile. That is exactly the amount of work we would have given him had he won the Chesapeake, and since he behaved normally there is no reason to get gloomy about the Preakness. Of course, a lot depends on the breezing we will give him tomorrow."

Healey Thinks He's Fit.

T. J. Healey, head trainer of the Whitney string, who saddled Magnifice for a victory at Pimlico today, said:

"I see no reason why Equipoise should not run in the Preakness."

On being apprised of rumors and published statements that Equipoise would be withdrawn from the Preakness and saved for the Kentucky Derby, Hopkins said: "That's foolish because if he is not good enough and ready to go in the Preakness he won't be good enough or ready enough for the Derby."

The Preakness is to be run May 9 at Pimlico and the Derby May 16 at Churchill Downs.

The possibility exists that Equipoise will be given another race before the Preakness but it is a remote one. Hopkins, previous to the Chesapeake, had determined that Equipoise's following start would be in the Preakness. The only reason for another race now would be to make a public trial to reassure any doubting Thomases on his condition. Such a race is not considered necessary as part of his preparation.

Horsemen Desert Track.

Equipoise was pretty nearly in solitary grandeur at Havre de Grace, as the meeting ended there last Saturday.

The son of Pennant and Swinging was watched anxiously as he took the track but he had not gone a furlong before the strain eased off. Equipoise is a phlegmatic fellow and he showed no excitement at all.

SAIL TOMORROW FOR BOUTS AT SOLDIERS' FIELD

War Veterans Will Share in Profits.

BY WESTBROOK PEGLER.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PARIS, April 27.—The French have a quaint name for soldiers who were shot in the face in the war so badly that there is nothing for them but to put them away together in a permanent refuge. They are called "broken mugs." They live in a castle under the command of a colonel who is also a broken mug, and from time to time there are charity balls and what not in Paris to raise money to buy things for them.

There are other broken mugs in France, but those who live together in this castle are those without any private fortune, and who are too badly disfigured to marry, and they are unable to support themselves at work. Some of them wear linen veils over their wounds.

It is strange that people generally do not seem to know where this castle is, for several Frenchmen said in response to a casual inquiry about the broken mugs, that they live in a castle off somewhere from Paris—"but I don't know just where it is."

To Fight for Veterans.

Well, now, the team of ten young amateur boxers about to sail for the United States on Wednesday, are going to fight the joint Chicago-New York Golden Gloves team for the benefit of the broken mugs and other mutilated French veterans of war.

French boxers are not accustomed to very luxurious treatment by the French public, and seven who live in scattered localities outside of Paris will be dropping into town casually on Wednesday morning with their hand baggage, and they will be met at the station by delegations from the boxing federation. When the boys are assembled they will be guests at lunch, and after lunch they will be taken to the American consulate to have their passports rubber stamped.

These doings ought to occupy them until 4 o'clock in the afternoon when formal farewell activities begin to flare at the Gare St. Lazare. There will be a band of 100 gendarmes, the American Legion, and the Forty and Eight will act as a guard of honor in full regalia. Pierre Bardel, a war veteran himself, will make a speech in behalf of M. Morinaud, minister of sports in the French government. In France sport is a government concern, a plan which might be used in the United States, although it must be admitted that up to now the goverance of sport by commissions of politicians in the various states has fallen some distance short of the ideal.

U. S. Embassy Coöperates.

Robert Pell of the American embassy is coöperating in arrangements and Ambassador Walter E. Edge has registered interest in the expedition, although it is impossible to quote him directly, as diplomatic usage forbids.

It is fairly probable that some of the French and American mugs appearing in the tournament at Chicago will come through the fights more or less scuffed up as a mild sacrifice to raise money for those mugs living off in the castle somewhere, so badly broken that they sometimes wear linen veils to spare more fortunate people from the distressing sight of them.

The exact allocation of the French share of revenue from the international Golden Gloves bouts in Chicago has not been definitely decided upon, but when the division is made this much is certain: that the broken mugs will receive their share. It must be a problem to find luxuries which the more hopelessly obliterated mugs can enjoy. Cigarets and cigars are an instinctive answer, but blind men often give up smoking because they cannot see the fire, and a man cannot smoke if he has no mouth.

3 CHICAGOANS WIN IN NATIONAL A. A. U. RING MEET

Day, Storey, and Sutton Reach 2d Round.

New York, April 27.—(AP)—The finest of the nation's amateur boxers brought their show into the metropolis for the first time in the 28 year history of the national amateur athletic union championship tonight and 8,000 excited customers yelled themselves weary over the preliminary bouts.

Before the first round eliminations had reached into the 180 pound class there were half a dozen knockouts, slugfests galore, and the usual comedy touches.

A generous parceling out of byes to bring about a similar number of bouts in all classes in the second round, scheduled to start at 4 p. m. tomorrow, left only three bouts for the opening night in the 112 pound class, one in the 118 pound class, two in the 126 pound division, seven among the lightweights, two in the welters, six among the 160 pounders, and seven for the light heavyweights.

Three Chicagoans Win.

No heavyweights were called into action in the only division boasting a defending champion, Jack Pallat of Cleveland.

Chicagoans won three of the four bouts in which they fought. James Ellopoulos, Chicago Golden Gloves flyweight, lost a decision in three rounds to James Perrin, New Orleans, but David Day, Chicago bantamweight, won from Frits Zivic of Pittsburgh, brother of the professional battlers, Pete and Jack. Haywood Storey of Chicago whipped Robert Skriner, U. S. army, Baltimore, in the middleweight class.

New Orleans in the first five classes qualified five men for the second round, two through byes. Cleveland landed four, two through byes.

Southpaws Show Punch.

A pair of southpaws set up a knockout record for the rest of the youngsters to shoot at. Ed Flynn, a fine prospect from New Orleans, knocked out Alex Kronick of Newark, N. J., in 1:20 of the first round, while Adam Gayweski, Nanticoke, Pa., was equally merciless with Virgil Honeycutt of Indianapolis. Among the lightweights Robert Goistein of the University of Virginia knocked out Morris Moyer, from Cincinnati, in 2:35 of the first, while Steve Salek of Boston delayed until 45 seconds of the second round for the quietus for Sam Dadezio of Newark, N. J. Both of the latter winners were southpaws. All the winning lightweights were stiff punchers.

SMITTY—YOU CAN'T WIN

Harper Sees Bright Season on Gridiron

Kansas City, Mo., April 27.—(AP)—Rancher Jesse Harper is frankly optimistic about Notre Dame's football chances.

In striking contrast to the affected pessimism of the late Knute Rockne, whom Harper will succeed as pilot of the athletic destinies of Notre Dame, the cattleman-athletic director said here today that Notre Dame is going to have a good 1931 football team.

"I have great confidence in Senior Coach Heartley Anderson and Junior Coach Jack Chevigny," Harper said. "I firmly believe they will turn out a good football team.

Plans No Changes.

"I don't say we will win all our games next fall, but if we don't win our opponents will know they have had a game."

Harper, who was here arranging his business affairs preparatory for departure from Wichita for South Bend Wednesday, said no drastic change would be made in Notre Dame's athletic policy.

"Notre Dame always had the reputation of playing a hard schedule and has enjoyed it," he said.

Will Keep Ranch.

While Notre Dame's athletic administration will be uppermost in his mind, Harper will retain interest in the cattle business which he took up in partnership with his father-in-law after he forsook the football coaching job at South Bend 13 years ago.

He will spend summers on his southwestern Kansas ranch, the academic year in South Bend, with perhaps a week off now and then to look after his ranching interests.

He was asked what would be his first action at Notre Dame.

"Why," he said between teeth clenched over an ever present briar pipe, "I'm just going right to work and stay at it until June."

Baxter Calmes spotted George Trenkle 17 pounds last night and then went on to win a ten round victory in the feature bout at White City. It was Calmes' sixth straight victory in Chicago. Calmes weighed 175¼ pounds and Trenkle 192.

SENATORS DOWN YANKEES, 9 TO 8, ON FORCED RUN

Washington, D. C., April 27.—(AP)—The Nationals made it two in a row from the Yankees today when Weinert, third New York pitcher, forced in a run to make it 9 to 8 after 12 innings.

Sam Rice, Washington right fielder, went to bat with the bases filled. Harry Rice had singled for his fourth hit; Hargrave was purposely passed and Hayes, batting for Burke, had walked. Harry Rice was forced in with the winning run when Sam was hit.

Percy Lee Jones Falls Out Window; Back Is Broken

Columbus, O., April 27.—[Special.]—Percy Lee Jones, 30 years old, former pitcher for the Chicago Cubs, St. Louis Cardinals, Pittsburgh, and Boston Braves, was in a serious condition in a hospital here today as the result of a fall from a window of his third floor apartment in the Seneca hotel yesterday.

According to his room mate, Arthur Rheinhart, another pitcher on the Columbus team, who was talking to Jones at the time he fell, he lost his balance while sitting in an open window.

His injuries consist of a broken back and two broken legs. Jones is a left handed pitcher, and his home is in Dallas, Tex.

Jones, in early season games with the Columbus club of the American association, seemed destined to be the mainstay of the pitching staff. He had won three of the four games in which he participated.

We Vacuum-Clean Away the Dust and Keep the Natural Moisture In!

THAT'S WHY THE GREAT COUNTRY-WIDE SWITCH TO CAMELS

Since the introduction of Camels in the Humidor Pack it has taxed even our tremendous production to supply the great new demand. It seems that literally everybody is switching to Camels.

It's not because the tobacco in this cigarette is better than before. We have always used the choicest Turkish and Domestic tobacco money and long experience could buy.

The real reason, while Camel sales have been soaring to new high peaks, is that

Loss of moisture due to scorching or evaporation from old style packages leaves cigarettes harsh and dry.

We vacuum-clean away the dust and wrap perfectly conditioned Camels in a special air-sealed, moisture-proof Cellophane coat to keep the natural freshness in and keep the germs out.

So now, no matter where you buy Camels, you get them in factory-fresh, mild condition. The exclusive new wrapper acts as a tiny humidor.

It is the mark of a considerate hostess, by means of the Humidor Pack, to "Serve a fresh cigarette." Buy Camels by the carton—this cigarette will remain fresh in your home and office.

CHALLENGER II. READY TO MAKE NEW BID ON TURF

English Horse to Run on Chicago Tracks.

BY FRENCH LANE.

William Brann and Robert Castle, the Chicago sportsmen who went to England in search of the best young thoroughbred in that country and wound up buying Challenger II. about a year ago, haven't lost faith in the big brown son of Swynford-Sword's Play.

They didn't try Challenger II. until the last winter, when they attempted to get him ready for the Agua Caliente handicap. Not thoroughly acclimated, he failed to train on for that rich stake and did not get to the post.

Now Messrs. Brann and Castle are bringing Challenger II. back to their native Chicago from California and at some time during the season here they expect to see their expensive English colt prove that he was worth all or more than they paid for him. Challenger II. is due here this week.

Ranked as Leader.

In 1929 Challenger II. was ranked with the leading 2 year olds in England. He was bought by the Chicagoans at a high figure. The exact price never was made public. Just before he was scheduled to leave England and while in a playful mood he took quite a vicious kick at a hedge row at Newmarket. There happened to be some barbed wire hidden in the hedge. Challenger II. suffered a severe wound in his right hind leg.

This accident kept him out of the Arlington Classic and other late 3 year old stake fixtures in this country last season. He didn't seem to thrive during the winter, but that doesn't mean he will not be a great horse this summer. English horses often are slow to find their racing legs after they are brought to this country. But when they become accustomed to our racing methods they often give the American champions lots of trouble.

There are always a few one horse stables in every turf center. Probably the most interesting in Chicago this spring is Frank Fitzgerald's establishment, which consists of his selling plater, Prince Pat.

Prince Pat, now a half dozen years old, wasn't always a selling plater. He was one of the expensive yearlings W. T. Waggoner, the Texas millionaire, bought at a high figure in 1927. As a 2 year old he was considered among the best in the Waggoner stable, which boasted several stars at that time. He had held his own with many of the best in his division.

Sold for $500.

Then he developed a lameness. He was disabled so long Fitzgerald finally bought him for something like $500. Fitzgerald, a horseman who got his schooling in Texas, finally patched him up until he was beating good selling platers at New Orleans during the winter.

Prince Pat is going along so nicely in his training at Aurora that so shrewd horsemen believe he will show some of the stuff this season expected of him back in his younger days on the race tracks.

Probably the most noted one horse stable the American turf ever knew was the one which Harry Payne Whitney and Herman Duryea sent to the races some twenty years ago. It was at the time when the late Mr. Whitney was just getting into racing. The horse in this famous one horse stable was Irish Lad. He raced with Hermis and other great thoroughbreds of the time and won his share of the stake fixtures of those days.

Later Duryea bought out Whitney's interest in the horse and sent him to France, where he was fairly successful in the stud.

Whitney, who made his bow in racing with a half interest in a one horse stable, was the owner of more thoroughbreds than any other turfman in America at the time of his death last fall.

We heard yesterday that a Chicagoan who owns a string of race horses and who puts the blame for defeat of his horses on the jockey has dispatched a representative to Idaho with instructions to sign up the six best youthful horseback riders in the section which sent Earl Sande and La Verne Fator to the races and bring them back to Chicago. "These boys from Idaho will do my riding this season," he said.

Persons quoting future odds on the Kentucky Derby were running around in circles as reports trickled in from the east that Equipoise was a doubtful Derby starter and that Twenty Grand might not be ready to fill the engagement. Jess Frazier, who has wagered on Insco, Pittsburgher, and Prince d'Amour at tall odds, was ready to start celebrating.

U. G. [Sport] Hermann has buried his dog, Rowdy, in a plot in the animal pet cemetery in Hinsdale and has ordered a headstone for the grave of his pal of ten years.

U. S. Outboard Group Makes Record Ruling

The National Outboard racing commission in connection with the Chicago National boat show voted yesterday to award official outboard records only in races sanctioned by the National Outboard association and the American Power Boat association. The action was the most radical made in boating circles in years.

The move was necessary, according to Charles F. Chapman and James W. Mulroy, chairman and secretary of the commission, because of the move made Sunday by delegates to the annual Mississippi Valley Power Boat association convention held at the Motor Boat mart here. Delegates to the M. V. P. B. A. meeting voted to create an unlimited outboard racing division with no restrictions except piston displacement and, with records for this division recognized as M. V. P. B. A. records.

Although the delegates to the Valley meeting voted to abide by the rules of the National Outboard association as drawn up by the racing commissioners, representatives of the American Power Boat association and the National Outboard association took the stand that the encouragement of nonstock raising would seriously endanger amateur competition and would force the motor manufacturers into the racing field. Three of the five commissioners voted to give the sanctioning powers formerly held by the M. V. P. B. A. to the National Outboard association and changed the rules so that only members of clubs belonging to the National Outboard association and the American Power Boat association may be awarded world outboard records in the future.

In the WAKE of the NEWS

POT POURRI.

WITH two weeks of the baseball season completed, our Cubs have not indicated definitely that they will or will not be successful in their 1931 pennant hunt. That was not to be expected within so brief a period. In fact, present indications are that the race will be just what was predicted, a ding-dong affair with the result undetermined until late in the season, and perhaps up to the very finish.

Root's effective pitching and Manager Hornsby's batting and ability to stay in the game have been encouraging features. Not so favorable are the many Cub runners left on bases when north side batters failed to deliver a "punch" when needed, and Hack Wilson's failure to deliver his customary flock of home runs. Neither need be serious. Hack has been in batting slumps before and always has emerged. Hack, when he starts smacking them at his usual clip, alone will add considerable punch. It probably will affect the whole team.

In the percentage standing, the Cub showing is satisfactory. Of the other four teams named in advance as contenders, the champion Cardinals have maintained their reputation, possibly a little more than maintained it. New York has done as well as expected. Brooklyn has proved disappointing so far and Pittsburgh looked none too strong against the Cubs. Boston is the real surprise to date.

On the basis of sectional pride, it is gratifying to find that times and records in seventeen comparable events at the Drake and Penn relay games favored the west. Marks at Drake were better in twelve, poorer in three, and tied in two events. Western collegians competed at Drake. Eastern, southern, and a few western men took part at Penn.

Wonder if this is going to be a "boner" year in baseball? First was a weird decision by an umpire in a Cubs-Cardinal fray, and now a New York Yankee baserunner, thinking a home run hit had been caught, failed to complete the circuit and nullified two runs—his own and that of the batsman—by leaving the paths and automatically recording the third out of the inning. Anyway, such incidents afford plenty of conversation for the fans.

SPARROW HAWK DEADLY FOE OF INSECTS, MICE

Does More Good than Harm on Farms.

BY BOB BECKER.

Of all the hawks in Chicagoland, probably the best known [with the possible exception of the marsh hawk] is the small, handsome insect and mouse catcher known as the sparrow hawk. Farmers, estate owners, and nearly all sportsmen are familiar with this little fellow because he is so good looking and also because he is "half pint" in size.

The sparrow hawk is the only true falcon which the government authorities place in the "mainly beneficial" class. This bird makes 99 raids against harmful field mice, meadow mice, and insects as compared to one attack against small chickens or songbirds. Its irregularities are so infrequent that they are more than outstripped by its good services.

Hunting Tactics Interesting

We have watched these small birds of prey many times while on trips afield in the central states. They are such graceful flyers and their hunting methods so interesting that it is fun to watch them operate. The sparrow hawk does not spend all of his time cruising back and forth over the country. Although he must cover ground to find white footed mice or the gray field mice, as well as crickets and beetles, he likes to park on top of a telegraph pole or a tree, and there he "sets," eyes alert for signs of food.

We have seen them remain in one place for five or ten minutes before swooping down to pick up a large beetle, a grasshopper, or other insect. Caterpillars that spend their time on the ground instead of in trees, and spiders also form part of their diet.

It would be a blessing if the sparrow hawk would spend some of his time in towns and cities to live up to his name as an exterminator of the sparrows, which are far too numerous in most localities. Not that this little hawk would be afraid to invade towns. The contrary is true. Because of his confidence and lack of fear this species suffers from the careless gunner. Thousands are killed each year, although they are the farmer's friends. Even house mice are taken by this predator, because they will come up to the barns and outbuildings on a farm and pick up these pestiferous little mammals.

Has Excuse for Killing Chickens.

It's at this time of the year that the sparrow hawk falls into bad ways and kills a few songbirds, because during the nesting season he has less time to procure his favorite food. It is also at this time that they will pick up small chickens But the sparrow hawk's fine work in waging war against noxious insects and the mice which will eat the farmer's grain more than make up for these depredations.

BOHN LEASES FIRST OF U. S. CHAIN OF SHOPS

Plant Active; Force More than Doubled.

BY AL CHASE.

Announcing that it contemplates the establishment of twenty retail stores in leading cities of the country, the Bohn Refrigerator company has leased space on the first floor of the Lake Michigan building, at the southwest corner of Lake street and Michigan avenue, and in addition will use quarters on the upper floors for general offices, sales schools, and as the headquarters for the Chicago retail organization.

This announcement comes with the news that the Bohn Refrigerator company intends to put on the market shortly its first electric type of refrigerator, developed after years of experimental work.

All of the stores contemplated by the organization are expected to be in operation within the next twelve months. Later the company plans to extend operation into smaller cities until a complete national distributive structure is developed.

Double Factory Force.

"One of the surprising developments of electrical refrigeration," said G. C. Bohn, president of the firm, "is the marked increase in the sale of ice refrigerators. Electric refrigerators have stimulated interest in the ice refrigerator. People who cannot afford the electric type are buying the ice types in ever increasing numbers.

"Our own business has shown a substantial increase in the last four months over the same period last year and our factory force has been more than doubled in the last two months."

Warner Brothers Pictures.

Please give me information on Warner Brothers Pictures, Inc.—W. H. H.

Warner Brothers Pictures, Inc., is one of the leading producers and exhibitors of motion pictures. The company's expansion in the last few years has been rapid. This makes comparison of earnings during recent periods difficult.

Total income increased from $5,919,935 in the fiscal year ended Aug. 27, 1927, to $52,592,841 for the 1930 fiscal year. Capitalization has shown a corresponding increase. On Nov. 29, 1930, there were outstanding 3,787,593 no par common shares, 103,187 no par preferred shares, and $106,140,586 of funded debt.

Net income has not consistently followed the upward trend of total income. For the 1930 fiscal year net was $7,074,621, or $2.27 per common share, based on 3,015,541 shares, against net of $14,514,628, or $5.23 per share, on 2,627,405 common shares in 1929. For the 1928 fiscal year net was $2,044,842, against $30,427 for the preceding year.

Reduced earnings in 1930 have been ascribed to expenses incidental to the consolidation of properties and increased deductions for amortization of films and depreciation. The increase in funded debt has required an increase in interest charges.

The company has had an arrangement with Paramount-Publix corporation for the interbooking of films. Due to a difference of opinion on rental prices, this has not been in effect for nearly a year. This has adversely affected earnings of the two companies by reducing the number of theaters in which the films were released.

Net profit for the quarter ended Nov. 30, 1930, before amortization, depreciation, interest, etc., and subject to realization by the radio and record division of the face value of its receivables and its cost of inventories, was $1,576,421, against $5,629,109 for the like period of 1929.

On Aug. 30, 1930, current assets, including $30,703,000 inventories and $5,133,000 cash, were $42,498,291. Current liabilities were $22,876,661. On Nov. 29, 1930, cash was $6,169,982.

No dividends have been paid on the common since June 2, 1930, when $1 per share was paid.

Both the preferred and common are speculative at present.

MIDWEST TRADE SHOWS ADVANCE DURING MARCH

But Is Still Short of 8 Year Average.

BY O. A. MATHER.

While merchandising in the middle west made the customary improvement last month, it failed in most groups to equal the eight year average for March. This is the evidence presented by the Chicago Federal Reserve bank in its monthly review. However, it must be considered that the sales volume of wholesale trade has been affected considerably by the prolonged decline in prices.

"The gains shown during March over February in reporting lines of wholesale trade were seasonal in character and those in most groups failed to equal the eight year average," the review says. "Dry goods furnished an exception with a 26 per cent increase over February and the 13 per cent gain in the wholesale grocery trade was a little better than average for this season. But the increases of 11 per cent in hardware, of 5 per cent in drugs and of 49 per cent in shoes were smaller than usual.

Extent of Declines.

"First quarter sales in the various groups showed declines from the corresponding period of 1930 as follows: groceries, 10½ per cent; hardware, 31 per cent, dry goods, 25 per cent; drugs, 12 per cent; shoes, 18 per cent; and electrical supplies, 35 per cent."

Examining the automobile industry, the Chicago Reserve bank quotes department of commerce figures showing that March production was the largest since last June and made the fourth successive monthly increase with a gain of 28 per cent over February. Still, the ouptut fell 30 per cent below March, 1930, and 55 per cent below March, 1929. In fact, it was the lowest for any March since 1922.

"A further gain took place during March in midwest distribution of automobiles, although the expansion in sales was less than usual for the season and both retail and wholesale distribution totaled considerably below last March, which in turn compared unfavorably with March, 1929. Stocks of new cars at the end of the month were heavier than a month previous but much smaller than a year ago. Used car sales increased to a greater degree than did those of new cars at retail, although likewise declining from March, 1930."

Furniture Orders Rise.

Orders booked by furniture manufacturers in the middle west last month ran 5 per cent ahead of February and shipments expanded 11 per cent. But orders and shipments fell 11 per cent and 24 per cent, respectively, below March, 1930. Retail sales of furniture and house furnishings improved 12 per cent over February, but were 13 per cent under a year ago.

The slow pace of commerce and industry is reflected in the weekly report of the federal reserve board on the position of reporting member banks. These banks reduced their loans on securities by $56,000,000 and their other loans by $63,000,000 during the week ended April 22. They reduced their investments in government securities by $9,000,000, but increased their holdings of other securities by $54,000,000.

50 ROADS REPORT $26,038,000 MARCH OPERATING NET

New York, April 27.—(AP)—Aggregate net operation income of the first fifty railroads to report for March was approximately $26,038,000, a decline of 34 per cent from $39,281,000 reported for the like month last year. Four-teen of the carriers showed larger net operating income last month than in March of last year.

West & Co. Fails; Estimate Liabilities at $7,000,000

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, April 27.—Suspension of West & Co., New York and Philadelphia brokers, for insolvency was announced from the rostrum of the New York Stock exchange this morning. The New York Curb exchange later announced suspension of the company from that market.

No figures on assets or liabilities were made public at the offices of the firm. Estimates of liabilities in Wall street were in the neighborhood of $7,000,000, with estimates of assets of $3,000,000.

The firm is the third stock exchange house to be suspended for insolvency this year. Lorenzo E. Anderson & Co. of St. Louis, a comparatively small firm, was suspended on Jan. 2. The failure and suspension of Pynchon & Co. of this city were announced last Friday. It was the biggest failure in the history of the stock exchange. Five firms failed last year.

Makes Statement.

West & Co. made the following statement shortly after the suspension was announced:

"This morning at 11 o'clock we informed the stock exchange that, due to our present inability to meet our obligations, we felt it our duty to our customers and other creditors to suspend business. This we have done. We shall coöperate in every way to work out the best possible results in their interests."

Suspension of West & Co. was said to have been precipitated by the suspension of Pynchon & Co. The former was associated with the Pynchon firm in many underwritings, especially of public utilities and amusement company securities.

Among the companies for which West & Co. originated issues during recent years were National Theatre Supply, Interstate Power, Central Gas and Electric, Indianapolis Power and Light, Derby Gas and Electric, York Ice Machinery, Newport Water, Standard Telephone, and Root Refining. The house participated in underwriting securities for Monsanto Chemical, Belding Bros. & Co., Metropolitan Edison, General Gas and Electric, Forhan & Co., American Brown Boveri, Tungsol Lamp Works, International Projector corporation, Indiana Limestone, Federal Light and Traction, St. Louis Gas and Coke, American Ice and General Theatres Equipment.

Eyes Eaton Activities.

New York, April 27.—(AP)—Wall street was agog today over the possible effects upon the fortunes of Cyrus S. Eaton, Cleveland capitalist, of his relinquishing the management of Continental Shares, incorporated, one of the largest investment trusts in the country, and the retirement of Otis & Co., Mr. Eaton's stock exchange house, from the stock brokerage business.

In recent years Mr. Eaton's huge mergers in the public utility and steel industries, and his acquisition of a large stake in the rubber industry, have brought him swiftly to the forefront of American finance. It was when he became involved in one of the bitterest financial battles of history to block the merger of the Bethlehem Steel corporation and the Youngstown Sheet and Tube company, which was finally enforced, that he commanded national attention.

Continental Shares, Inc., has been an important vehicle through which the Eaton interests have expanded their influence in important industrial and public utility companies. Mr Eaton is said to still retain his holdings in Continental Shares, and he still heads and is understood to retain his holdings in the Republic Steel corporation, the third largest unit in the steel industry, and in the United Light and Power corporation, holding company for a $1,500,000,000 group of public utility companies. How much of the Eaton stock in these or other concerns may have been pledged at banks as collateral against loans is not known.

Clash with Holders.

The Bethlehem Steel-Eaton group controversy has not only resulted in protracted litigation between the two groups, but has brought heads of the two groups into clashes with their own stockholders. Bethlehem stockholders have brought suit against the management because of large bonuses paid, which were revealed in the litigation with the Eaton interests.

In turn, stockholders of Continental Shares have objected to the Eaton management of the trust, and have brought suits in Ohio courts. These suits are one of the reasons why the Eaton group is retiring from management of Continental and turning it over to a group of powerful Cleveland bankers.

Another reason advanced for the retirement of the Eaton group from the management of the large investment trust is the recently expressed attitude of the stock exchange toward the relation of member firms with trusts which they have sponsored. The exchange suggested that managements of trusts include interests independent of sponsoring member firms.

Will Liquidate.

Cincinnati, O., April 27.—(AP)—Officers of the brokerage firm of Hunter, Budde & Duble of this city today said their business would be liquidated. Decision of the firm to suspend business operations was made on the floor of the Cincinnati Stock exchange by Willis D. Gradison, president of the exchange.

W. T. Hunter, senior member, said liquidation was decided upon because of existing conditions, which do not justify their continuing in business.

Federal Judge Carpenter yesterday appointed the Chicago Title and Trust company ancillary receiver for Pynchon & Co., investment brokers, whose headquarters, in New York, went into receivership last week. Bond for the receiver was fixed at $300,000.

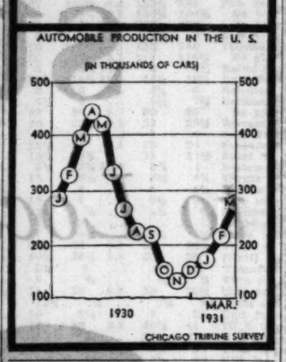

MAKE ANOTHER CUT IN BANKERS' ACCEPTANCES

New York, April 27.—(AP)—For the second time in five days rates on bankers' acceptances were reduced today by dealers ⅛ of 1 per cent. The reduction of bid and asked rates on all maturities brought them down to the all time low level for the New York bill market established in February. Boston dealers made similar reductions.

It was reported in financial circles that the New York Federal Reserve bank, which took the dealers by surprise last week and reduced its buying rate, had cut its buying rate on bills up to 45 days maturity ⅛ of 1 per cent to 1¼ per cent.

The new dealers' rates are: 30 to 90 days, 1⅜ bid, 1¼ asked; 120 days, 1½ per cent bid, 1⅝ asked; 150 and 180 days, 1⅝ bid, 1½ per cent asked.

OUTPUT OF AUTOMOBILES CONTINUES UPTURN

U. S. TREASURY OFFERS $60,000,000 ISSUE OF NINETY DAY BILLS

Washington, D. C., April 27.—(AP)—A $60,000,000 issue of 90 day treasury bills was offered today by Secretary Mellon to meet government expenses. It will bring to $2,460,000,000 the amount of securities issued by the treasury since last March 15.

The government is faced with a deficit of $800,000,000 or more at the end of the fiscal year on June 30 due to increasing expenditures, declining incomes, and the problem of raising cash for loans to world war veterans. Bonds, certificates of indebtedness, and treasury bills have been sold to raise the necessary money. Of the total, however, $1,109,000,000 was issued to refund maturing five year treasury notes which fell due March 15.

The new issue will be sold on a discount basis on May 1 and will be dated May 5 to mature on Aug. 3. The proceeds will be required to meet the maturity of two issues of 90 day bills of $30,000,000 each which fall due on May 4 and 5. On May 18 the treasury must retire $154,000,000 in maturing treasury certificates.

AUTO CHIEF LAYS DEPRESSION TO 'SUNSHINE TALK'

Detroit, Mich., April 27.—(AP)—"Wishful thinking" and "sunshine talk" were blamed for the business depression by B. E. Hutchinson, vice president and treasurer of Chrysler corporation, in an address before the opening session of national advertisers here today.

"I feel that this very inclination to indulge in 'sunshine talk' has been one of our chief weaknesses," Mr. Hutchinson said. "We had had far too much of it before the 1929 crash."

Canada Sells Wheat as Farm Board Seeks Market

BY PAUL POTTER.

Facing an international buyers' market in grains and the complications of price cutting and rumors that vast storage stocks of American wheat might be "dumped" in European markets, the federal farm board's stabilization corporation yesterday found the disposal of its surplus holdings of wheat in seaboard ports tough going.

Since the farm board's announcement on Feb. 26 that it would sell its exportable wheat, described as of "high milling qualities," in foreign markets at prevailing prices, to the amount of 35 million bushels, an estimated 8 million bushels have been the extent of its sales, according to local officials.

George S. Milner, president of the Grain Stabilization corporation, stated yesterday he was confident the entire 35 million bushels of grain which the corporation is holding at American seaboard points would be sold by July 1.

Comparison of Sales.

Canadian exporters have reported officially the sale of 25 million bushels of hard winter wheat for export in the last four weeks. American export reports credit the shipment of but 3 million bushels from the vast stocks on hand here in the same period.

Of the farm board's stabilization corporation holdings, which with final deliveries next Friday are estimated to total about 250 million bushels purchased with federal funds to aid farm relief, its durum wheat is said to meet the most willing customers. This type of wheat, best suited for making macaroni and spaghetti, is said to be relatively scarce this spring. The governmental agency is reported to have shipped 1,250,000 bushels of it from Duluth to Montreal, presumably for European consumption.

"There is plenty of cheap wheat to be bought from Argentina and Australia for what limited European demand exists," declared a leading Chicago grain merchant yesterday. "But the Argentine grain is light weight and the Australian wheat badly weathered, so millers have to buy some Canadian or United States wheat to give their flour baking qualities. Canada has been getting the lion's share of this business."

See No Outlet.

Despite the declaration by Chairman James Stone of the farm board recently that no American wheat would be "dumped" in world markets, persistent rumors say that no other outlet exists for the unprecedentedly large holdings in the United States. Lowered commodity and financial quotations are said by foreign correspondents to also operate against possible purchases of the farm board's wheat.

In order to meet Canadian competition, according to cables from Antwerp, Berlin, and Liverpool, the farm board must sell its choice No. 2 hard winter wheat for 76 cents c. i. f. Antwerp, while the same grade is being held in Chicago at the arbitrary price of 83.5 cents for domestic millers. This grade of wheat is said to equal in quality the Canadian No. 3 northern Manitoba wheat now being sold in Europe at 7 cents under Chicago quotations.

Wrigley Earns $2,365,960 Net During First Quarter

The William Wrigley Jr. company reports consolidated net profit for the three months ended March 31 of $2,365,960 after all charges and estimated federal taxes. This was equivalent to $1.18 a share on the 2,000,000 shares outstanding. In the first quarter of 1930 the parent company had net earnings of $2,643,426, or $1.32 a share on the same capitalization.

Canadian Imports for Year Again Top Exports

OTTAWA, Ont., April 27.—(AP)—At the end of the fiscal year, March 31, Canada had an unfavorable trade balance of $89,607,000. Figures of the dominion bureau of statistics, made public today, are: Domestic exports, $799,717,000; exports of foreign origin, $17,285,000; imports, $906,610,000. The balance was not so adverse as the preceding year, when it was $103,335,000.

New York, April 27.—Another big Wall street brokerage house tipped over today and the reverberations from the crash were strong enough to send stock market values wabbling to new lows for the year, and in most cases to new bottoms for the bear movement.

United States Steel common broke to 122¾, the lowest point it has touched since 1927, and Westinghouse Manufacturing, big time leader of the utility division, dropped to 61¾, which compares with its February high of 107¾. Other pivotals took the count along with them, American Can, General Motors, Johns-Manville, Standard Oil of New Jersey, Radio corporation, and New York Central selling off from 1 to 4 points or more.

Losses among the lesser fry ranged as high as 12 and 14 points, with every group alike sharing in the route.

Selling increased as the decline gained sway—a bad sign from the Wall street viewpoint—and the day's turnover exceeded 3,600,000 shares, or nearly double the average of the last few weeks.

Of course, the new brokerage failure

CHICAGO STOCKS UNDER PRESSURE FROM SELLERS

Kalamazoo Stove Shares Off Over 3 Points.

BY THOMAS FURLONG.

The uncertain condition of the market was aggravated further yesterday by the suspension of another brokerage firm. In addition to distress selling, made necessary by the events of the last few days, the Chicago market had a certain amount of dumping by timid speculators whose "view with alarm" attitude has been heightened by the recent untoward developments.

The financial community breathed a sigh of relief over the news of the Otis & Co. arrangement with E. A. Pierce & Co. It quieted an ugly rumor which has been showing surprising vitality in recent weeks despite its age. The Eaton incident occasioned little surprise and the speculative community was glad to see the affair wind up.

Is Well Distributed.

The pressure on the Chicago market was fairly well distributed over all classes of stocks. The issues which enjoy an efficient market sponsorship suffered the least, but even in this group of stocks the losses were sufficient to bring the shares in new low price territory. The inconstant support accorded Kalamazoo Stove was reflected in a decline of more than 3 points in that issue. Other stocks which sustained more than average losses were Iron Fireman, North American Car, Allied Products and Brach & Son.

The fact that Continental Chicago corporation portfolio showed an investment of $200,000 in General Theaters debentures last November was regarded as significant in light of the weakness in the investment trust common stock yesterday. The issue sold at 5⅝ yesterday, the lowest price since the Continental-Chicago corporation consolidation.

Reduces Dividend.

Dividend reductions have become routine news so the announcement of a cut by Bastian Blessing created no stir. Directors placed the stock on a $2 annual basis through the declaration of a quarterly dividend of 50 cents. Previously the company, which is engaged in the manufacture of carbonating machinery and soda fountain parts, paid $3 yearly on its common stock.

Likewise the favorable earnings report of the National Standard company received little notice. Such "good news" is ignored in times of depression much as the "bad news" is overlooked in prosperous periods. The company, which makes automotive and garage equipment, had net earnings after all charges for the six months ended March 31 of $249,541, which was equivalent to $1.70 a share on the outstanding common stock. This compares with $216,812, or $1.44 a share on the slightly smaller capitalization in the previous year. Net for the March quarter amounted to $177,961, a gain of approximately 23 per cent over the corresponding period last year.

MONEY AND EXCHANGE

Money in Chicago firm, 5@6 per cent on collateral, 4@5½ per cent over the counter; commercial paper, 2¾@3¼ per cent; bankers' acceptances, 1⅛@1⅝ per cent. Chicago clearings yesterday were $57,800,000, compared with $67,400,000 a week ago, and $81,200,000 a year ago.

NEW YORK MONEY MARKET.

NEW YORK, April 27.—(AP)—Call money steady; 1½ per cent all day. Time loans steady; 60 days, 1½@1¾; 90 days, 2; 4 mos., 2@2¼; 5-6 mos., 2¼-2½ per cent. Prime commercial paper, 2¾@2¼ per cent. Bankers' acceptances easy; 30 days, 1⅜@1¼; 60@90 days, 1¼@1¼; 4 mos., 1⅜@1⅝; 5-6 mos., 1⅝@1¼ per cent. Bar silver steady, 28⅛ cents.

SHORT COVERING IN LARD

Covering of a line of short May, July and September lard by a commission house found offerings light early, and advanced prices 2½@27½c over Saturday's finish, but on the advance packers and outsiders turned to the selling side and a reaction followed with the finish at net gains of 10@12½c. Bellies were neglected but gained 5@7½c on a few trades. Exports of lard from Atlantic ports the past week aggregated 10,697,000 lbs against 10,206,000 lbs last year and of meats were 3,777,000 lbs compared with 5,252,000 lbs last year. Prices at the yards were 25c higher on hogs with receipts here and in the west materially short of last year. Prices follow:

Barge Lines Start New Era in River Shipping

BY SCRUTATOR.

The Louisville and Cincinnati Packet company went into receivership the other day, thereby furnishing additional concrete evidence of the passing of the old order in river transportation.

Known originally as the United States Mail Line, it was reputed to be the oldest steam navigation company in the world. Established in 1816 with its first boat, the "General Pike," considered the wonder of her day, this company has continued to operate its large river packets ever since with varying success. Of late years operation have been confined to the run between Louisville and Cincinnati.

Cites Former Reputations.

Two generations ago the Mail Line's boats were the pride of the rivers and established enviable reputations for speed, regularity and cuisine. In the height of the steamboat era it sped its packets up the Ohio to Pomeroy, Marietta and Pittsburgh; up the Kanawha to Charleston, West Virginia; up the Mississippi to St. Louis, and southward to Memphis and New Orleans. Connecting railroads made arrangements for the interchange of passengers.

Commodore Fred Laidley, now ninety years old, who headed the Mail Line in its prosperous days, still lives near Cincinnati. His boat the "City of Louisville," which was destroyed in the ice gorge in 1918, claimed to be the fastest on the Ohio.

"Steamboating, at least the old time steamboating that I used to know, is dead," is his comment. "Steel barges and towboats are the hope of river shippers today."

Yield to New Methods.

The old type of wooden, swanlike steamboat with its side wheels and towering smoke stacks that opened up the Mississippi valley to commerce and provided farmers and manufacturers with an adequate means of transportation in its day has given way to a totally different method of shipping by water.

Modern steel towboats, stern wheel or screw propellor today push a dozen barges at a time up or down the river, each barge containing the equivalent of several of the old steamboat loads of freight. Speed and picturesqueness have yielded to sturdy and efficient utilitarianism.

Although a number of reasons are given for the failure of the old Mail Line, river people admit that the main cause was simply that it had outlived its usefulness.

FINANCIERS WATCH DIVIDEND ACTION BY 3 BIG CORPORATIONS

Financial communities were watching closely yesterday the market trend of shares of at least three large corporations for a possible clue as to what action will be taken today on their respective dividends. The boards of United States Steel corporation, Illinois Central railroad and the Studebaker corporation are scheduled to meet tomorrow to act on their second quarterly disbursements for 1931.

Notwithstanding the belief that earnings of United States Steel, which will be made public after the close of the market tomorrow, will show a sharp downward revision from unofficial estimates of 85 cents a share put out several weeks ago, the board is expected to authorize the regular quarterly dividend of $1.75 a share on the common.

Directors of the Illinios Central railroad, it is pointed out, will consider carefully the consistently lower trend of railroad earnings in recent months, and the prospects of any immediate improvement when they take up the question of dividends at their meeting tomorrow. In line with other leading railroads Illinois Central has suffered sharply lower earnings, and because of this it is expected in railroad circles that the board will vote to reduce the dividend on the common from $1.75 a share to $1.25, or possibly $1 a share.

Directors of the Studebaker corporation are expected to declare the regular quarterly dividend of 30 cents a share, which was more than covered in the first quarter.

Standard Oil company of Indiana declared a quarterly dividend of 50 cents a share. A similar payment was made on March 16, prior to which time quarterly payments of 62½ cents a share had been made.

SELLING BEATS DOWN GRAINS TO LOW LEVELS

Wheat, Oats, Rye Gain on Short Covering.

BY CHARLES MICHAELS.

Liquidation was on in the grain markets early yesterday with all deliveries of corn and oats selling at a new low for the season as further stop loss orders were uncovered.

May corn at the inside was off 1½c from Saturday's finish to 53⅞c, a new low since 1921, when it sold as low as 50½c, while May oats touched 25⅛c, off 1c from the previous finish, and a new low since 1901. Weakness in the stock market in Wall street had some effect on sentiment which was extremely bearish a good part of the day.

At the inside figures wheat showed 1⅝@5⅞c under the high of the previous week on wheat, while the drastic liquidation had carried corn off 5½@6⅛c during the same period.

Short Covering Causes Rally.

One of the effects of the heavy general selling which has been in evidence in all grains and has carried them down to new low levels has been to materially strengthen the technical position. Wheat showed rather stubborn resistance to pressure early, and the close was at the top with net gains of ⅜@1⅛c. July finished at 60⅞@61c; September, 60⅞c, and December, 64⅜@64½c, while May was unchanged at 81½@81⅝c.

There was considerable short covering in wheat at Winnipeg toward the last on reports that the Saskatchewan Supreme court had held the 100 per cent provincial wheat pool proposition unconstitutional. This was regarded as materially strengthening Premier Bennett of Canada, who has repeatedly refused to sanction a proposal to have the government fix prices. Export sales of around 1,250,000 bu Canadian wheat were made late Saturday and yesterday, with intimations that a still larger business had been done. Winnipeg futures closed ⅞@1c higher, with July at 61c, while Liverpool was 1@1⅛d lower, with July at 65⅞c. A decrease of 1,233,000 bu in the visible supply failed to have an effect on the market. Total stocks are down to 196,498,000 bu, against 136,910,000 bu last year.

July Corn Leads Decline.

Heavy liquidation made its appearance in July corn and caused a break of 1c from Saturday's finish to a low of 56⅛c, with buying by shorts and holders of bids checking the decline. Toward the last the strength in wheat and short covering brought about a rally, but the finish was at net losses of ⅛@⅝c, with May, 55@55⅛c; July, 57⅝@57⅞c; September, 57⅝@57⅞c, and December, 51½@51⅝c. Shipping demand was somewhat better, with sales of 32,000 bu, while country offerings were small. An increase of 75,000 bu was shown in the visible supply, making the total 18,788,000 bu against 21,868,000 bu last year.

Buying by cash houses who were removing hedges against sales of 275,000 bu oats from here to the east and southeast with additional grain sold from outside points was a feature in the grain, and while prices dropped sharply early on liquidating sales, the finish was ⅛@⅛c higher, with May, 26⅛c; July, 27⅛c; September, 28⅛c, and December, 30⅞c.

Rye failed to get as low as it did on Saturday and firmed up toward the last with wheat and closed ⅜@1⅛c higher, with May, 33⅞@34c; July, 36⅝c, and September, 38⅛c.

The cattle market sagged badly when 21,000 head were unloaded at Chicago and an increase of almost 50 per cent was reported in receipts at other leading western markets yesterday. Hogs and lambs recovered all of the loss recorded during the last few days of last week and finished at the high point of the day when moderate supplies were reported in sight for today's market.

Activity featured the hog market when only 32,000 arrived yesterday, the smallest Monday receipts since August, 1930. Outsiders bought freely at the upturn taking about 35 per cent of available supplies after directs had been deducted from receipts.

Local packers were indifferent, in spite of another mild advance in the wholesale market for fresh pork loins which equaled the highest point since November, 1930. The extreme top advanced 30c at $7.65, while the general average moved up 20c at $7.05. About 6,000 were left at the close, including some being held off the market.

Today's Hogs Bid $7.50.

Light weight hogs for today's delivery were bid $7.50 on the "to arrive" market yesterday. Hogs averaging 210@260 lbs. carried bids of $7.25 and heavy grades averaging 260 310 lbs. were bid $7.00. May light were bid $7.50 and offered at $8.00, while June light were offered at $8.25 and bid $7.50. September offers were at $8.50 and bids at $8.25.

There was a big surplus of fat steers on the market yesterday and these suffered most on the break. Medium to good grades were hit hard in mid-season and later. Losses of 25@50c were recorded before the market closed, with late sales lowest of the day. Prime 1,738 lb. long fed steers topped the list at $9.50, the heaviest cattle bringing the top figure in some time.

Few sales were made above $9.00, with the bulk at $7.25@8.50. Many in between grades were reported carried over unsold at the close. Heifers declined 25c, while cows held steady. Calves were steady to 25c lower.

Lambs Bring $10.00.

The $10.00 lamb put in an appearance again yesterday when supplies fell short. Arrivals at Chicago were less than 20,000, the smallest Monday to 1 since March 2. With about 70 per cent of receipts billed direct to packers from other markets, hardly enough remained to test quotations.
